Bolinas Cleanup Order Bogged Down In Confusion

Fast Crackdown Urged On Unclean Dwellings

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County supervisors order last week to the county administration to clean up the Bolinas area by cracking down on unsanitary dwelling in vehicles and ramshackle shelters appeared today to have bogged down in legalities and interdepartmental confusion.

County Administrator John F. Barrows — under pressure from county supervisors — called a hurried meeting of responsible county department heads to iron out problems causing the delay.

Supervisors last week ordered the planning, building and health departments to enforce county ordinances dealing with illegal dwellings.

The board's action came at the urging of several Bolinas residents who said more and more transcient youths were moving into their area without proper sanitary facilities.

As reported yesterday, owners of more than a dozen illegal vehicles were warned by the planning department to bring their "mobile homes" up to standards and acquire permits, or move on.

However, the Independent-Journal learned late yesterday the county counsel's office had advised the planning department not to cite violators today but instead wait upon a "concerted effort" by all departments.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said he was concerned over the legal basis of prosecuting violators soley on the basisof the county zoning ordinance requiring permits.

He said his office would have a stronger case in court if those residing illegally could be cited also for violating health and safety regulations because of lack of sanitary facilities.

County Counsel Maloney and County Administrator Barrows said they did not know why the various county departments had failed to coordinated their efforts with the planning department which began last Thursday as ordered by the board of supervisors.

Herbert Wimmer, chief of building inspection, said yesterday his department had not received notice from Barrows of the get-tough procedure until yesterday, a week after the supervisors issued their ukase.

Wimmer said one of his four inspectors is on vacation and the number of complaints from elsewhere in the county was running unusually high.

He said his department generally responds only to official complaints from residents and that he had not received any from the Bolinas area — target of the county crackdown.

Director of Environmental Health William L. Desmond likewise said he had just received Barrows's notice, but also said his office has been and would continue to enforce health standards in Bolinas.

A check of records, however, showed that the last citation written by his office for a health violation in West Marin was nearly two years ago — November 1970.

Whether today's hurriedly-called meeting of county officials would lead to resumption of cleaning up the Bolinas area this week was uncertain.

Meanwhile, in West Marin,

Larkspur Aides Invited To Party

By PAT PERRY

Alice and Paul Vincilione, long embroiled with the City of Larkspur over their attempt to grade and develop the Tiscornia Estate lands, have invited Larkspur's elected and appointed officials to a cocktail party Saturday.

The officials are of various mind about the propriety of attending since the Vinciliones and the city are involved in a law suit over the development.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon said he and his wife will attend the party. "Do you want us to tell the I-J whenever we get invited to parties," he told a reporter. "We would like to be able to lead our own personal life."

Mayor William G. Fleckles, who went to a similar Vincilione party last year, said he won't attend because his wife is to undergo surgery Saturday.

But councilmen Joan Sestak, Alfred J. Malvino and Robert H. Lee said they have declined the invitation.

Mrs. Sestak said, "I felt it was inappropriate for me to attend. We are the city. And the city and the Tiscornia Estate are still awaiting the outcome of the suit." Lee and Malvino expressed similar views, the latter saying, "I just don't think it's proper when there's litigation under way."

Planning Commissioner Charles Curley also said he didn't think it would be appropriate to attend.

Planning Commissioner Leonard S. Rubin said he doesn't know if he'll attend the party, and chairman Otto Hoefler said he wasn't invited.

Larkspur's legal hassle centers on the Tiscornia Estate leading up to Baltimore Canyon, run by Alice B. Copeland Vincilione and her husband, Paul, and their illegal grading of Little King Mountain.

On July 17 Judge McGuire issued a temporary injunction against the estate forbidding further grading at least until May 1973, after concluding from testimony that more than 500 cubic yards had been moved both last October and between February and May this year without a required permit.

But the judge has not yet ruled on the Vincilione's countersuit, on whether the city council and planning commission justifiably turned down a permit to move up to 350,000 cubic yards of dirt from the crown of Little King to the flat land across Magnolia Avenue.

Acting city atty. Peter Brekhus said today that no word on the judge's decision on that case has yet been received, and there is no indication when it will be.

Mrs. Vincilione said Saturday's affair "is just a party we give annually to friends and acquaintances." She said they

Homeowner Taxes To Edge Up

The average Marin County homeowner will pay about $1,014 in property taxes this fiscal year, $5.30 more than last year, county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell reported yesterday.

Mitchell said he reached that conclusion after studying the fiscal 1972-73 tax rates set by Marin's 71 separate taxing jurisdictions.

Overall, he said, taxes to be levied by the 71 agencies average 7.8 per cent higher than last fiscal year for a total tax levy of $86.9 million.

Mitchell said he average homeowner owns a $38,500 house which was not reappraised by the county assessor. The $750 homeowner's exemption was applied.

The increase generally was caused by higher tax rates set by school districts, cities and special districts, he said. The county this year lowered its rate by 14 cents to $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation.

(It should be noted that the average homeowner was arrived at through countywide averaging. It's doubtful there are many homes in Belvedere, for instance, selling for $38,500.)

Using the major taxing code area for each of Marin's 11 cities, the auditor-controller found that the average homeowner would pay more in taxes in eight cities and less in three.

Cities in which the owner of a $38,500 home would pay less are Fairfax, $15.71 less; Larkspur, $4.17; and Sausalito, $4.79.

Cities in which the "average homeowner" would pay more are Belvedere, $5.60 more; Corte Madera $10.47; Mill Valley, $20.50; Ross, $38.41; San Anselmo, $20.68; San Rafael, $6.03; Novato, $18.10, and Tiburon, $10.47.

In unincorprated sections of the county, the "average homeowner" would pay $45.98 more in West Marin, $13.85 less in Terra Linda, 18 cents less in Marinwood, $16.60 less in Kentfield and $19.44 more in Loma Verde.

A tax rate booklet covering all 382 taxing code areas in Marin is being published and will be available in the county auditor-controller's office.

Big Russian Trade Deal Seen As Kissinger Leaves Moscow

LONDON (UPI)—Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger today ended three days of talks with Soviet leaders reported aimed at a multi-billion dollar U.S.-Russian trade deal and flew into London for talks with British leaders on outstanding European and international problems.

Kissinger declined to comment in Moscow on Soviet reports his three days of talks with Party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev had resolved differences holding up the trade agreement, but western diplomatic sources in Moscow said "there probably is something" to the Soviet report.

"I've spent most of my time here in meetings with Mr. Brezhnev," Kissinger told reporters at Moscow's Vnukovo 2 Airport. He declined to expand on his remarks but said there would be an announcement "in due course." One report said the trade deal could be as much as $5 billion.

Top security precautions were taken at Heathrow airport, with police patrolling terminal roof tops, as the U.S. Air Force jet carrying Kissinger taxied into position. Police surrounded the plane while Scotland Yard officers and American security guards screened the area.

Kissinger was meeting British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home this afternoon and thereafter was to confer with Prime Minister Edward Heath, at the latter's official country residence in Chequers.

Diplomatic sources in London expected Kissinger to inform the British leaders of some of the international aspects of his talks with Brezhnev, notably any projected moves toward a European Security Conference and the overall future Western course toward the Soviet-led Communist bloc.

Britain stands ready to accept the Finnish-proposed Nov. 22 date for preparatory multilateral talks in Helsinki on the projected 35-nation European Security conference, perhaps to be held next year.

But formal acceptance hinges on some gesture from Moscow which would signify Soviet willingness to agree to exploratory talks on American-sought balanced East-West force reductions in Central Europe.

So far there has been no such known gesture from the Kremlin, unless Kissinger received it in his confidential talks there in the past three days. The Communist newspaper Pravda said today in Moscow there are no grounds for delaying the Helsinki talks.

Kissinger flies to Paris Friday for talks with French President Georges Pompidou and there were persistent reports he would meet Le Duc Tho, the top Hanoi official in Paris, for more secret talks on ending the Vietnam War. Communist diplomats in London said Moscow has been urging Hanoi to settle with the United States but had made no progress.

Guardedly optimistic diplomatic reports in the past few days have predicted some progress in the weeks to come in the Paris peace talks, but above all in the secret Kissinger-Tho contracts.

Soviet officials placed a blanket of secrecy on the talks from the moment Kissinger and his five-man delegation arrived from Washington Sunday. They announced only that Kissinger had attended a luncheon given for him by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Tuesday.

But Victor Louis, a Soviet journalist with close contacts among the Kremlin leadership, reported in a London newspaper that the talks had resolved differences holding up a new U.S.-Soviet trade agreement along with U.S. credits to finance it.

Senate Ends Arms Pact Bottleneck

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted today to halt its month-long squabble over the new Soviet-American arms control agreement and put the ratification issue to a vote, possibly by nightfall.

The move was a tactical defeat for arms control advocates fighting a White House-backed amendment they claimed would jeopardize further negotiations with the Russians and sour the atmosphere of detente.

A leadership move to impose cloture — limiting further debate on the issue to one hour per Senator — mustered the necessary two-thirds vote, on the first try, a very rare occurrence.

The vote was 76 to 15, or 15 more than the margin required. It was only the 10th time in history that cloture was invoked on the first attempt. California's two Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney, both Democrats, voted for the measure.

This cleared the way for an immediate showdown on an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a bitter opponent of the arms agreement, demanding "equality" in the size and numbers of missiles deployed by both sides when a permanent treaty is negotiated to replace the five-year arms agreement.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., charging that Jackson's plan would jeopardize further arms negoitation, offered a substitute calling for "overall equality, parity and sufficiency" in all types of weapons. The Senate voted this down 48 to 38.

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee from both parties fought the Jackson amendment, contending it would create a rigid condition for the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) when they resume this fall.

$2.25 Million Bond Voting Set Tuesday

San Rafael residents in a special election Tuesday will vote on a $2.25 million bond issue aimed at preserving some of the city's fast disappearing open space.

The measure at the outset would cost taxpayers about 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with the levy gradually decreasing over a 25-year period. The cost to the owner of a $50,000 home, for example, would be $12.25 the first year.

A two-thirds majority of the vote cast is needed to pass the bond issue.

Some 21 parcels totaling 3,837 acres with an aggregate market value of $12 million on county assessment rolls have been listed for possible acquisition by the San Rafael Planning Department if the bond is authorized. Development proposals are pending in various stages on eight of the parcels.

After holding public hearings, the city council will draw up a priority list of parcels to acquire from the list — assuming the bond money becomes available.

In the event of bond passage, the council is expected to focus attention on the eight parcels for which development has already been proposed. These lands include:

The Larwin property of 148 acres northeast of the civic center between the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and Gallinas Creek. A proposal for 1,421 townhouse units plus commercial recreation has been made for the property.

Pinto Ridge, 183 acres from the end of Ridgewood Avenue in Rafael Highlands to an extension of Del Haro Way in Terra Linda, on which 295 townhouse units and single-family dwellings are proposed.

The Robert Dollar estate of 11.1 acres fronting Mission Avenue, on which 80 units of townhouses and condominium apartments have been proposed.

Peacock Gap Unit 5, a 72-acre parcel at McNear and Peacock drives which has been proposed for subdivision into 170 single-family dwelling units.

San Rafael Cayes, a 121-acre parcel in east San Rafael on an extension of Canal Street, proposed for 1,557 apartment units.

Oak Hill, 18 acres along an

GOP Files Countersuit In Bugging

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's campaign committee has filed a $2.5 million countersuit against the Democrats, alleging that the Democrats' bugging charges were aimed at capturing newspaper headlines.

The GOP suit, filed in the U.S. District Court Wednesday, charged invasion of privacy and violation of First Amendment rights. It also said the Democrats were using the taking of depositions as a means of making accusations that would constitute libel if published without benefit of the court proceedings.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, campaign manager for Sen. George S. McGovern, was named in the suit. O'Brien was Democratic national chairman and principal plaintiff when the Democrats filed their $1 million suit against the five bugging suspects.

The five, including two who had received funds from President Nixon's re-election committee, were arrested on burglary charges June 17 during an alleged attempt to plant electronic surveillance equipment inside Democratic national headquarters.

In other developments Wednesday:

—The Democrats reported finding another purported bug, "a small black device," in the telephone of Spencer Oliver, executive director of the state chairmen's association of the Democratic National Committee. Last week the Democrats found a "little red box," allegedly for electronic surveillance.

—Maurice Stans, finance chairman of Nixon's re-election committee, dismissed as "politically motivated" a House Banking Committee report that Stans had knowledge of $100,000 in Mexican funds illegally transferred to Nixon's campaign fund.

Demos 'Hurt U.S., Red Trade': Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz accused Democratic critics of jeopardizing U.S. trade with the Communist bloc today as the administration announced the sale of about 15 million bushels of wheat to mainland China.

Butz stoutly defended the administration's huge wheat deal with the Soviet Union, and singled out Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern for particularly sharp criticism, in testimony before a House agriculture subcommittee headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex.

At about the same time, the Agriculture Department's Export Marketing Service announced the wheat sales to China, confirming reports which circulated Wednesday.

Butz, asked about the relatively small Chinese sale, said he understood that for some time Chinese spokesmen had been in contact with an international grain trade firm identified only as a French-based company. On Monday, Butz said, the firm filed a statement with the Agriculture Department applying for export subsidy on 20 million bushels of U. S. wheat for China.

Butz, who has been engaged in a heated, long-range debate with McGovern over the U.S.-Soviet grain agreement, told Purcell's panel:

"The partisan attacks on this historic sale to Russia, and the poor judgment displayed, are jeopardizing the present and future sales of American farm products, and all commercial products, to the Soviet Union."

Brown Suing To Remove Prop. 22 From Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —In an unprecendented action, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. today filed a lawsuit seeking to remove the controversial farm labor initiative from the November ballot. (See other story, page 5.)

Brown said that petition signatures to qualify the measure contained forgeries and were "unlawfully obtained by means of fraud unprecendented in the history of California."

The suit seeking to strike the initiative, designated Prop. 22, was filed in the Sacramento County Superior Court it named as defendants Sacramento County Clerk William Durley, James S. Allison, Los Angeles County registrar and recorder, and Joy G. Jameson, of Corona, the official proponent of the measure.

An aide to Brown said it was the first time in California history that a secretary of state had filed such a suit after he had certified an intitiative for the ballot.

Price Panel Chief Denies Fraud Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — C. Jackson Grayson, chairman of the Price Commission, has denied charges by the United Auto Workers that government haarings on car prices are a "political charade" and a "fraud."

Grayson reacted Wednesday to an 11-page letter from UAW president Leonard Woodcock read during the second day of commission hearings.

Prior to reading Woodcock's heated letter in the record, Nat Weinberg, the union's special projects director, said the UAW was withdrawing its request to testify.

The letter charged that the hearings were "nothing more than a political charade designed to delay price increases for the major auto corporations until after election day."

Woodcock said the commission's inquiry was a "fraud perpetrated on the American public in order to promote the re-election of President Nixon."

Grayson called Woodcock's charges "categorically untrue. It is absolutely not the case," he said.

The hearings were called after the UAW, along with consumer advocate Ralph Nader, filed suit to force a public airing on the auto price issue. The suit was rejected by a U.S. District Court here but the commission called the hearings anyway.

The commission denied price increase applications from General Motors and Ford on Aug. 29 while similar applications by Chrysler and American Motors were suspended pending results of the hearings.

Woodcock said the session was now virtually meaningless since only Chrysler and American Motors have 1973 hikes pending.

Weinberg said during a question-and-answer session with commission members that the hearings are now largely moot because any significant price increases would not be made until General Motors, the traditional price leader in the industry, sets its prices on next year's cars.

In separate testimony, Fred G. Secrest, Ford vice president and comptroller, said his firm was frustrated and dismayed by the commission's price hike denial. He said the rejection was unfair and "in effect, a government-forced price reduction."

Ex-Governor Flunks Bar Exam

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)— Former New Mexico Gov. David Cargo, who was preparing to move to Oregon, changed his plans Wednesday when he found out he had flunked the Oregon bar exam.

The news leaves Cargo, twice governor of New Mexico and an unsuccessful Republican primary candidate for the Senate in 1970 and 1972, undecided as to future plans, and puzzled over the test results.

"I just can't figure it out. I passed the Michigan and the New Mexico bar exams. I had high marks on both of them," he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Welfare Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite welfare cutbacks in the two most populous states — California and New York — national relief rolls reached another all-time high of 15,089,000 persons in May.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department gave the figure today, reporting federally-financed welfare rolls added another 40,400 persons between April and May. May was the latest month reported.

Local charity rolls unsupported by federal funds dropped 20,000, leaving a net gain of 20,400, but the national total was the highest since the government began compiling national welfare statistics in 1936.

Rahman In India

Mujib, who arrived today from Geneva on his way to Dacca, told newsmen at the Presidential Palace, "If Mr. Bhutto wants to talk with us, it is proper for him to recognize Bangladesh first."

Meeting nearly 100 newsmen at the Presidential Palace immediately after his hour-long talk with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, Mujib said, "You know my stand. Bangladesh is a sovereign country. It can talk to any other country only on that basis."

Relations Resumed

BONN (UPI) — West Germany and Poland today reestablished diplomatic relations for the first time since World War II.

A joint communique was issued at the end of a two-day visit to Bonn by a Polish delegation headed by Foreign Minister Stefan Olszowski.

The communique said the two sides had decided to establish embassies in Bonn and Warsaw, effective today. If said ambassadors would be named "without delay."

Pope's Plea To Man

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI) — Pope Paul VI called on modern man yesterday to be intolerant of impurity, immorality and sexual obsession that drags man into the mud.

"We must realize that impurity is not a right," he said during his weekly general audience at his summer residence in the Alban Hills south of Rome. He said his remarks were addressed especially to young people.

The pontiff appealed to Christians "to be in a state of alert and not to give way to environmental immorality." He said it is not possible to be intolerant about immorality.

"We live in a time in which man's animal nature is degenerating into unleashed corruption," he said. "Man is walking in the mud."

KP May Be Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon, anxious to save its new breed of servicemen from such menial chores as kitchen police, was reported today offering to absorb the half billion dollar annual cost in return for congressional permission to keep hiring civilians to take over the traditional GI jobs.

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., a member of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee and close associate of some top military figures, told the House he had been authorized to transmit the Pentagon offer, which he said he supported.

Sikes prepared an amendment to a pending $74.6 billion defense money bill to strike a proposed requirement that the armed services by April 30 end their efforts to "civilianize" KP and other such detail work.

Lansky 'Undesirable'

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Interior Minister Joseph Burg said today it would be "undesirable and dangerous" for alleged American underworld chieftain Meyer Lansky to remain in Israel.

The supreme court ruled Monday that Lansky had to leave the country, rejecting his application for citizenship. In effect, it agreed with the Interior Ministry that he was a "threat to public safety."

In an interview with the Jerusalem Post, Burg said there was no evidence linking Lansky to crime in Israel and said:

"His remaining seemed to me both undesirable and dangerous, whether the danger was of organized crime in Israel or of Israel becoming the center of illegal activities abroad."

Plastic Surgery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A team of five doctors, headed by a plastic surgeon, operated for two hours yesterday on entertainer Ann-Margret's battered face and injured leg — at her request choosing a more painful surgical treatment to leave fewer scars.

Earlier diagnoses that she had broken a kneecap — and might limp for the rest of her life — proved unfounded, doctors said.

But her husband, Roger Smith, said it still wasn't known whether she would ever again be able to perform the energetic dance routines she was famous for.

Gunman Killed While Robbing Belfast Pub

BELFAST (UPI)—A gunman trying to rob a Belfast bar died in a battle with a plainclothes policeman early today, but not before seriously wounding the officer, an army spokesman said.

The gun fight in a bar catering to British army veterans broke out less than three hours after two gunmen sprayed another bar with submachine gun fire, killing one man and wounding a second.

The deaths, the first since Monday, raised the toll in three years of Ulster violence to 559 killed.

Police said they suspected the robber at the Hill Foot Bar was a member of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) trying to raise funds for the outlawed movement. He was foiled by a policeman drinking a beer in the bar, who pulled his own pistol and fatally wounded the man.

"As the robber fell, he turned to the officer and fired one shot before dying," the spokesman said. "The bullet hit the officer in the stomach."

Earlier in the evening two men burst into the Divis Castle Bar in the Springfield Road area and sprayed the room with submachine gun fire without warning.

The bullets killed one man standing with his back to the door drinking beer and wounded a second. The gunmen escaped.

Police were initially unable to identify the two men shot, but said they suspected it was an assassination attempt despite the indiscriminate firing.

Earlier Wednesday Protestant mobs rampaged through the streets of a Belfast suburb, attacked policemen and tried to burn down a municipal building where a group of local police officers sought safety.

A spokesman said the mobs formed after 16 Protestants were jailed on arms charges in Carrick Fergus, eight miles north of Belfast.

They drove the police into the town hall, then tried to set the building ablaze before police reinforcements drove them off with baton charges, he said.

Egypt: U.S. Also Should Condemn Israeli Actions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt has taken exception to a message from Secretary of State William P. Rogers urging a world campaign against guerrilla attacks because the statement fails to mention "Zionist terrorism," political sources in Cairo said today.

The message was delivered Wednesday to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Hassan el Zayyat by an official of the U.S. interests section at the Spanish embassy but the sources said the government would not answer it immediately.

The Arabs have long contended the Israelis carry out as much guerrilla warfare as Palistinian commandoes.

Zayyat said the message dealt with recent guerrilla attacks urged Egypt as well as other countries to ratify international agreements aimed at countering such acts, he said.

"The government of Egypt, as well as all Arab governments and peoples had hoped that this concern would have prompted the American government to...destroy the evil at its very roots, and not content itself with a study of results and manifestations," Zayyat said.

"Zionist gangs have imposed their terrorism on the Arab region for 25 years, until this terrorism bore fruit and manifested its success in the expulsion of Palestinians from their homes, the usurpation of their rights and the colonization of their land," Zayyat said.

The Egyptian cabinet conferred for seven hours Wednesday on relations with West Germany following accusations and counteraccusations over the Sept. 5 slaying of 11 Israeli atheletes by Arab guerrillas in Munich.

West German Ambassador Hans-Georg Steltzer earlier denied Egyptian charges that Bonn was taking part in an "American-Israeli plot to justify Israeli aggressions on Syria and Lebanon."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Commerce and Industry Minister Haim Bar-Lev said security for Israeli notables traveling abroad was being tightened.

"It is obvious we cannot provide a guard for every Israeli abroad, but I can assure you that security for future Israeli delegations will be radically different from those at Munich," he said.

An inforced source in Tel Aviv said Wednesday Israel has launched a top-level investigation into its own security breakdown at the Olympic Village. The source said both West Germany and Israel "had enough advance information...to take the proper precautions." He said he could not explain how the Arab guerrillas still got inside "but this is going to be investigated."

Some Billboards Get A Reprieve

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ignoring administration objections, the Senate has voted to impose a two-year moratorium on tearing down federal highway billboards that offer "specific information in the interest of the traveling public."

The Senate voted 43-31 Wednesday against an attempt by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to remove the moratorium from a federal highway aid bill.

Moratorium backers said the measure was intended only to retain signs that direct motorists to gas stations, restaurants and other services until an alternative can be developed to offer motorists the information.

PROBLEM OF COWBOY LIFE

Stacy Merryman, 4, of Corte Madera, thinks she knows why cowboys are reputed always to die with their boots on, as pal Paul Kaye of San Rafael tugs to remove the footgear. The two were trying out their costumes for the Grand National Livestock Esposition, Horse Show and Rodeo's "Littlest Cowboy" contest set for Oct. 14. Deadline is Oct. 11 for obtaining entry blanks for 3-to-10-year-old boys' and girls' costume competition from the contest manager at the Cow Palace, P.O. Box 34206, San Francisco 94134.

'Shoot It Out' With Hijackers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Citing the violent nature of recent airline hijackings, a federal official said Wednesday airlines should use military personnel prepared to "shoot it out" with hijackers.

Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., assistant U.S. secretary of transportation for safety and consumer affairs, said there has been a change in the nature of the airline hijacker.

Once they were men who wanted only a "free ride to Cuba" but, now they have an "interest in political aims and ransom" and do not care about lives or property, he said.

Noting some airlines already permit pilots to carry weapons, Davis said he favors military personnel as airline pilots.

Beef Supplies On The Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In another indication of rising beef supplies for consumers, the Agriculture Department has reported a continued increase in the number of cattle being readied for slaughter in feedlots.

The department's Statistical Reporting Service (SRS) said the number of cattle and calves on feed Sept. 1 in six states in which monthly records are kept was up 17 per cent from a year earlier.

The increases included 32 per cent in Texas, 18 per cent in Arizona, 16 per cent in Nebraska and California, 14 per cent in Colorado and 2 per cent in Iowa.

Abrams' Testimony 'Contradictory'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in four hours of testimony on unauthorized bombing raids against North Vietnam clearly contradicted earlier statements by Gen. John D. Lavelle, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss, said Wednesday.

Stennis said he was not surprised by the conflict, but did not disclose its nature. Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, which has questioned Lavelle and Abrams in closed session this week.

Abrams' nomination to be Army chief of staff has been delayed because of Lavelle's admissions of bombing North Vietnam in violation of President Nixon's orders for protective reaction strikes only. Lavelle indicated in House testimony last June that Abrams knew of the violations.

"There's a conflict between the testimony of Gen. Abrams and Gen. Lavelle that will have to be resolved by the committee," Stennis said after Abrams' appearance Wednesday. "I'm not surprised at the conflict, the testimony has been so voluninous. It's inconclusive yet."

The hearings were to resume late today with Air Force Sgt. Lonnie Franks, 23, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Franks' letter to Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, saying that U.S. pilots had violated Nixon's orders led to the retirement of Lavelle, former commander of the 7th Air Force in Southeast Asia, and the inquiry that has delayed Abrams' promotion.

Despite the controversy, there seemed little doubt that the committee ultimately will approve Abrams, for four years U.S. commander in Vietnam, as the top soldier in the Army.

Two senators—Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Peter Dominick, R-Colo.—in dispute over how much Lavelle's superiors including Abrams knew of the violations both agreed Wednesday to support Abrams' nomination.

Sen. William B. Saxbe, RO-hio, gave newsmen the first public information available on the precise nature of Lavelle's violation of Nixon's orders.

Under the rules, in force because the administration was trying to get peace negotiations underway in Paris, American aircraft were limited to striking North Vietnamese targets on three conditions:

—When fired upon;

—If an enemy aircraft was in the vicinity of the American aircraft which were flying reconnaissance flights;

—If surface-to-air (SAM) missile radars were activated.

Lavelle, however, on his own authority, admitted that he ordered his pilots to attack when ground control intercept (GCI) radars were activated,9too, regardless of whether they were fired on.

Lavelle insisted, however, according to Saxbe, he never gave any orders for false reports that would indicate retaliation was within the prescribed rules.

An Air Force investigation showed that there were 28 unauthorized raids involving 147 aircraft.

'VC' Leave Mark On City Tombstone

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some tombstones in San Francisco's Mission Dolores, founded in 1776, carry the wording: "killed by the V.C."

"V.C." does not stand for Viet Cong but for Vigilance Committee, the vigilante movement of the 1850s that was the largest of its kind in American history.The vigilantes wanted to wrest control of the government from the Irish Catholic Democrats.

A Penal Kickback For Marin

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Commitments of Marin youths and adults to state penal institutions during the 1971-72 fiscal year reached 23 against a projected 45, the state Youth Authority reported today.

The reduction entitles Marin County to $88,000 under a state law which provides subsidies to counties in return for reductions in levels of commitment, said Allen F. Breed, authority director.

Marin will actually collect only $22,000 since it participated in the program only for the last quarter of the fiscal year.

The subsidy must be used to provide intensive probation programs for youthful and adult offenders, Breed said.

Statewide, the expected commitments were reduced by 5,266, the greatest reduction since the program began in 1966. Commitments have been reduced by a total of 20,567 during the six-year period.

Sonoma County had 33 commitments, 67 less than expected for a subsidy of $268,000.

Seven Sentenced For Drunk Driving

Seven persons have been sentenced by Judge Robert A. Smallman in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Monday were:

Thomas Calvin Miller Jr., 33, of 119 Madrone Avenue, San Anselmo, arrested March 1 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Neil Whitney Halvorsen, 42, of San Francisco, arrested May 29 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Sentenced Tuesday were:

Alan Joseph Trombla, 44, of 29 Ridge Road, Fairfax, arrested July 12 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Joseph Patrick McKenna, 24, of 4 Greenfield Court, San Anselmo, arrested May 7 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $360.

James G. Vierling, 41, of San Francisco, arrested June 29 on Paradise Drive, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Robert Arthur Sandahl, 51, of 260 Canal Street, Apt. 214, San Rafael, arrested July 2 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Raymond Stanley Robb, 28, of Fairfield, arrested June 2 on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, placed on probation for one year and sentenced to five days in jail.

Boat Ban Urged At Lake Tahoe

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (UPI)—A study of the Lake Tahoe shoreline says power boats should be banned from certain prime fish habitats and spawning grounds.

Dr. Anthony Orme, a consultant to the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (TRPA), said Wednesday 25 miles or 35 per cent of the lake's 71-mile shoreline is spawning zones. However, he did not specify the exact areas which he believes should be placed off-limits to power boats.

Orme was hired by the TRPA to draw up a shoreline protection plan.

DRIVE AGAINST GUERRILLAS

Israel's Target — Syria

By JOHN K. COOLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BEIRUT, LEBANON — Syria is the main target of Israel's announced new military, political, and psychological drive to eliminate the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

Close to 10,000 guerrillas operate in Syria, under varying restrictions from President Hafez al-Assad's army and administration.

This adds to the pressures already generated against General Assad by Egyptian President Anwar al-Sadat's decision last July to remove Russian advisers from Egypt.

Syria still had Soviet advisers and President Assad has said they are needed. But Moscow is not especially well disposed toward the Palestine guerrillas.

A number of recent commentaries from the Kremlin have called on the guerrillas — both before and after their attack on the Israeli Olympic team at Munich — to abandon terrorism and turn instead to organized political activity under sponsorship of one unifying Palestinian organization.

The Iraqui chief of state, General Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr, sent President Assad an urgent message September 10, Damascus radio reported.

Arab diplomats here said they believed it was an offer of Iraqui military support in case of renewed Israeli attacks. The last troops stationed in Syria left when the Arab eastern front command ceased operations two years ago.

Iraq and Syria are ruled by rival clans of the Baath (Arab Socialist) Party which are not on good terms.

There are many signs that General Assad was alarmed by the decline in Moscow-Cairo relations. Syrian news media repeatedly warned Egypt, which with Libya is Syrias's partner in the Confederation of Arab Republics, against its drive for better relations with Western Europe.

"You cannot trust the Western European states," these Syrian commentaries said in effect. "Their interests are too closely involved with Israel and the United States. They cannot be true friends of the Arabs." This of course also is Moscow's message to the Arabs. In any case, Cairo's campaign of charm in Western Europe has been largely spiked by the Munich events.

Shortly before the Munich attack, the Kremlin sent a top-level message to General Assad, hand-carried by a Soviet deputy foreign minister. It is believed to have included a warning against possible major Israeli action and a reminder that Syria, at such a time, could not "denude" itself of Soviet protection by spurning Soviet help and advisers.

The dogfight with Israeli planes September 9, in which three Syrian Sukhoi's were lost, dramatized the fact that the Syrian air force needs much more rebuilding. Aside form the military problems and the difficult Palestinian issue, there are basic political differences between the positions of Syria and Egypt.

Egypt, like Jordon, supports and is officially seeking peace on the basis of UN Security Council Resolution 242 of November, 1967, which would leave Israel intact inside its 1967 frontiers.

Syria opposes this. It still is dedicated to the same "war of national liberation" against Israel as the Palestinians are.

This Syrian hardness of attitude is related to differing ways in which Israel talks about occupied Syrian and occupied Egyptian territory.

Israeli leaders, including Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, have often said that Sinai, or at least part of Sinai, is negotiable whereas the Golan Heights of Syria are not. New Jewish settlements are being installed much faster in Golan than in Sinai.

Damascus is certain that it has nothing to hope for from any peace settlement. Therefore it is not interested. This is what makes the new Arab-Israeli fighting following the Munich events doubly dangerous.

have invited many city officials and staff, but they will be a small minority among the guests.

She said of the pending litigation, "I don't think that you absolutely have to be unfriendly with people just because you have a difference of opinion."

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said he has been invited, along with several other city employees, and refused to say if he will attend. At Monday's special meeting of the Larkspur City Council, Bathurst was rebuked by the council for ineffectual policing of the illegal grading.

Mayor Fleckles said, after a long closed session, that Bathurst and other city staff members had been guilty of an "error of judgement" in the Little King controversy, but there had been no evidence of collusion.

The Vinciliones hosted a similar party in June last year, which was attended by councilmen Fleckles, Brixon and Earl J. O'Grady, Mrs. Sestak's predecessor, plus two planning commissioners, several members of the park and recreation commission and the library board.

Others on that occasion, too, questioned the propriety.

Mrs. Sestak said she went to the party last year as a library board member, feeling there was "no possible conflict of interest."

OBITUARIES

Harvey R. Crotts Of Bolinas

Harvey R. Crotts, longtime Bolinas resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 62.

A native of Willits, he had lived in Bolinas for 43 years. The family home is at 23 Wharf Road.

Until his retirement in November, he was mill superintendent on the rock crusher at Hutchinson Quarry in Greenbrae for 17 years.

Crotts was a charter member of the Bolinas Volunteer Fire Department and served as a fire commissioner for the Bolinas Fire Protection District. He was an elder of Calvary Presbyterian Church.

He was a member of Marin County Operating Engineers Union 3 and of American Legion Post 572, Bolinas.

During World War II, he served with the Army's 55th Station Hospital in North Africa and Italy and received the Purple Heart.

He is survived by his wife, Annie, of the family home, by two sons, H. Roland Crotts Jr. of Larkspur and I. James Crotts of Bolinas, and by a sister, Irene Sousa of Fremont.

Funeral will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at Calvary Presbyterian Church, Wharf Road and Brighton Avenue, Bolinas. Burial will be in Presbyterian Cemetery, Bolinas.

Friends may call at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, until 9 p.m. tomorrow.

ALICE FIELDS

Alice Wake Fields, a retired teacher living at Nazareth House in San Rafael, died today after a brief illness.

She had lived in San Rafael for four years after teaching in the San Francisco school system since the mid-1920s. She was born in San Geronimo. She was a member of Golden Gate Unit 40, American Legion Auxiliary.

She is survived by a son, Harry T. Fields of Colorado Springs, Colo., and by two brothers, Frank Wake of Vallejo and Arthur Wake in Florida.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of Nazareth House. The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the chapel. Friends may call until 5 p.m. tomorrow at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Burial will be private.

A. B. SWEETSER

Funeral for Arthur Balch Sweetser, 49, father of Alison and Sarah Sweetser of San Anselmo, was held yesterday in Palo Alto.

Sweetser, an architect with Ernest J. Kump Associates of Palo Alto, died Saturday in a fall from a six-story building he had designed at Ricky's Hyatt House in Palo Alto. He also had designed buildings for Foothill College, Cabrillo College, Mills College and other schools.

He was a veteran of World War II and a graduate of Stanford University and the Harvard School of Design.

He also is survived by a sister, Adelaide Matters of Palo Alto.

Cremation was at Alta Mesa Memorial Park, Palo Alto.

REV. DONOHOE

A concelebrated Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday for the Rev. John A. Donohoe, S.J., in St. Ignatius Church, San Francisco. He was a brother of James K. Donohoe of San Rafael.

Father Donohoe died Tuesday in Los Angeles, where he was a longtime member of the Loyola University history department.

Born in San Francisco, he was ordained to the priesthood in St. Mary's Cathedral in 1947, after graduating from St.Ignatius High School and the University of San Francisco.

He also is survived by his mother, Nellie Donohoe, and another brother, Daniel F. Donohoe, both of San Francisco.

His body will lie in state at St. Ignatius Church beginning at 4 p.m. tomorrow and the Rosary will be recited there at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Santa Clara Catholic Cemetery.

Pay Hike Decision Postponed

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night postponed a decision on firemen's request for a five per cent pay hike, according to Chairman Peter J. Ferrarese.

The Novato Professional Firemen's Association, seeking a five per cent pay hike, has offered to take a 3.25 per cent pay hike and the remainder in a dental plan.

The firemen contend that $22,465 in the district budget reserve was allocated for a pay increase and that directors had promised to bring salaries up to the average pay of other firemen in Marin.

The board adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Sept. 27 at fire headquarters. Commissioner Joseph Silveira, on vacation, was absnet.

Medal To Honor French Explorer

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — Medals commemorating the murder by Maoris of French explorer Marion du Fresne on June 12, 1772, are being struck by the Auckland Numismatic Society.

Du Fresne and some of his crew were killed in the Bay of Islands for infringing sacred Maori rites and undermining the power of local chiefs.

The medals — 10 gold, 200 silver and 300 copper — depict Du Fresne's murder, and his two ships, Mascarina and the Marquis de Castries.

Tunney, Wife Are Reconciled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John V. Tunney and his wife of 13 years have reconciled.

The office of the California Democrat said yesterday that Mrs. Tunney, 35, has returned to the family home here with their three children.

Mrs. Tunney sued for divorce in May, citing irreconciliable differences.

GRAZ, Austria (UPI)—The city administration presents a free baby package stocked with every necessity for newborns and worth $20 to every mother in Austria's second largest city. The parcel is given to the mother on the day after her child is born.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Dan Deep, The Scuba Diver

Dan Deep saw an ad on the YMCA bulletin board for a $35 scuba diving course. Dan signed up for the course taught by Tom Tuna. The instructor donated his services to the "Y" and received no pay for teaching the course. The "Y" provided some equipment; the students bought the rest.

Tom was not a certified instructor and there was no life saving instruction included in the course. Equipment was not regularly checked because of the high cost of testing air cylinders.

Dan went with his class on an ocean dive without a life vest or an air regulator. Something went wrong and Dan suffered severe lung and nerve damage. He sued the "Y" for damages. Officials claimed that the "Y" was merely a volunteer allowing the notice of the class to be posted. And said that it had no control over the instructor.

The court ruled that the "Y" could be held liable. It said that the "Y" appeared to allow the instructor to act for them. Upon completion of the course, the "Y" gave each student a certificate. It also accepted the $35 fee for the course and allowed it to be advertised under the "Y" auspices. Thus, even if Tom were an independent contractor, the "Y" had a duty to exercise some control. In aiding an "inherently dangerous" program, the "Y" had to take special precautions.

For many years "charities" were not liable to their beneficiaries. Under early law, a chairty patient of a hospital, or the beneficiary of a charity could not sue his "benefactor." Today a charity is liable for injuries just like any other organization. Often the charity patient or beneficiary is least able to bear the loss.

Any charity that "sponsors" a program has some duty to review what it sponsors. The charity does not guarantee the safety of those benefits, but it must take precautions against dangers that can be "reasonably anticipated."

Marinite Booked On Theft Charge

A 21-year-old Mill Valley man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing license plates and a tire after he allegedly tried to buy the tire with an invalid credit card, sheriff's deputies reported today.

The man, Daniel John Pasquale, of 240 Redwood Highway, tried to purchase a tire from the Texaco service station on Frontage Road, sheriff's deputies reported. The attendant at the station started phoning for verification of the credit card and Pasquale reportedly fled.

He was picked up by sheriff's deputies on Ricardo Road in Strawberry and arrested on suspicion of possessing false evidence of registration, stolen license plates and the stolen tire.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where he remains in lieu of $5,000 bail. He was scheduled to appear in Marin County Court today.

Suit Against Synanon Dropped

OAKLAND (UPI) — The first of three child custody suits attacking the influence of Synanon Foundation on children was dropped Wednesday by the plaintiff after a few hours of trial.

Larry S. Stewart, 32, a Kaiser Industries public relations man, had attacked the life style of Synanon's schools in a suit for custody of his son, Scott, 7, from his ex-wife, Edna, 26, a registered nurse at Synanon.

But after testimony that the boy was undergoing treatment at the Synanon school for a serious eye ailment, Stewart's attorney announced that the suit would be dropped.

Sebastopol Man To Get Hearing

A 21-year-old Sebastopol man charged with trying to burglarize a San Anselmo market pleaded innocent yesterday and a preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 3 in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said they responded to an anonymous call about someone trying to break into the Bill and Beth Grocery Store at 1513 San Anselmo Avenue and allegedly found Wardell trying to enter a rear window.

CLEANUP

some residents have reportedly joined together to hire legal assistance in fighting the county crackdown.

Bolinas Attorney Paul D. Kayfetz said yesterday he had been asked to represent some of those threatened by the county's ordinances.

Charging the county was acting "in a heavy-handed manner," Kayfetz said he would appeal to the board of supervisors Tuesday for a more lenient approach.

"Many of the people affected are not transcients but are attempting to establish homes in Bolinas," he said. "A lot of them are panicking... many have children just starting school."

He suggested that instead of a 72-hour warning, those in substandard dwellings be given 30 days to comply with regulations.

Kayfetz said his discussions indicated many of those affected agree with the county's crackdown on unsanitary conditions but feel more time is needed.

FDA To Order Safe Containers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said yesterday it will order that pesticides and similar household poisons be sold only in "childproof" containers.

The FDA said the action is necessary to reduce the number of children sickened or killed by accidentally swallowing such common highly toxic substances as insecticides, rat poison and weed-killer.

Safety containers will be required when such substances are sold in packages of less than one gallon in liquid form or five pounds or less in solid form, the agency said.

Shark Season

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (UPI)—Fishermen from the west coast of Johore State have urged the government to help end a shark menace that is costing several nets of catch daily. Previously fishermen in the area had considered pirates their worst enemies.

Burglary Charge Hearing Is Set

A preliminary hearing for two Marin City residents charged with burglarizing a San Rafael service station was set yesterday for Sept. 26 in Marin Municipal Court.

David Walter Pedrico, 36, and Francis Ann Arenado, 32, denied the charges stemming from their arrest Sunday on Highway 101.

According to police, the two were arrested at the Sausalito-Marin City offramp because their car matched the description of one seen leaving the service station at Second and E streets.

An attendant told police he saw a man loading the station cash register containing $100 into a car and driving away.

Pedrico, according to police, was paroled from San Quentin less than three weeks ago.

Richmond Boy Drowning Victim

The victim was Johnny Morgain, who friends later said did not know how to swim.

The youngster had gone to the harbor after school with three friends. Two were ashore, and one was on another float, when the incident occurred.

'Minority Work Program Working'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Chief James E. Stratten of the Division of Apprenticeship Standards, State Department of Industrial Relations, said today the placement of minority race apprenticeship labor is working in a state-approved program.

Stratten said the number of apprentices registering in August was 2,082, the highest since October, 1969, and that the figure reflected the increase of minorities into the program. Nearly 21 per cent of the registered apprentices in the year ended June 20 were minorities, an increase of about two per cent over 1971.

Plead Innocent To Drug Charge

Two persons arrested Friday when suspected marijuana was found in their van pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of having the weed.

A preliminary hearing on the felony for Barbara Gail Cohen, 24, of Forest Knolls and Alvah Sheldon Howard, 22, of no fixed address was set for Oct. 3.

A sheriff's deputy on patrol on North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, stopped to inquire about a license plate wired over another plate on the front of Howard's vehicle.

Nixon Meets With Rizzo, Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met with political allies from the vote-heavy states today after he and his closest advisers had put the finishing touches on his campaign plans.

Nixon chatted with Democratic Mayor Frank Rizzo of Philadelphia and Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York as he resumed business at the White House Oval office following his political skull session at Camp David, Md., Wednesday.

Brown Considers Court Action Against 'Fraud'

FRESNO (UPI)—Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., convinced of fraud in the circulation of petitions for Proposition 22, said Wednesday he was "seriously considering" going to court this week to force the farm labor measure off the November ballot.

Brown also said a 10-county probe into the hotly-debated proposition would be expanded statewide.

"No doubt fraud has occurred," Brown said at a news conference following a meeting with Fresno County District Attorney William C. Daly. "The question is, how widespread is it?"

Brown said he had received over 2,000 complaints about the way signatures were gathered to get the initiative on the ballot including forgeries of names and misrepresentation of what the proposition would do.

He said in some cases petition circulators covered the attorney general summary of the measure, on the petitions, with a card so the signer couldn't read it.

Brown said an examination by his staff of petitions containing 320 signatures from Fresno County showed 33 apparent forgeries and another 43 signatures with other irregularities.

If passed, the proposition would ban secondary food boycotts, require secret ballot union representation elections, establish an Agricultural Labor Relations Board and set a mandatory cooling off period for harvest time strikes.

Cesar Chavez, director of the United Farm Workers union, bitterly opposes the proposition and says it would destroy his union.

United Farm Workers attorney Frank Denison of Delano said Wednesday he had been examining signatures collected in Fresno County and found evidence of "fraud, forgeries, missing dates, altered dates and gross miscounts."

Brown said he had uncovered no evidence county election departments were involved in the fraud.

Mrs. Nick Chalko, one of the persons in charge of the Fresno county petition drive, conceded Wednesday the Attorney General's summary may have been covered with a card on some petitions.

"After we give them (the circulators) the petitions we don't know what they do with them," sie said.

Brown said he had evidence that in at least one county the circulators were instructed by the petition sponsors to place cards over the summary.

He said many petition signers were told Cesar Chavez supported the initiative, that it would lower food prices and establish a minimum income for farm workers. Brown said those allegations are false.

In Kern County, District Attorney Albert Leddy said a handwriting expert had checked 7,329 signatures certified to the Secretary of State and found at least 1,000 which did not appear to match those on registration affidavits.

Other counties involved in the original investigation were San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Clara, Orange, San Diego, San Mateo, Alameda and San Bernardino.

Brown said there had been no complaints about fraud in the gathering of signatures for the marijuana initiative or other propositions on the November ballot.

Corona Prosecutor Hits Hawk Tactics

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—In the strongest words since the trial began, the prosecution charged Wednesday that Juan V. Corona's attorney has "poisoned the mind" of the public about the mass murder case.

Bart Williams, assistant Sutter County district attorney, directed the accusation against Richard Hawk at the end of the trial's third day with the first juror yet to e selected.

"He (Hawk) already has poisoned the mind of the public at large," said Williams, "and feels, as far as pretrial publicity is concerned, that he has the public in his hip pocket."

Hawk, repeatedly ignoring warnings from Superior Court Judge Richard Patton, has consistently accused the prosecution of hiding evidence that would show Corona innocent of slaying 25 migrant workers and urying their bodies along the Feather River.

It was the first time since the trial began that the prosecution sought out newsmen to respond to the defense attorney's attacks on their case and investigations.

Asked by a newsman why the prosecution has suddenly become talkative, Williams said, "We are fighting for our lives. That guy (Hawk) is trying to run away with the battle wagon."

Although dressed down twice Wednesday by the judge in private for his criticism, Hawk refused to tone down his statements as the opposing attorneys began their questioning about pretrial publicity.

Hawk, responding in court to District Attorney G. Dave Teja's complaints about his pretrial remarks, said "anything I may have said to the press was to rebut what that jackass sheriff said."

He was referring to Sutter County Sheriff Roy Whiteaker, who said after Corona's arrest last May, "We are certain he committed the murders."

While talking to newsmen during a break in the trial, Teja also reacted sharply to Hawk's charges that the state is deliberately withholding evidence favorable to Corona.

"That's absolutely false," Teja said. "Anybody who knows me knows that I am an ethical prosecutor and would not suppress evidence."

During the third day of the trial, the defense used its first challenge for cause and removed as a potential juror, Rolland Brown, a Vacaville onion processing plant worker.

Charity To Get More Than Half

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Louis R. Lurie, a self-made multi-millionaire who died Sept. 6 at the age of 84, left more than half his estate to charity, it was disclosed Wednesday when his will was filed for probate.

Attorneys for the estate said a dollar estimate of Lurie's wealth would not be available "for some months," but it was believed his real estate and other holdings were valued in excess of $50 million.

The principal beneficiary of the will is the Louis R. Lurie Foundation, a charitable trust established by Lurie 20 years ago.

The foundation will get 50 per cent of Lurie's estate for 27 years, after which the funds will be distributed to Lurie's grandchildren or their offspring.

HOPALONG DIES — William Boyd, matinee idol of silent films who became famous on television as Hopalong Cassidy, died yesterday after a long illness.

(UPI Telephoto)

'Hopalong Cassidy' Boyd Dies In Hospital At 74

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — There have been 16 different Tarzans, six Lone Rangers, two Supermen, three sets of Batmen and Robins and a litter of Lassies.

But there could be only one Hopalong.

William Boyd, who made Hopalong Cassidy a fixture of the early days of television, died late Tuesday night. He was 74.

Boyd was the first of the western actors to foresee the riches that could be made in television, and parlayed a series of cheap movies made years before into one of television's biggest hits worth millions of dollars.

He so identified the black-clad, silver haired Hopalong with himself that no other actor could take over, and after he retired he refused to give interviews, for fear children would see he was not the saintly knight of the sagebrush he played.

Funeral services will be private. He was survived by his widow, former actress Grace Bradley, his fourth wife.

A spokesman for South Coast Community Hopital, where Boyd had been under care since June, said he died of a combination of Parkinson's disease and heart failure.

After brief stardom as a romantic leading man in the 1920s under Cecil B. DeMille (who was struck by Boyd's gleaming, prematurely white hair), Boyd's career ran downhill, in expensive living and gambling debts.

He was broke in 1948 when he shrewdly saw the potential in the television market, and obtained the rights to 66 quickie movies he made, starting in 1935. The movies featured the exploits of a character named Hopalong Cassidy.

The character's name was taken from a series of cowboy novels by Clarence Mulford—but little else of the original remained.

But Boyd, originally cast as a villain, talked the director into using him as the hero—and then insisted on turning the character around.

Boyd's Hopalong could never be seen drinking, smoking or interested in women. He was neat and clean, but dressed in a stark, silver-trimmed black outfit just at the time other western heroes were switching to gaudy outfits and black hats were supposed to mark the villain, not the hero. In Boyd's movies, Hopalong never shot the bad guys until they had a chance to shoot first.

Boyd talked a local television station into showing one of his old Hopalong films for $200 and set off a boom. He became a multimillionaire from the demand for his films, and from the Hopalong cap pistols, hats, holsters and other paraphanelia.

After all 66 films had been aired at least four times each and the public demand continued, NBC talked Boyd into coming out of retirement to make 26 Hopalong episodes for television, with the late Gabby Hayes as his sidekick.

Although he hadn't worked in five years, Boyd saddled up his milk-white horse "Topper" and galloped through the 1952-53 television season, then faded into the sunset, to enjoy his riches.

He made his last public appearance as Hopalong in 1961 agreeing to open a highway in Palm Desert. He turned down the offer of a scissors, pulled out his six-gun and shot the ribbon apart.

Starry Episode

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burl Ives, Katy Jurado and Cesar Romero will all star in a single episode of "Alias Smith and Jones" starring Ben Murphy and Roger Davis.

Education Costs Up But Enrollment Lags

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Office of Education estimates school spending will climb to a record $90.5 billion this year, although enrollment will show its smallest increase in 28 years.

An annual back-to-school survey of the agency issued Wednesday said spending to provide classrooms and instruction for 60.4 million students from kindergarten through graduate school would climb $5.4 billion over the last school year's $85.1 billion figure.

Enrollment, however, has gained only 400,000, the smallest increase since 1944. Vance Grant of the government's National Center for Educational Statistics said a declining U.S. birth rate was responsible.

Most of the increased enrollment will take place in colleges and universities. The survey said total enrollment in elementary and secondary schools was expected to decline by 200,000 from the 1971 level.

The agency said a gain of 300,000 high school students had been offset by a decline of 500,000 children in kindergarten through the eighth grade.

The decline in elementary school enrollments is due to an annual drop in births since the "baby boom" peaked in 1961 with 4.3 million births, Grant said. The decline is expected to continue to a 3.4 million level this year.

Grant said the birth rate has had an impact on the teaching situation.

"With fewer children coming into school at the same time more graduates are leaving college with teaching degrees, the so-called teacher shortage is really a thing of the past," Grant said.

College enrollment this term is estimated at 9 million, up about 6 per cent from last fall. Elementary and high school level schools enrolled about 46.2 million pupils, and private schools 5.2 million.

Defense League Member Arrested For Bombing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The head of the local Jewish Defense League chapter, whose television debate with an Arab escalated into a fist fight, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of bombing the Arab's home to "revenge Munich."

Irving D. Rubin, 27, and four others described by police as members of the militant Jewish group, were arrested on charges of intent to cause injury with a destructive device. The charges were in connection with a pipe bomb hurled from a passing car Tuesday night at the Hollywood apartment house where Mohammed Shahth lives.

Shahth was not home at the time, but his wife and two children were. The bomb broke windows and caused superficial damage to the building's facade. Nobody was hurt.

Shortly afterward, an anonymous telephone caller told the UPI Los Angeles bureau that "We bombed the home of an Arab for the killing of the Israelis in Munich." He ended the call with the JDL slogan: "Never again, never again."

Rubin and Shahth, a Palestinian Arab, debated the Middle East crisis this summer on the talk show of Robert K. Dornan on Los Angeles television station KTLA.

Luncheon Crush

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 3.6 million office workers try daily to squeeze into New York's 5,000 restaurants for lunch, although only about 500,000 can be properly served. The luncheon crush has resulted in installation of tens of thousands of office refreshment units which dispense hot and cold food and beverages.

Aborted Takeoff Leaves Jetliner In S.F. Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Trans World Airlines cargo jetliner carrying 40 tons of lettuce and strawberries slid off a San Francisco International Airport runway on takeoff Wednesday night and plunged into San Francisco Bay.

All three crew members were rescued unharmed after they scrambled in to a liferaft from the Boeing 707, which came to rest in a mudflat about 150 feet offshore from the end of the runway. Most of the severely damaged plane remained above water.

TWA officials said a fuel tank ruptured when the left wing hit a pier spilled about 500 gallons of jet kerosene fuel into the bay, but equipment borrowed from an oil company was keeping the fuel from spreading.

Two TWA employes who are SCUBA divers attached hoses to the plane's other fuel tanks to remove other fuel and oil.

A TWA spokesman said the plane plunged off the runway after the pilot apparently tried to stop midway through the takeoff.

"The pilot did try to abort the takeoff and attempt to stop the plane," he said. "Any variety of things may have caused him to take this action, but we don't know what they were at this time."

The left wing clipped a pier on which runway guide lights were mounted and the wingtip was embedded in the wooden pier supports.

The pier was the same one which was struck by the landing gear of a Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 on a takeoff July 30, 1971. Four of that plane's 22 wheels were shoved up into the passenger compartment, injuring 26 of the 212 persns aboard. The Pan American plane was able to complete its takeoff and return for a safe landing.

A hole was torn in the fuselage just ahead of the wing, the left wing was broken when it struck a pier supporting airfield lights and part of the cockpit was damaged.

The crewmen were taken to a hospital where they were given a medical examination and released. Then they went to a motel to await the arrival of a federal safety investigation team.

TWA said the freighter, Flight 604, was on a regular run from San Francisco to New York.

The crew members, all of whom are based in the New York area, were Capt. R.C. Bogatko, First Officer T.H. Sanford and Flight Engineer S. Phillips.

TWA said it would be a day or two before the federal government grants permission to haul the plane out of the water.

Citizens Help Will Be Sought

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission decided last night to seek citizens help in building a bandstand in Plaza Park.

Commission Chairman Lorraine Leivas said the commission approved final plans for the bandstand and said it hoped work can be completed before winter rains strike.

Mrs. Leivas said drawings of the bandstand will be circulated throughout Cotati along with a letter seeking volunteer labor and materials to construct it. She said the exterior will be weathered redwood from dismantled chicken houses.

The commission agreed that eventually benches should be placed around the bandstand along with a rock planter to match the nearby fountain.

Mrs. Leivas said the commission next spring will schedule a series of weekly concerts in the park with music ranging from rock to classical.

Eagle Scout Award To San Rafael Youth

Lawrence T. Simmelink Jr., a June graduate of San Rafael High School, will receive the rank of Eagle in a Boy Scout court of honor at noon Sunday at St. Luke Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

His eagle projectconsisted of teaching mentally retarded children how to swim. He assisted in the coaching of the Marin Aid to Retarded Chidlren swim team.

Simmelink was a member of the 1971 Marin County cochampion football team, and spent the summer bicycling through Europe.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Simmelink of 10 Bayview Drive.

Hearing Delay Will Be Sought

The Muir Beach Improvement Club last night decided to ask the Marin County Planning Commission to postpoe a hearing scheduled for Sept. 25 on the proposed $2 million restaurant on the sea cliffs north of Muir Beach.

Club president Janet Stump told the Independent-Journal today that the club spokesman against the restaurant will not be available to testify before the planning commission on that date.

Plans for the restaurant were presented in July by Leslie Smith of Miwok Corp., which developed the seascape subdivision in the community.

At that time, the improvement club, which represents about one-fourth of the Muir Beach residents, firmly rejected the proposal.

What appears to be no man's land between Larkspur and Corte Madera on Magnolia Avenue recently caught the photographic fancy of Robert Gaskin of Corte Madera on Magnolia Avenue. Actually, he says, the strip is within the City of Larkspur. The Corte Madera sign, pinpointing the true boundary, was placed years ago to inform the community's volunteer fire department where its responsibilities ended, Gaskin said.

1 GI Dies In Week's War Action

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today one U.S. serviceman was killed and eight others were wounded in Vietnam war fighting last week —the second consecutive week that only a single American died.

The Saigon command reported, however, that Vietnamese war casualties on both sides jumped substantially during the week ending Saturday. Increased fighting in South Vietnam's northern sector boosted Communist casualties to the highest point in three months and the government toll of 638 killed was the highest in one month.

The death of the American brought to 230 the number of U.S. servicemen killed in Indochina combat this year. The command said 1,003 have been wounded since January and 243 are listed as missing in action.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 45,857 American servicemen have been killed in the war, 303,380 have been wounded and 1,670 are missing.

A total of 883,719 Communists have died and 168,563 South Vietnamese soldiers have been killed in the fighting duringthe past 11 years.

U.S. Planes Finish Off North Vietnam Railyard

SAIGON (UPI)—Scores of U.S. warplanes attacked North Vietnam for the third consecutive day Wednesday, wiping out the remaining half of a key railroad yard they hit Tuesday and blasting a railroad bridge on the Hanoi-China route, the U.S. command said today.

In South Vietnam, government marines inched forward in house-to-house fighting through the rubble of Quang Tri City's Citadel and today claimed they controlled half of the 50-acre stronghold. North Vietnamese troops clung to the west side of the walled fortress.

U.S. spokesmen said 310 warplanes from four aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin and bases in Thailand flew raids into the North Wednesday. The bulk of the strikes, according to war communiques, were in the northern part of the country around Hanoi and Haiphong.

The command announced the loss of the fourth warplane in three days over North Vietnam. Spokesmen said a Navy A7 Corsair was shot down Wednesday near Quang Khe, 230 miles south of Hanoi, but the pilot bailed out over the Gulf of Tonkin six miles from the coast and was rescued within 20 minutes.

Air Force jets attacked the Kep railroad yard 40 miles northeast of Hanoi in the second straight day of raids on the major transportation complex 40 miles northeast of Hanoi. Spokesmen said pilots reported destroying "all rail lines in the rail yard" during the attacks. Pilots returning from raids on the yards Tuesday reported knocking out half the rail complex.

F4 Phantom jet fighterbombers knocked out two sections of the 400-foot, six-span Lang Lau railroad bypass bridge 37 miles north of Hanoi, the command said. Pilots dumped an unknown number of laser-guided bombs to wreck the bridge.

Spokesmen said the span was in a network of rail lines and roads from China to Hanoi and that traffic would be "slowed" by the destruction of the span over the Cau River.

Navy planes attacked the major highway and railroad bridge at Thanh Hoa for the third day in a row, spokesmen said. The bridge, two miles northeast of the city and 91 miles south of Hanoi, is an important link between the capial and southern battlefields. From 1965 to 1968, U.S. warplanes were unable to damage it.

Wednesday's raids on the Thanh Hoa span, according to spokesmen for the 7th Fleet, destroyed 180 feet of rail and roadbed but officers made no mention of the bridge itself being hit.

Autumn Red Push Seen In South

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists soon will launch an autumn offensive in South Vietnam designed to score enough gains to persuade President Nixon to modify his peace terms prior to the U.S. elections, American intelligence officers believe.

The analysts said Hanoi had been able to move an estimated 20,000 fresh troops into South Vietnam in the past two months and that the Viet Cong were placing heavy emphasis on recruitment of soldiers in the south.

They said they expected the major new push to begin within a few days and build to a high point during October, trying to tie down Saigon's main forces while the "pacification" program is rolled back in the countryside.

Targets of the offensive could include the utlying defenses of Saigon itself, the sources said. They noted there has been increased Communist military activity recently around Tan Son Nhut and Bien Hoa air bases in the Saigon area.

The U.S. officers said Wednesday they were not overly concerned about the effects of a new offensive, but they conceded that despite the American air bombardment of the north, the North Vietnamese retain the capacity to continue the battle for many months.

The sources described as accurate published reports that North Vietnam has from 20,000 to 30,000 men in the Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon, compared to about 3,000 who were in this region a year ago.

The fertile delta contains a large portion of the population of South Vietnam and produces most of the country's food.

North Vietnam has displayed a remarkable ability to continue to move men and supplies southward in recent weeks, despite the U.S. air attacks, the intelligence officers said.

They said the Communists have utilized a variety of techniques to overcome the damage inflicted on railway supply lines from China by effecting quick repairs or using improvised tactics to transfer freight around broken sections in rail lines and blasted bridges. They also appear to have been able to effect rapid repairs to their petroleum pipelines.

U.S. Rejects Cong 'Peace Cabinet' Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The United States today rejected a Viet Cong demand to control one-third of a peace cabinet in South Vietnam as a scheme to first emasculate the Saigon regime and then impose Communism on the population without even an election.

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter charged at today's 159th Vietnam peace talks session that the Communists, in their 1971 peace plan reworded and republished Sept 11, wanted the United States to dismantle the South Vietnamese regime before they would agree to negotiate with its remnants.

"Specifically," Porter said, "the changes you demand before you will agree to such negotiations include: the release of all North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prisoners of war and civilians detained for crimes against the state, and a total change of the policy of the emasculated Saigon government thus created."

Saigon negotiator Pham Dang Lam also brushed aside the plan which urges the creation of a "national concord" cabinet as did the July 1971 peace plan.

One-third of the seats would be held by the Viet Cong, one third by the Saigon administration after president Nguyen Dan Thieu's dismissal, while the remaining third would be men chosen jointly by the Communists and Saigon.

"No one is deceived by this formula which poorly conceals your unchanged design to seize power in South Vietnam immediately or in stages, by foce or by devious means, and to place the whole of Vietnam under the rule of the Hanoi Communist regime," Lam said.

Both Lam and Porter said the Viet Cong represented a tiny fraction of the South Vietnamese public and was not entitled to one-third of a coalition cabinet.

Labelling the Viet Cong demands "preconditions," Porter said they would determine South Vietnam's future without free elections.

Porter said that in addition to taking one-third of the cabinet seats, the Communists wanted to name half of the neutral element.

"One can reasonably express a belief at this point that such a method of selection would, along with the Viet Cong element, raise your effective participation at least to the 50 per cent level," Porter said.

Porter remarked that the Viet Cong might exert a veto against neutral men nominated by the Saigon third.

"As the North Vietnamese army would, under your proposals, still be involved at that juncture in all-out military activities in the south, one can reasonably judge that your influence on the unarmed neutral element of your proposed government would indeed be considerable," the U.S. envoy said.

Spanish-American War Vets Meet

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The few remaining veterans of the Spanish-American War attended their 74th annual encampment Wednesday but not one of them was able to march in the mile-long parade. They blamed it on rheumatism and tired feet. "I could have made it," said J.N. Bryam, 91, Spokane, Wash., "but my rheumatism kicked up last night and my knee gave out."

"I could have made it last year," said Col. E.G. Thomas Sr., Salt Lake City, new commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, "but my feet gave out on me after a tour of Russia."

About 100 women members of the Sons and Daughters of Spanish-American War Veterans marched behind the 13th Naval District band in the parade headed by the Multnomah County sheriff's posse.

Hospital Commitment In Slaying Case

A 55-year-old Mill Valley housewife who told psychiatrists she killed her husband because she didn't want him committed to an insane asylum was herself committed to Napa State Hospital yesterday.

After finding Harriett Josephine Putney capable of understanding the murder charge and participating in her defense, Judge Joseph G. Wilsón found her not guilty by reason of insanity and ordered her committed.

The judge decided she was insane when she shot her husband June 27 after reviewing testimony presented to the grand jury.

Mrs. Putney was a patient at Napa from 1962 to 1964 and had been undergoing outpatient treatment since Psychiatrists told the judge she expressed fear of electricity, belief that walls contain listening devices and gremlin-like people.

She told a psychiatrist she had to kill her husband, Stanley, 54, because he was talking strangely and might have been committed. Mill Valley police said they had been arguing about whether to move to the mountains or the seashore.

Mrs. Putney shot herself in the abdomen after killing her husband, but recovered after two weeks in the hospital.

Otis Takes Federal Job In Bay Area

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Webster Otis of Ross, who has served the past year in a Department of Interior post in Washington, D.C., has returned to the Bay Area in another Interior job.

Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, has named Otis, 37, field representative for the department's Pacific Southwest region, headquartered in San Francisco.

Otis, whose new assignment will involve surveillance and coordination of department activities in the region, is paid $32,407 annually.

Until the new job, Otis had served as special assistant to John W. Larson, assistant secretary for department program policy. He replaces William M. Monroe, who has been assigned to another position with the department in San Francisco.

Otis had joined the department amid controversy over an interest ultimately divested in Point Reyes National Seashore property being condemned by the federal government.

Change Taken

A thief who has learned how to trip an electronic coin-release device took $41 from a change machine at the Time Saver Laundry, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, sometime between Monday and Wednesday, police reported today.

Party Leads To Bizarre Death

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— A 21-year-old man was partially decapitated with a ceremonial Japanese samurai sword and bled to death Wednesday night when a fight broke out at a glue sniffing party, police said.

Police charged Alex Diaz, 17, in the death. They said that when the fight broke out, Diaz picked up the 2½ foot sword and swung at the elder Salaraz. One blow cut off one of Salazar's hands and the other cut through his neck.

Diaz was taken to the Bexar County jail where he was held in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Assault, Mischief At School

Novato High School has reported an attempted rape, a burglary and malicious mischief, according to Novato police.

Officers received a report yesterday that an unidentified juvenile attempted to rape a 17-year-old student at an unidentified garage on Washington Street after dragging her from the high school soccer field at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The juvenile, about five feet, six or seven inches tall and wearing a brown hat and blue jeans released the girl after she began crying, police said.

Officers reported that 40 wall lockers at the school were pried open between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. yesterday and contents were strewn about the corridors. A night light and fixture were damaged and trees and plants damaged, at an estimated loss of $100, police said.

Police also received a report Tuesday that welding equipment valued at $415 was taken from Room 42 at the school between June 15 and Tuesday.

Misdemeanors Bring Park Work Sentence

Ben Chimak Bercier, 24, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and public drunkenness and was ordered to work three days for a park and recreation department.

Judge Robert A. Smallman imposed the work on the North Dakotan who was arrested Tuesday on Bridgeway in Sausalito with a plastic bag of marijuana.

State 'Swatting At Gnats' On Smog, L.A. Director Says

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The head of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District criticized the state Air Resources Board Wednesday for failing to get at the "monster" of air pollution—the automobile

The board, meeting for two days here, recommended Wednesday that five Southern California counties crack down on new industrial facilities likely to pour out large quantities of pollutants.

"They are swatting at gnats when they should be trying to strike down the monster," he said.

The action of the board, which is only advisory in nature, recommends that counties in the South Coast Air Basin apply strict building controls on any source which produces more than 100 tons of pollutants a year.

But the board stopped short of recommending any limitations on automobiles or residential buildings.

Chass added that although he would like to see the board investigate autos and residential polluters, he was not in favor of any limitations "at this time."

The recommendation to limit industrial sources was left up to local government agencies to implement. The South Coast Air Basin includes all or part of the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Before the board's meeting, the coordinating council of the basin approved the plan, but several observers, including Chass, called it a "severe limitation" on future growth.

Chass said the recommendation was "sort of a super zoning procedure," which if followed by Los Angeles would be applied on a case by case basis.

"A new cement plant would have an extremely dim chance in some areas, but might be permitted in others where the amount of blowing dust far outweighs particulate emissions from the plant," he said.

David Souten, technical advisor to the regional office of the federal Environmental Protection Agency, told the board he would have preferred a stronger limitation plan, "one which deals with automobile and residential limitations."

Souten said, however, that the EPA did not know what the limitations should be.

William Fitchen, air pollution control officer for Orange County, criticized the EPA and said its "experts are just plain inexperienced. They come out here from the East and suddenly know all about our pollution problems."

San Rafael Woman On Federal Jury

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — June M. Koltun of 112 Du Bois Street, San Rafael, was appointed one of 23 members of a special federal grand jury yesterday.

U.S. District Judge Stanley A. Weigel said the panel will sit for only four months, dealing mainly with drug problems for the Drug Abse Law enforcement group.

Windows Kept People In Bus

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)— Police said today a number of students who died in a school bus that plunged into a rain-swollen river from a sinking ferry boat Wednesday were trapped inside because the windows were rolled up to keep out the rain.

A police spokesman from a rural district 16 miles north of here said the bus was pulled out of the Krian River today "with quite a number of bodies in it."

He said latest figures show up to 34 persons were believed drowned in the capsizing of the platform ferry.

Grey Guests

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Joel Grey, theater star of "Cabaret" and "1776," will be among the guests this fall of "The Carol Burnett Show."

Tam CSD Building Contract Awarded

The Tamalpais Community Services District board has awarded a contract for construction of its new utility building in the corporation yard.

The contract was given to Ireland and Robinson Inc. of Belvedere for $12,398 during the board meeting Tuesday night.

According to board member Glenn Lambacher, the company will build the concrete slabs required for the entire building and a portion of the framing and roofing.

The building on Bell Lane should be completed by the end of November, Lambacher said.

The district also awarded a $3,246 contract to Campbell-Bishop of Corte Madera for a three-quarter-ton pickup truck to replace one of the district's older trucks.

In other action, the board recommended that the Richardson Bay marshland be included among the top priority buffer zones in the county master plan.

The board also earmarked $224 for the mailing of about 1,400 opinion surveys to all district voters to determine sentiment on open space, park development and services.

Virginia City To Be Dedicated

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (UPI) —Virginia City will be formally dedicated as a national historic landmark Friday, 11 years after it was declared eligible for such recognition.

The ceremony by the old Fourth Ward School will feature the public unveiling of a bronze plaque. A National Park Service representative will speak.

The site was found nationally significant by the secretary of the interior and was declared eligible for designation as a national historic landmark July 3, 1961. It was recorded in the the National Register of Historic Places.

Dixie Advisory Group To Study Bill's Effect

The Dixie School District board last night decided to form a citizens advisory group to study the impact passage of the Watson Initiative would have on the district.

The board, on record in opposition to the measure, ordered formation of the citizens group after receiving letters against the measure from Governor Ronald Reagan, state School Supt. Wilson Riles and state Sen. Peter H. Behr (R-S.R.), according to district Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

Reagan opposed the Watson measure — which, if passed Nov. 7, would limit property tax as means of supporting schools and other governmental agencies — because of "the destructive abruptness of change" it would cause, Campbell said.

Campbell said the measure would reduce district income by 30 per cent. The cut would mean a limitation of special district programs, result in massive staff cutbacks and enlarge class size, according to the superintendent.

The complex proposal would basically reduce property taxes by 40 per cent and shift the burden of financing such programs as welfare and local education to the state. Legislative consultants have estimated the measure would trigger a statewide $1.3 billion in other taxes to offset loss of local property taxes.

Campbell said the board would appoint the citizens advisory committee at 8 p.m. Sept. 27.

"We would like to see property tax reduced but want replacement income," Campbell said.

The Dixie School District board also:

CROSSWALK — Decided to study the possibility of a crosswalk at Nova Albion Way and Arias Street as requested by several parents.

FUND REQUEST — Agreed to borrow $300,000 from the county while awaiting receipt of tax funds for 1972-73.

STUDENT TEACHERS — Approved agreements with San Francisco State and University of California School of Nursing for two student teachers. In another matter, the board approved a job description and pay of $1.65 an hour for summertime student aides.

CONTRACTS — Modified 12 teacher contracts for proper step and pay scale placement.

PERSONNEL — Hired Daniel Chambers and Patrick Loomis at $4 an hour as teaching assistants for the music program and accepted the resignation of elementary teacher Jean Urban, who is moving. Also hired were three custodians: Thomas James at $671 per month, and Douglas Davis and Stephen Berner, both hired at $141 per month.

WE RECOMMEND SCOTTS LAWN FOOD TO ANYONE WHO WANTS TO FEED A LAWN

1. Supplies the high-nitrogen feeding that California lawns need to thrive.
2. Contains plant-available iron to make up for our iron deficient soils. Works rapidly through the leaves.
3. Long lasting feeding due to patented Polyform process — keeps grass and dichondra green longer and eliminates the wasteful surge growth that causes extra mowing. Resists leaching.
4. Clean, lightweight granules (no filler material added) make feeding easier and faster. A big relief from back-breaking heavyweight fertilizers!
5. Backed by Scotts "No-Quibble" guarantee - you must be Satisfied or your money back. Every cent.

Boutique and white elephant items will be offered for sale, and piroshki, salad and pastries will be available for lunch or to take out.

THE PRESIDENT'S grand opening program will mark the beginning of the new club year for the Petaluma Woman's Club.

Beginning at 1 p.m. Tuesday club members will be served champagne punch and refreshments and will get a close look at the new fall fashions.

"Fashions for Fall" will be presented courtesy of Queen's Closet, Carithers and Village Shop, all in Petaluma, and will be modeled by club members. A business meeting will begin at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Russell Silva is the fashion show coordinator. Program chairman is Mrs. John Klemenok, and decorations chairman is Mrs. Leland Titus.

MR. AND MRS. John Maguire will be hosts for the Novato Newcomers Club Couples Gourmet Group to be held Saturday at their home in Novato beginning with cocktails at 7 and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jerry Carstens and Mrs. Einar Kruse, chairmen, will act as menu co-ordinators for the "Mexican Fiesta."

Karen Knapp Weds A.J. Camilleri

Karen Lynne Knapp of Novato became the bride of Anthony Joseph Camilleri Jr. of San Rafael at the Chapel at Hamilton Air Force Base on Sept. 2.

Maid of honor for the wedding was Kathy Riner of San Rafael and the bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Judy Knapp of Santa Rosa, and Libby Butterfield of San Rafael.

Steve Garrett of San Rafael served as best man. The ushers were Anthony's brother, Ernie Camilleri of San Rafael, and Chris Anderson, also of San Rafael.

A reception was given at the Officers Club at Hamilton.

Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Knapp of Santa Rosa, and Anthony's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Cammilleri of San Rafael. Both Karen and Anthony are graduates of Terra Linda High School and attended the College of Marin.

She is employed with Gensler Lee Diamonds in San Rafael. Anthony was graduated from College of Marin and is a member of the San Francisco Police Department.

C.K. Harding Weds Miss McReynolds

Joanne McReynolds and Charles Kelly Harding were married at Chapel One at Hamilton Air Force Base on Aug. 26.

Joanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack O. McReynolds of Novato, and Charles is the son of Mrs. Aaron G. Hardin of Elkhorn City, Ky.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Ronald D. Cooper of Tulsa, Okla., and bridesmaid was Mrs. Tommy Collom of Novato.

Ronald Cooper was best man, and Tommy Collom ushered.

Following a reception at the Officers Club at Hamilton, the couple went on a wedding trip to Southern California. They will live in Novato.

The bride is also the sister of Stephen McReynolds of Austin, Tex. She graduated from Terra Linda High School and is attending College of Marin. She is employed at Wells Fargo Bank in Novato.

The bridegroom was graduated from Hellier High School in Elkhorn and is attending College of Marin. He is employed by Safeway Stores in Larkspur. He is the brother of Mrs. Randall M. Belcher of Ashcamp, Ky., Aaron G. Hardin Jr. of Cudahy, Wis., and Mrs. John A. Gentry of Martinsville, Va.

Layered Look

The layered look includes body shirts. A ruffled layered bodice and sleeve treatment, zipper front vest with diamond patterned sleeves, and contrast raglan sleeves, with a flame patterned vest-look bodice and a mock turtleneck are three new designs in body shirts which will continue popular for fall, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Two-Part Story! PRINTED PATTERN

Two parts to fall's newest fashion story — swingy dress plus the sometime topping of a contrast jerkin. Combine checks or print and plan.

200 CARS

Classic Concours Show Is Readied

Among the more than 200 classic cars that will be on display at the 10th annual Silverado Concours d'Elegance on Sept. 24 are a 1937 supercharged Cord, once owned by cowboy actor Tom Mix, and a Rolls Royce Silver Cloud limousine orignally purchased by Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh.

The concours, sponsored by the Marin Circle, Florence Crittenton Home and Services of San Francisco, will be held at the Silverado Country Club in Napa from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Chairman is Mrs. Charles Read Best Jr. of San Anselmo, and Mrs. David N. Lytle of Tiburon is entries chairman. Honorary chairman of the concours is Briggs Cunningham of Costa Mesa, a former sports car racer and yachtsman.

A 1930 Duesenberg Model J LeBaron Sweep Panel Phaeton and a 1924 Isotta-Fraschini engine from the Briggs Cunningham Automotive Museum also will be on display at the concours.

Entries in 23 classes of pre-World War II cars will be judged, and this year a class has been established for Duesenbergs. Three Model J Dual Cowl Phaetons will be on display. Only 477 Model Js were manufactured, and each is now worth up to $100,000. Another new class is "contemporary production" for post-war automobiles originally costing more than $10,000. All of the 1971 first-place trophy winning cars have been invited as have best of show and most elegant of show cars from all previous Marin Circle automobile shows.

Tickets will be on sale at the entrance the day of the concours.

Nursery School Has Openings

Sausalito Cooperative Nursery School has a few places available in the 12:30 to 3:15 p.m. session for 4 and 5-year-old children.

Ann Workman is the director, and Mrs. Jerry Barbour of Mill Valley is accepting applications.

Morning and afternoon sessions are five days a week.

Transparent Trend For Holiday Market

Sheer brassieres will be available for the holiday market and increase in popularity in the spring, according to Women's Wear Daily. Reasons for the transparent trend are a return to sexiness, continuation of the popular bare look, and a demand for lighter more natural bras.

The comfort of seamless bras will soon be combined with sheer fabrics in the creation of sheer seamless brassieres. The transparent look has been popular in Europe for several seasons.

PREPARING FOR their first concert of the fall season are Novato Choraliers, at left, Mrs. John Carter, director; Mrs. Clara Coleman, soloist; and Mrs. Jan Wilson, one of the accompanists. Mrs. Coleman is rehearsing "Happy Wanderer" which will be included in the concert to be presented tomorrow and Saturday nights at the Veterans Memorial Building to benefit Ross Psychiatric Center.

'Autumn Music' Concerts To Start Fall Season

By DOROTHY NEWELL

The Novato Choraliers, under the direction of Mrs. John S. Carter Jr. will start the fall season by participating in "Autumn Music" at the Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael tomorrow and Saturday.

The evening concerts are being presented by Marin Mental Health Foundation to benefit Ross Psychiatric Center.

Director Barbara Carter began her musical career when she was 7 years old, starting with piano lessons. When she was 10 years old she began playing ty violin. She attended the University of Denver, where she was a violinist in the concert orchestra. She also studied at the Lamont School of Music in Denver.

Mrs. Carter was choir director at St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato for several years. She joined the Choraliers six years ago and became the director in the fall of 1970. Barbara said the 30 women in the group sing for the pure enjoyment of singing. The group of women travels throughout Marin County singing for various clubs and organizations, hospitals and convalescent homes. The group of singers is so popular it cannot accept any more singing dates for the month of December.

Barbara, a native of Denver, and her husband, a retired Air Force major and now traffic management specialist with the Navy, have two sons, Richard and John. They have lived in Novato since 1955. Barbara is a former employee of the Independent-Journal. She worked in the classified department in the Novato office for five years.

When not rehearsing and singing with the choraliers, Barbara enjoys ceramics, sewing, gardening, and she also teaches violin when time permits. She is a member of Chapter SS of PEO, the Novato Community Players and she also sings with the Winifred Baker Chorale. She also sang one summer with the choral group with the Arthur Fiedler Boston Pops Orchestra in San Francisco.

Accompanists are Glenda Elvy, Harriet Howard and Jan Wilson.

HELEN AND SUE:

Whatever happened to the good old days when you met a guy and he thought you were nice so he asked you out?

Nowadays when you meet a guy, he thinks you're a not-bad chick, so he says, "Wanna get high with me tonight?" If you say "No" he asks, "Then you wanna meet me somewhere, like my place?" And likely he expects you to bring the food, wine, whatever.

I couldn't begin to tell you how many fellas have come on like this to me and my girl friends. Seems like men figure they're so much in demand that they don't have to "date" liberated females. They just imply, "I'm here, you lucky dames, so come and get me!"

And the darn girls fall for it. A lot of my friends are either on drugs, pregnant, helping support a guy who doesn't mention marriage (or all three).

If this is "liberation," then let's trade it for the good old chauvinistic days when girls were treated like something special. — STRAIGHT

STRAIGHT:

Believe me, the "good guys" are still here. Maybe you haven't found many because you aren't looking in the right places, or aren't running with your type of people. — SUE

DEAR STRAIGHT:

You'd be surprised how many letters we get from guys who wonder "Where did all the nice girls go?" Their complaint? — "Liberated" females come on too strong, don't give them a chance to play the male role. Too bad you "good old daysers" can't form clubs and get together. — HELEN

RAP:

Can male and female ever be "just friends," or does the old sex thing make this impossible?

You see, Jim and I broke up after going together two years. I felt terrible at first, but began to see it was for the best. We ignored each other, which ade it tough on our mutual friends.

Finally I called him and said, "This is dumb — why can't we settle for truly liking each other?" (We used to talk so well together.) He old me it isn't possible. A guy-girl relationship always goes past friendship for one or the other, and why risk it again?

What do you and your readers think? Does sex always get in the way when you'd like to have someone of the opposite gender as your good buddy? — WANTS TO BE A PAL, NOT A LOVER

DEAR WTBPNL:

I've seen many instances of sincere friendship between man and woman. This isn't to say that the sex thing hasn't entered their minds, but it's filed back there under "No-no," or "Impossible," or "Don't Disturb the Status Quo," and so it presents no problem.

Also, as you grow older, male-female friendships become easier, usually because both parties have romantic interests elsewhere. — HELEN

WTBPNL:

(You can say that again, Mom!! About easier-when-older, I mean.)

Trouble with the "just good pals" status between boy and girl is that one may want a buddy. but the other wants more. It hardly ever stays on one level —for both — so someone ends up hurt.

You and Jim can be casual friends — it's dumb, not speaking — but don't try for closeness again unless you want to go back together. — SUE

NOTE FROM BOTH OF US: This is a good question. Let's hear it from others on, "Can male and female ever be 'just friends'?" — H and S

Some School And College Terms

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Beginning today we'll explore some of the more common terms being used by school and college personnel.

Accountability:

This word is often used to mean responsibility. That is, who is responsible (accountable) for what happens in a given school or school system? Most parents find it very difficult to determine who should be held accountable if a school system fails their own or a neighbor's child.

Is the student at fault? Or the home environment? Or is it the school atmosphere? Is it a dumb or unfair teacher? A principal who runs a prison? Or a principal who doesn't discipline? Is it the school board and their oppressive policies? Or a school board which won't spend the money to hire and retain top teachers?

If you hear the term "accountability" being used in your community, you can expect that a study is under way not only to find out who is responsible for school failures, but what should be done to improve the situation.

WHILE ACCOUNTABILITY could be used to locate where praise should be heaped, it generally is used in the negative sense — who's at fault.

Busing:

To many educators, the word "busing" means Swann. (Swann is short for Swann v. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education.) Swann is the U.S. Supreme Court case on school desegregation rendered on April 20, 1971. In Swann, the Supreme Court ruled in part:

That it found "no basis for holding that the local school authorities may not be required to employ bus transportation as one tool of school desegregation." And further that "an objection to transportation of students may have validity when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk either the health of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process. . ."

BY COMING down on both sides of the busing issue in one decision, the Supreme Court has forced communities to deal with this problem locally.

If parents are not alert, the busing decisions will be made by city authorities or by school system employees. And these decisions may or may not reflect the community's wishes.

In most communities right across the United States, some busing is absolutely necessary to achieve desegregation. How much busing, for whom, and to what schools are the key questions. They ought to be answered by parents, not by school managers.

Mothers of black first graders should meet with mothers of Indian, Chicano, Puerto Rican, Oriental, and Anglo mothers. Together they should carry out the intent of the Swann decision.

Just how much busing, for whatever reasons, goes on in your community should be up to you mothers and fathers. Maybe it will take all spring and summer in some communities.

And require dozens of coffee klatches, block parties, discussion groups, task forces, and the like.

You'll need to get pertinent data from the school superintendent's office, and a guarantee from the school board that it will implement the busing plan you work out.

But it's really up to you. It's up to mom and dad — not just sitting at home griping about their children being bused across town — but out at meetings with their across-town neighbors working ot a mutually acceptable busing plan.

35th Birthday Party For A Yacht

By MOLLY MARIN

Some 250 yachting friends have been invited to the 35th birthday party of the Henry B. Grandin's 46-foot yacht Amorita. The party, cocktails and a buffet, will be held Friday evening at the Grandins' landlocked home on Upper Road, Ross.

Entertainment during the festivities will be provided by the Sons of the Sea, the men's glee club from St. Francis Yacht Club.

The Grandins decided to have the party this week during the City of an Francisco Perpetual Trophy yacht races, sponsored by the St. Francis Yacht Club and continuing through Saturday. The race has drawn many of their yachting friends from Southern California to the Bay Area.

ON A WEDDING trip to Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. James Louis Stewart (Maryann Phyllis Lento) will live in San Jose when they return. They are driving to the state to visit relatives of the bridegroom.

Maryann and James exchanged vows at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael Sept. 2 and will make their home in San Jose while Maryann completes her student teaching requirement.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Lento of San Rafael, and James is the son of Mrs. Gerry Stewart of Colorado Springs, Colo. and the late Mr. Stewart.

FORTY GUESTS will gather for cocktails at the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ogle on Saturday from 4 to 7 p.m. to meet thier host's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marbury Bladen of Lafayette. Ind.

Mr. Bladen, dean of University of Purdue's fine arts college, is on sabbatical leave to travel and to study at Stanford University.

WED IN SEMINARY CHAPEL

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Buehler (Carol M. Davidson) are living in Santa Clara following their marriage at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. Mr. and Mrs. Roger E. Davidson of San Rafael are her parents; the bridegroom is the son of Elizabeth Buehler of Portland and Dr. J. A. Buehler of Kentfield. (Bernie photo)

SAFE AND SOUND

Seventeen-year-old Eileen Fagan was wheeled through the hospital in Burbank, Calif., yesterday along with the wall safe in which her hand was stuck for more than five hours. She had put her hand too far into the safe at the taco stand where she worked, and firemen had to cut the safe out of the wall. At the hospital her hand was freed without injury.

Terrorists' Guns Were From Russia

BONN (UPI)—The Bavarian State Justice Ministry said today the weapons used by Palestinian guerrillas in the kidnap-slaying of 11 Israeli athletes in Munich were of Russian make, not American.

"The story from Cairo about the terrorists getting their weapons from an American soldier is not true," a ministry spokesman said.

"The machineguns used were the Russian model AK-47 and the ammunition was of the Kalashnikov brand," he said.

Federal security experts were meeting in continuous session today to work out details for the formation of a counter-terrorist polica unit, the Federal Interior Ministry said.

Interior Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher announced the government's decision to establish such a special police unit late Wednesday night.

The Interior Ministry said the nationwide investigation of all Arabs living in West Germany was continuing. It said there were 56,820 Arab citizens living in West Germany and that another 10,000 were thought to be living here illegally.

Corte Madera Agency Expansion Is Asked

Concerned that proposed redevelopment in Corte Madera and Larskpur may cost Larkspur School District money, the Mariner Cove Improvement Association board decided last night to ask that the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency board be expanded.

Association president Howard C. Harvey said he was directed to write to the Corte Madera Agency (which is composed of the five town councilmen) and recommend appointment of two more persons, noncouncilmen.

"The moneys involved in the redevelopment agency are substantial and overlap various other government bodies," said Harvey today, "particularly school districts. It's felt the additional membership on the board will provide further insight and broaden its scope and perspective."

He said his board considered possible loss of property tax revenue by the School District through freezing of assessment levels in redevelopment areas might require a property tax rate increase, to make up the revenue lost.

The association board endorsed the Corte Madera Town Council's efforts to ensure the survival of tidelands, waterways, shorelines, and the concept of preserving existing marshlands in the Ross Valley.

Guitar Concert Saturday Night

An evening of classical guitar, performed by Paul Bertolli of San Rafael, will take place Saturday night and not tomorrow as previously announced by the Marin Music Chest.

Bertolli, winner of the Music Chest's scholarship last year, will perform at 8 o'clock in Alumni Hall of San Domenico School, 1500 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

The Saturday night performance will include the work of several composers and a concerto for guitar and string quartet by Vivaldi.

Smog Link To Cancer Disputed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A researcher for the American Cancer Society Wednesday disputed the findings of a National Research Council report linking lung cancer with urban air pollution.

"I don't like air pollution. It's not pleasant at all. It dirties curtains and has other bad effects. But lung cancer? There's no firm evidence," said Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond.

Hammond, director of a long-term cancer prevention study involving a million persons, said air pollution in American cities has had "no measurable effect at all" on the rising rate of lung cancer deaths.

"Mind you, I'm not advocating air pollution," he told a news conference. "But there has been undue alarm that may take attention away from major causes of lung cancer such as cigarettes and occupational hazards."

He said the society's own study, conducted from 1959 to 1965 and begun again last year, found no evidence or "even any hint" that would link cancer with smog.

"We have a moral obligation to keep on studying possible correlations and maybe we will find that air pollution may have some slight effect with continued exposure," he said. "But we are without any evidence now to back up the claim."

McGovern: Republicans Could Be Jailed For Their Tactics

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern said today that Republicans "can go to jail" for their campaign tactics such as the bugging of the Democratic headquarters in Washington.

"Is it possible that Watergate may be Waterloo for Richard Nixon?" McGovern asked a crowd of 6,000 at a rally on the Capitol steps. A severe rainstorm cut short the rally which was delayed at the beginning by a public address system failure.

"We don't have as many electrical wire experts as the President does," McGovern quipped, in apologizing to the crowd of state workers and university students on their lunch hour.

The Democratic presidential nominee heaped scorn on his opposition as he and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy swung into a four-city campaign tour of Philadelphia, Albany, N.Y., New York, and Waterbury, Conn.

In a statement prepared for a noon rally on the steps of the New York State Capitol at Albany, McGovern repeated charges of GOP campaign fund irregularities, including diversion of $114,000 to the bank account of one of five men arrested in the Democratic national headquarters breakin.

"Now, we Democrats have our own financial problems," McGovern said. "But I'd rather have a shortage than this Republican runaround any day of the week."

"You can go to jail for what they've done," he said.

McGovern and Kennedy appeared together before tumultuous crowds in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Wednesday.

Although the settings on blocked-off downtown streets made accurate attendance estimates difficult, it seemed certain that a total of more than 30,000 persons saw the two senators during the day.

Speaking in Philadelphia, McGovern told of an incident earlier in which it sounded as if Kennedy were the star of the two-man show.

"We were walking down the street in Pittsburgh this morning and a woman almost knocked me down to grab Sen. Kennedy's hand," McGovern said. "She said, 'Oh, Sen. Kennedy, I can hardly wait until 1976.' Then she saw me and said, 'I'm sorry, Sen. McGovern, but that's how we feel in Pittsburgh.'"

Kennedy, who turned down McGovern's offer of the vice presidential nomination, is an unlikely presidential candidate in 1976 if McGovern comes from behind to win this year. But if McGovern loses, Kennedy may make the race in four years.

In Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, the crowds were more rowdy than at other stops on the campaign, but the two senators walked from their hotels to rally sites in both cities. At other stops, they had entered in closed cars.

In Pittsburgh, McGovern said that 150,000 U.S. men remain in Southeast Asia despite Nixon's troop withdrawal program. He said he would bring them home.

Reunion

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jason Robards and Stella Stevens, who co-starred in the movie, "The Ballad of Cable Hogue," team up again for an episode of television's "Ghost Story."

Flag Pole Star Held On Assault

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—John "Flagpole" Kelly, the once-famous flagpole-sitter, was in the prison ward at County-USC Medical Center Wednesday, held on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

The 59-year-old suspect, who sat for six months atop a flagpole in Miami in the early 1930s, suffered a heart seizure while being taken to a police station Tuesday night, police reported.

Kelly had been arrested at his home in suburban North Hollywood on charges of firing six shots from a revolver. Police said the bullets went over the head of his housekeeper, Alice D'Amico.

Dance, Show To Raise Travel Fund

A dance and show in San Francisco Saturday night will raise funds toward sending Scott Fetterly and Karen Keller of Novato to represent the United States in an international dance competition in Australia.

The affair will be at the Hinton-Pick School of Ballroom Dancing at 380 18th Avenue, from 8 p.m. to midnight. There will be public dancing, exhibition dancing featuring the young Novato team plus students of the Hinton-Pick school, ballroom dancing contests, and refreshments.

The campaign to raise funds for sending the two young Marinites to the worldwide competition is still less than half way to its $2,000 goal, according to Mrs. Ronald G. Keller, Karen's mother.

Contributions (tax-deductible) may be sent to Overseas Travel Fund, 1130 Ferris Drive, Novato.

Men Can Dress Like Women. . If

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Men may legally appear in public in women's clothing as long as they also sport a beard.

The Franklin County Court of Appeals, in dismissing cases against three bearded men arrested last December at a Gay Activists Alliance dance, said they "apparently are not trying to pass as women."

The law under which they had been charged forbids public nudity or in "dress not belonging to his or her sex."

Despite dismissal of the charges, the secretary of the Gay Activists, Patrik Miller, said it cannot be considered a victory because the court upheld the constitutionality of the law.

The judges said in their ruling Tuesday that the law prevents persons from being victimized by impersonators of the opposite sex.

S.F. Opera 50th Season To Open

The San Francisco Opera celebrates its 50th season beginning tomorrow night when world famous coloratura soprano Joan Sutherland will sing the title role in Bellini's "Norma."

Among the highlights of the golden anniversary season will be Richard Wagner's "Ring" cycle, which includes "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure," "Siegfried" and "Gotterdammerung." The cycle will be presented three times during the season.

With Miss Sutherland in "Norma" will be Huguette Tourangeau, Clifford Grant and John Alexander. The show starts at 7:45 p.m.

Also tomorrow night, the 15th annual Monterey Jazz Festival gets under way. Stan Kenton and his orchestra, the Modern Jazz Quartet and the Elvin Jones Quartet will perform in the first of three concerts.

DRAMA

Tomorrow is the last day for application to the American Conservatory Theater's Young Conservatory. The full-time training program is open to people between ages 8 and 18.

ACT has announced its 1972-73 repertory, to be presented at the Geary Theater. Seven new productions and two revivals are on the schedule. The 28-week season will open Oct. 28 with "Cyrano de Bergerac," with Peter Donat in the title role.

Other events:

Geary Theater — "Godspell" Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m., Saturday, 2:30 and 8:30 p.m.; Sunday, 3 and 7:30 p.m.

Marines' Memorial Theater — "Sleuth," Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 2:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Curran Theater — "No, No, Nanette," Monday through Saturday, 8:30 p.m.; Wednesday, Saturday, 2:30 p.m.

San Francisco Museum of Art — Closed until its grand reopening on Oct. 14.

Muskrat Can Mean Pocketful Of Money

The yield of the muskrat in North America, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, exceeds in value that of any other fur. This rodent, found nearly everywhere on this continent excluding the treeless tundra, has a dense, soft underfur overlaid with long, glossy guard hairs, prized for both beauty and durability.

Pianist's Recital Tailored For Young

By WILLIAM CLARK

San Domenico's music department kicked off its fall term yesterday with a recital by 23-year-old pianist Patricia Michaelian, graduate of Curtis Institute and a Kimber award winner.

Bright sunlight outdoors, the open feeling of the hall, and fresh, young student faces, lent a healthy, exuberant atmosphere to the occasion.

Miss Michaelian's program, tailored for a young audience, consisted of Mozart's Sonata in D (K.284), the Bartok Suite Op. 14, and the Chopin Scherzo in C-sharp minor.

The opening Mozart was played in a dashing, spirited manner befitting a young, athletic pianist with an abundance of technical resources and the polish of fine training. But the desire to overwhelm in a piece designed to entertain produced some harsh sounds in the open harmonies and some steely-fingered scales. Miss Michaelian is not the first pianist to be seduced by the virtuoso possibilities of the passagework in this sonata, nor the first to mistake mere volume for orchestral sonority.

The Bartok suite opened up another world in which Miss Michaelian's considerable talents could flow unhampered, and she played with a fire and intensity wonderful to hear. The four movements made a perfectly coherent whole, the free-wheeling rhythmic drive building to a peak in the scherzo that sustained the concluding sostenuto in a very moving way.

The Chopin scherzo was remarkable for its clarity and technical brilliance. The fast tempo and insistent rhythms led to a most impressive coda at the expense, however, of lyrical subtleties and shimmering colors possible in this piece.

The Dollar Is Second Class

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American tourists visiting Europe should carry traveler's checks in the currency of the country or countries they plan to visit because the U. dollar is regarded as second class in the region, the president of a foreign exchange company believes.

Nicholas L. Deak, president of Deak and Company, said Wednesday the dollar now is subject to wide discount margins at hotels and other places tourists might wish to change their dollars or traveler's checks.

"It is simply a matter of Western Europe having been flooded with dollars and having far more than it wants," Deak said at a news conference.

Youths Charged In Ax Murders

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Two youths were charged with murder Wednesday in the ax slayings of an 88-year-old woman and her nephew during a robbery at their home.

Arrested and held without bond were James Curtis Malone and Alfred L. George, both 17. The two youths were living at a residential probation center.

They were charged with the murder of Blanch Jones, 88, and Wilbur Jones, 56, whose bodies were found at the ransacked family home Tuesday morning.

Reeves said both youths had police records and Malone was awaiting sentencing Oct. 27 on a breaking and entering conviction.

Campaign Delayed

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—County Coroner Lois R. Shanks interrupted her campaign for re-election Wednesday to give birth to an 8-pound, 4-ounce girl at Sacred Heart Medical Center.

Army Volunteers Aid To Park-Rec Group

The Army Reserve unit attached to Fort Cronkhite is interested in helping install playground equipment at Larkspur's Dolliver Park, commission members heard last night.

As part of an altered public image, said Harlan Barry, parks and recreation director, the Army Reserves have offered 60 to 80 men to work a couple of days on the project.

There is $7,500 budgeted for the heavy wooden equipment for the park, Barry said, and commission chairman Theresa Campbell and Sally Ann Wilson were designated to set up a day in December for the reserves' work project.

Larkspur Recreation Commission Also:

BICYCLE — Approved a system of secondary bicycle paths on existing streets to route traffic off Magnolia Avenue. Stripes and signs will be installed on Alexander, Taylor, Monte Vista, Holcomb and Williams.

TENNIS — Heard that a start won't be made on constructing tennis courts in Piper Park until next spring.

FEES — Were told that there is $40,000 in the kitty from condominium conversion fees, some paid under protest.

RECREATION — Scheduled Oct. 11 to hear a review of the summer recreation program by Jacqueline Branch, Corte Madera's recreation director who ran the program this year.

VACANCY — Decided to solicit candidates for a vacancy for a young member on the commission. Applicants should be Larkspur residents under 22, preferably a college student, and should apply to Barry at city hall. Interviews will be held at the Oct. 11 meeting.

No Complaint In Drug Case

No complaint was filed yesterday against a 23-year-old Central Marin man arrested earlier in the day on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and being under their influence.

The district attorney's office, however, said an investigation of the case against David William Newton, who gave both Fairfax and San Anselmo addresses, is continuing.

San Rafael Police stopped the Newton car on Francisco Boulevard after midnight and noted he appeared to be under the influence of narcotics. Police said they found possible heroin in the car.

A 16-year-old youth also in the car was cited to juvenile authorities, but Newton's wife was released with their 3-year-old son.

70 Homes Get Plan Approval

The Sausalito Community Appearance Advisory board last night approved the architectural plans for about 70 of the 90 homes in the Marina Vista subdivision, on the hills overlooking Bridgeway, near Nevada Street.

The remaining 20 plans, submitted by the Sausalito-based developer, Environmental Planning and Design Inc., will be resubmitted to the appearances board after design alterations have been made.

According to planning director H. Eric Borgwardt, the board decided that about 20 of the homes on Downhill building sites would visually overpower their lots by creating a mass of building without relief.

Preview Of Opera

A preview of the opera "Norma" will be presented from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. today at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, according to Ruth Alexander, chairman of the Marin Opera Action volunteers.

Sniper Attack In Marin City

A sergeant in the Marin County Sheriff's Department was cruising past apartment buildings on Cole Drive in Marin City today when gun shots rang out and two bullets struck his car.

Plea Bargain Is Thrown Out

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday threw out a plea bargain with Michael John Ontiveros, 23, of San Francisco because the man insisted he was innocent in talks with his probation officer.

Ontiveros pleaded guilty in July to two counts of passing stolen checks worth $650 at the Redwood Bank in San Rafael last year on condition he serve no more than six months in jail.

However, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner refused to fllow the arrangement and set a jury trial for the week of Nov. 6.

McCarthys Named In Death Suit

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A $500,000 suit was filed yesterday in Solano County Superior Court against former Sen. John F. McCarthy, his wife Ursula and son Christopher, 15, all of San Rafael, as the result of a three-car crash near Vallejo that killed two persons.

The suit was filed on behalf of Dr. Rolland Carter of San Rafael and Joseph Reade of Novato, the husband and son of Julie J. Carter, 47, who was killed in the Sept. 5 crash. She had taught for 22 years in Fairfax School District.

Another driver, William J. Waring, 27, of Vallejo, also died in the crash.

The complaint charged that the elder McCarthys were responsible for the actions of Christopher, who was driving with a learner's permit accompanied by his mother and two friends while headed for Lake Tahoe.

The Solano County office of the California Highway Patrol reported that young McCarthy was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Alive And Well

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) —Monoplacophorans, small sea creatures first detected in fossil deposits 500 million years old, were believed for many years to have become extinct during the Middle Devonian period, about 320 million years ago. However, in 1952 a research vessel dredged up 12 living monoplacophorans from a depth of 11,400 feet off the Costa Rican coast.

Prisoner Of War Kin On Way To Hanoi

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—The mother of one POW and the wife of another left with a group of antiwar activists Thursday on the third leg of a flight to Hanoi to bring home three war prisoners whose freedom has been promised by the North Vietnamese.

The Swedish Broadcasting Corp. said it had been advised the men would return to U.S. soil Monday, Sept. 25.

"I could do with some sleep," said Mrs. Minnie Lee Gartley of Dunedin, Fla., as she walked out to the plane. Her son, Navy Lt. Mark Gartley was shot down over Hanoi Aug. 17, 1968.

"The telephone never stopped ringing at home with mothers and wives asking me to bring greetings," she said. This tragic war has certainly brought us together. Happy as I am, it will be a terrible experience to leave Hanoi with Mark knowing how many are left behind."

Sitting next to Mrs. Gartley in the airport's VIP room was Mrs. Olga Charles, 24, of San Diego. Her husband, Navy Lt. Norris Alfonso Charles was captued Dec. 30, 1971.

The wife of Maj. Edward Elias, third of the POWs whose imminent release was announced by Hanoi, was advised by her doctor not to travel.

"I'm still in a state of shock and cannot believe my husband will be free," said Mrs. Charles.

"My biggest problem was to get all the letters and small personal gifts for other prisoners tucked into my suitcase," said Mrs. Gartley.

The group was led by U.S. antiwar activists David Dellinger, Cora Weiss and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin of Yale University.

"We hope to arrive next Saturday and will stay in Hanoi for a week," Dellinger said. Dellinger was given special court permission to travel pending appeal of his Chicago Seven convicion stemming from the 1968 Democratic convention riots Chicago.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Waltons," CBS-TV's new series, will boast a cast of 13, the largest permanent set of regulars of any weekly dramatic show in prime time.

Lagunitas School Hit By Blaze

District officials and members of the Marin County Fire Department were checking the ruins today to find the cause and the extent of damage. The school's business office said an inventory must be made of all equipment the center had checked out to the classroom, to learn how much was lost in the blaze that was reported shortly after 7:30 p.m.

Although the flames were confined to the portable building known as Room 16, there was smoke damage to books in the adjoining library room, school spokesmen said.

The amount of loss had not been calculated by midmorning.

Slide Lecture

Los Angeles artist Jo Rebert will present a slide lecture entitled "Values and Their Implications" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Francis Young Gallery of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

If Onassis Can Break Dishes Why Can't Every Other Greek?

ATHENS (UPI)—Why can Aristotle Onassis smash dinner plates in restaurants with impunity while unrenowned citizens are jailed for doing the same thing? That was the question an attorney has asked.

Newspapers printed pictures of Onassis at a seaside resort with his arm around Italian actress Elsa Martinelli. The papers said he smashed "hundreds" of plates on the floor as Bouzouki singers danced, an old Greek tradition.

Except that the Greek military regime outlawed plates-mashing in 1968. "A year ago, a client of mine in Rhodes went to jail for 15 days for breaking plates," lawyer Nickolas Galeadis said. "And in the same newspaper that carried the pictures of Onassis, on another page was a story of a 25-year old housepainter who was arrested on the island of Eubea for breaking crockery."

"I have now sent full details of the Onassis case to the public prosecutor, the minister of justice, and Deputy Premier (Stylianos) Pattakos. I shall wait and see what they will do about it," Galeadis said.

He said the law against breaking plates, passed by the present government because the habit was "unbecoming to the Greek image," provided up to six months imprisonment for violators.

"But according to the law's second article, anyone making a big noise and getting a lot of publicity breaking his plates must get a minimum three-month sentence and possibly one year," the lawyer said.

"At the moment there are about 20 people in prisonon the island of Kos for such an offense," Galeadis said.

An Onassis spokesman would not comment on the matter. He said the shipping magnate was on his private island of Skorpios in the Ionian Sea at the present time, while his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, was in New York.

Coins Scatter, Jam Traffic

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Four money bags fell out of a Loomis armored truck today, scattered 4,000 silver dollars on busy Interstate 80 and caused a traffic jam.

The Highway Patrol said most of the money was recovered by Loomis personnel, patrolmen and helpful motorists. But it said several motorists took some of the money.

The Patrol said the incident occurred during the morning rush hour on the freeway northeast of Sacramento when a door of the truck sprang open and the sacks fell out. The sacks burst open, spilling the dollars.

POTENTIAL OPEN SPACE PURCHASE SITES

SAN RAFAEL CITY BOUNDARY

CITY BOUNDARY

OPEN SPACE — Outlined in green on this map are 3,800 acres of undeveloped and privately owned open space land in San Rafael, according to Jerry R. Russom, co-chairman of the San Rafael Open Space Committee. If San Rafael's $2.25 million bond election passes Tuesday, the city council will be charged with developing a priority list of parcels to acquire from among this acreage.

Largest on the list of 21 parcels is the balance of Chinn Ho's lands stretching from Peacock Gap to Santa Venetia. The 1,260-acre parcel, on which no development has yet been proposed, is currently in the process of annexation to the city.

The ballot argument favoring the bond issue says zoning alone cannot preserve San Rafael's remaining open sapce. "If we are to preserve areas in their present state, they must be purchased in the public interest," says the argument, written by Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

The argument also claims there is no conflict between the city bond issue and the county-wide park district proposal, which will be voted on in November.

"The city bond issue provides an emergency measure of saving areas which are in immediate danger of being developed. On the other hand, the county-wide district would provide a long range program of acquiring open space both within and but mostly outside of the San Rafael city limits," according to the argument.

The council called for the special election in an effort to keep the county and city open space proposals separate, according to Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan. The San Rafael bond has a better chance of passing in a special election than it would on Nov. 7, since the ballot already contains a confusing string of initiative measures, Mulryan said.

The special election, to be run by the county, will cost the city $8,500.

No argument against the measure was submitted and there has been no organized opposition to it.

The San Rafael Open Space Committee — a citizens group urging passage of the bond issue —began organizing a grassroots campaign shortly after the city council announced plans last June for the special election.

The committee, cochaired by Mulryan, Jerry R. Russom, president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association, and Eric Eitreim, now has more than 200 members.

The committee divided the city into 23 precincts, elected precinct chairmen and for the past week has conducted a doorbell effort aimed at getting out the vote.

Some 20,909 residents are registered and eligible to vote in the election.

Although Terra Linda residents will not vote in the election, they will pay the 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation should the bond issue pass and the community services district be annexed to the city, according to Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

The committee will provide babysitters and carpools for voters who need them on election day, according to Russom. Residents who favor the proposal as determined through community canvassing will be phoned on Tuesday and reminded to vote, he said.

The bond issue has also been endorsed by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters, People for Parks and Open Space, about two dozen homeowners groups, Mulryan said.

Polls are open Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

ROTC Director: We Must Show Our Uniforms On Campus Again

FT. MONROE, Va. (AP) — The director of the Army's Reserve Officer Training Corps said yesterday ROTC programs must change the "low-profile attitude" adopted during antimilitary demonstrations on the nation's college campuses.

Brig. Gen. Milton E. Key told the 10th annual ROTC Conference at Continental Army Command headquarters here that ROTC enrollment has dropped drastically in the wake of the campus demonstrations.

"We must show our uniforms on campus again," he said.

Figures made public by the Army at the conference showed that the number of students enrolled in ROTC dwindled from 177,000 in 1966-67 to 50,000 in 1971-72.

Key blamed the decrease on a lessening of recruitment effort as ROTC programs came under fire from dissident campus elements and on the attitudes of college administrations which dropped compulsory ROTC.

Despite the enrollment declines, Key said, ROTC is going to "tighten up" on recruitment. He said a lowering of standards has brought too many "obese misfits" into the program.

High achievers will avoid ROTC if it continues to accept substandard recruits, the general said.

Gen. Ralph Haines, commanding general of the Continental Army Command CONARC, told the conference that ROTC "for the indefinite future will provide us with the largest part of our officer corps."

He indicated concern over the prospect of an all-volunteer army. Without draft pressure, Haines said, the military may have difficulty attracting college graduates into its officer training programs.

Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, president of Eastern Michigan University, said the decline in ROTC enrollment will be costly to the military's officer corps.

The Army gets 20 times more officers from ROTC than can be produced by the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, and 35 per cent of all Air Force officers and half of those in the Navy are ROTC graduates, the educator said.

Class Of '32 Will Reunite

According to reunion cochairman, Angelo Turrini, about half the 26-member class has been located.

A reunion — cocktails, dinner and dancing — is scheduled for 8 p.m. Dec. 23 at Dominic's restaurant, San Rafael.

Class members are asked to get in touch with Turrini of San Rafael, Edwin Garcia of Kentfield, or Henry Catala, also of San Rafael.

Classroom Enrollment Dips In Marin

Opening day enrollment in Marin County public schools was 51,322, down 413 from last year, reports to the county superintendent's office from school districts show.

The decline was despite an enrollment gain of 609 at College of Marin over its opening day in 1971. Below the junior college level, the drop from last year was 1,022.

High school enrollments were up slightly, with declines increasing grade-by-grade below the ninth. Supt. James G. Bunker of Novato Unified School District reported only about 720 enrolled in kindergarten compared to 980 in sixth grade.

Of the 16 elementary school districts, 10 reported lower enrollment than on last year's opening.

Sausalito School District, however, reversed a longtime trend with opening enrollment of 496, up 45 from a year ago. Sausalito school enrollment had been declining steadily since the 1962-63 school year, when average daily attendance was 1,123.

Also bucking the trend were Bolinas-Stinson School District, with a gain of 14 over last year; Laguna, up by one; Lagunitas, up three; Nicasio, up five, and Ross, up 31.

All superintendents report they expect the rolls to increase slightly by Monday, with some pupils entering late.

District-by-district, here are the opening day enrollments as reported to County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis, with the figure for last year in parentheses:

ELEMENTARY DISTRICTS — Bolinas,-Stinson 210 (196), Dixie 4,117 (4,354), Fairfax 957 (1,042), Kentfield 1,273 (1,303), Laguna 18 (17), Lagunitas 473 (470), Larkspur 1,478 (1,555), Lincoln 12 (15), Mill Valley 3,403 (3,454), Nicasio 53 (48), Reed 1,835 (1,876), Ross 491 (462), San Anselmo 1,839 (2,023), San Rafael 4,199 (4,444), Sausalito 496 (451), Union 9 (17).

HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICTS — San Rafael 4,146 (4,062), Tamalpais 6,137 (6,-114).

A breakdown in the unified districts shows Novato with 6,061 in elementary schools (kindergarten-sixth grade), down from 6,399 last year; 2,669 in junior high (seventh-to-ninth), down from 2,716 last year, and 2,465 in senior high, up from 2,368. The remainder were in special classes.

In Shoreline, elementary schools (kindergarten-to-eighth grade) dropped to 639 from 668 last year, high school gained to 263 from 258.

Opening day enrollment at College of Marin was 7,271, up from 6,662 a year ago.

Special schools operated by the county schools office enrolled 739 at this year's opening, up from 572 a year earlier.

Pipeline Application Reprieved By Board

The Marin Municipal Water District board yesterday voted against installing pipelines to the proposed Meadowsweet Development in Corte Madera, but then reconsidered the split vote moments before adjournment and decided to continue the application.

The directors decided to postpone their vote on the pipeline application rather than influence the Corte Madera Planning Commission which was scheduled to review the controversial development's final subdivision maps last night.

Before it reconsidered, the water board turned down the application for a pipeline extension to the proposed 128-unit development called Madera Del Presidio by a 2-2 vote, with one abstention.

Directors Jack R. Felson and Dr. Ronald T. Stafford, who have consistently opposed new hookups during what they consider to be a water shortage, voted against the application.

Board President Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. and John MacPhail Jr. voted for the new water service, saying the water board should not involve itself in planning decisions.

Eugene Miller abstained from voting and the motion died without a majority. Miller later said he abstained because his soils engineering firm of Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates of San Rafael, had worked at the Meadowsweet site.

Before its initial vote, the board heard a letter from Corte Madera Councilman Robert J. Flahive which opposed the pipeline application. Flahive asked the board to delay its decision until Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson issues a ruling tomorrow on the validity of the development's master plan.

Flahive's letter also asked for a delay because the Corte Madera Planning Commission hadn't ruled on the final map; the city recently passed a moratorium on all large developments and the question of a school site for Madera Del Presidio children remains unresolved.

After brief statements by Mrs. Flahive and a spokesman for the developers, Cal-West Communities Inc., the board denied the application.

About 90 minutes later, as the board was about to adjourn, Felson breathed new life into the application by asking for a reconsideration.

Though he opposed the new water service, Felson said he did not want to handicap the developer in his appearance before the planning commission a few hours later.

Martinelli agreed, saying the water district might otherwise be liable to a damaging law suit brought by the developers. The board then voted 4-0 to wipe out its rejection and continue the pipeline application. Again Miller abstained.

Water Board To Seek Aid For Children's Playground

The Marin Municipal Water District board yesterday decided to seek financial assistance from the town of Corte Madera and a local homeowners association for the construction of a children's playground near its San Clemente water tank in Mariner Highlands.

After reviewing elaborate landscaping plans for the tot lot, the water board flinched at the idea of paying the entire $7,000 price tag.

Director John Mac Phail Jr. objected to the price and the propriety of a water district spending money for playgrounds.

Jack R. Felson said people in Marin are coming to expect public agencies to involve themselves in several different areas. He said the park would make a good joint project with the city and a homeowners group.

The board decided to accept the architectural renderings — which include benches, trees, play equipment and a play area — and instructed its staff to seek cooperation from Corte Madera and the homeowners.

The Marin Municipal Water District Board also:

TRAINING — Agreed to pay incidental costs from sending four water treatment plant operators to tuition-free training classes in Berkeley.

NICASIO SCHOOL — Continued a proposal to sell three acres of water district land to the Nicasio School District in return for $1,000 and the right to flood a portion of the land in the event the district builds up the Nicasio Dam.

RESTORATION — Appropriated $996 to pay Cagwin and Dorward to spray seed the land fills along the recently installed Fairfax transmission line project.

PUMP STATION — Awarded a contract to the Underground Construction Co., on a time and material basis, to complete phase one of the Lagunitas Booster Station by Oct. 15. Because time is short, the board decided to split the large construction job into two phases and award both contracts on a time and materials basis.

AIR BASE — Decided to send Hamilton Air Force Base a letter which will indicate the district's preference to treat the air base like a regular customer, rather than on a special contract. A regular application for service will accompany a letter which will explain that the air base's existing contract terminates Oct. 1.

STUDY — Authorized $20,000 for phase two of a water resources management study being prepared by Cornell, Howland, Hayes, and Merryfield, Clair A. Hill Associates. Phase two will be a study of the water needs and supplies of the water district.

WATER MAINS — Awarded a contract to Maggiora and Ghilotti for $125,236 to rehabilitate several water mains in the Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley area.

ASBESTOS — Awarded a contract to Johns-Manville Sales Corporation for $49,-217.07 for asbestos cement water pipes.

School Board Must Pay For Withholding Candidates' Names

Ruling that the Marin County Board of Education acted arbitrarily and capriciously by withholding the names of candidates for a board vacancy, a Marin judge yesterday ordered the board to pay the attorney's fee for a suit against the board.

Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick said the board must pay Sausalito attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund $500 and court costs for the suit he filed asking the court to order the release of the names of those who applied for a vacant board seat.

The suit was filed July 24 on behalf of Pieter Toal, former member of the San Anselmo School Board, and the county board 15 days later released the names of four Novato residents who had applied for the seat vacated by William L. Sisk in late May.

The board and Supt. Virgil S. Hollis had refused to release the names of Dewey W. Roberts, Alice Price, Raleigh Floyd and William J. Smith, saying they were pledged anonymity.

The board's stand ignored the opinion of the county counsel, who recommended turning over the names.

Bjorklund's request was based on a new section of state law providing for such compensation if a governmental agency brings a lawsuit on itself by "arbitrary and capricious" action.

Broderick said the county board's action met that qualification. "No excuse was tendered for their actions," he said.

In Toal's suit, Bjorklund said that after seeking the advice of the county counsel, "receiving it, and then wilfully ignoring it, forcing upon a member of the public the obligation and expense of formal legal proceedings to enforce a public right is capriciousness of the worst kind."

The board's secrecy policy had been in effect uince 1956.

Madera Del Presidio Decision Is Delayed

Design approval for the first 128 units of the controversial Madera del Presidio development hung fire last night when the Corte Madera Planning Commission coninued the design application to its Oct. 10 meeting.

Commissioners asked the developers, Cal West Properties, for specifics on street and garden lighting, and were unhappy with asbestos shingles selected for roofs of the townhouses.

Commissioner David Freed today said the continuation was "not in any sense a delaying tactic," although he said a large delegation of opponents to the development asked for a delay.

The opponents cited the lack of a designated school site, no certainty of water hookup and no formal open space element in Corte Madera's general plan, Freed said, "but these were not germane to design review."

Madera del Presidio was before the Corte Madera Board of Design Review at least half a dozen times in the past few months before getting that board's approval, and once before the planners on Monday.

Public Works Director Arthur N. Morrison said the design approval is the last public hearing before construction starts. All that's necessary once that is given is a building permit.

The 500-plus-unit development — which has led to more controversy than Corte Madera has ever seen — already has been given approval for a tentative master plan for planned unit development, and a tentative map for unit 1, plus a grading permit.

Next Monday night, the Corte Mader Town Council is slated to consider a letter from the Mill Valley School District regarding a school for the Madera del Presidio children.

In the letter, trustee Joseph E. Bodovitz stated the Mill Valley district doesn't want to build a school in the area and cannot guarantee bus service for children to its school at Strawberry Point.

Bodovitz suggested his district and the town formally notify would-be purchasers of the homes of the crouded school situation.

Highway Work Is Announced

Projects in progress on Highway 101 that will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. Northbound at the south end of the Waldo Grade, various lanes will be closed between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. for pavement marking.

2. Southbound on the Waldo Grade, lanes 1 and 2 will be closed for preparatory work on bus lanes, 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

3. Richardson Bay Bridge, all three northbound lanes will be closed one at a time up to 3 p.m. for paving at the south end of the span.

4. Corte Madera, northbound, inside lane will be closed 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for repair of damaged guard rail, south of California Park Hill.

5. Greenbrae, southbound outside lane will be closed for one-half mile north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard all day, for slide removal.

Teamsters Union Leader Indicted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Jose Teamsters Union official has been indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of embezzling $3,500 from his union's credit union.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jerry K. Cimmet said Wednesday's indictment involved 12 fictitious loans from March through July, 1970, when Jack Herrmann, 55, was treasurer of the Credit Union of Teamsters Local 287 of San Jose.

Herrmann later became the local's business agent.

Cimmet asserted there were about 30 fictitious loans totaling about $25,000 and because of the loss the credit union was now in the hands of a liquidator.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Sir:

Will you please help to settle an argument? My neighbor was watching the Olympic Games on TV when the announcer said two American track stars were disqualified for being late to their preliminary races. My friend was plenty mad. I tried to convince him that our entire U.S. team darn near missed the Olympic Games completely because of a mixup in dates back in the old days. I think it had to do with a difference in calendars, something you wrote about recently. Do you know the story? Signed: Sports Fan

Dear Fan:

Tell your neighbor we goofed the first year the Olympics were held in modern times! That was 1896. The place was Athens, Greece. And the reason for our near-miss was the unbelievable ignorance of our American coaches and organizers. Nobody on the U.S. Olympic team had realized that Greece was still using the old Julian Calendar, while we were on the Gregorian. Thus our team took 17 leisurely days going from New York to Greece on a steamer. They planned on having 12 extra days to practice and warm up after arriving. But what a surprise they got on landing to learn the Olympics were about to begin. A 12-day difference between the calendars nearly cost us all the medals! We just weren't so lucky 76 years later.

Best Way To Cure A Nagger—Stuff Old Socks In His Mouth

The best way to cure your bridge partner of nagging is by affection, understanding, tolerance and stuffing a pair of old socks in his mouth. When the millennium comes (in a trifle more than 27 years), your partner won't have to nag because you'll bid and play each hand to absolute perfection. While waiting for this happy day, practice on today's hand.

PLAY LOW

West opens the ten of hearts, and you play low from the dummy. West continues with another heart, and you ruff with the deuce of spades. You expect to lose a diamond and a trump in addition to the heart already lost, but the hand will not play itself without a little help from you.

If you draw two rounds of trumps and then lead a diamond to dummy's king, East will take the ace of diamonds and lead a third trump. Now you have no way to dispose of your third diamond.

If you lead a diamond to dummy's king before drawing two rounds of trumps, East wins with the ace of diamonds and leads a high heart. Now the defenders get two trump tricks.

DON'T LOOK FOR SOCKS

Should you look for a pair of old socks? Not at all. You can play the hand perfectly, giving your partner no reason to nag.

After ruffing the second heart, take the ace and king of spades. Then lead dummy's low diamond. East must play low, and you win with the queen.

Lead your low club to dummy's ten and ruff one of dummy's hearts. Lead the jack of clubs to dummy's king, and ruff dummy's last heart with your last trump. Now proceed with the clubs.

DEFENSIVE TRICKS

East can take his jack of trumps whenever he likes, but that and the ace of diamonds are the only defensive tricks. Dummy regains the lead with the last trump to cash the last club.

BACHELOR'S DREAM

It's beautiful, it's unique, it's one of a kind. It has a magnificent bay view and is also suitable for a family (has 3 bdrms., 3 baths), for a playboy (has an unbelievable large bar and den, looks like an English pub with view). A spiral staircase (a must see), 2 large redwood decks, one for each level. Everything is done in superb taste with extensive use of wood and cabinet work. The bath in master bdrm. is a work of art. Plus many other features too numerous to mention. We should charge admission just to see it. $87,000.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

MS Is One Of Most Prevalent Disorders Of The Nerve System

Multiple sclerosis (MS) is one of the most prevalent nervous system disorders. The causative agent, whatever it is, nips away willy-nilly at the outer sheath (myelin) of the nerve fibers that run from the top of the brain to the bottom of the spinal cord. When this protective covering is destroyed, the nerve is damaged temporarily or permanently and the transmission of impulses is disrupted.

There are millions of nerve fibers in the central nervous system and the manifestations of MS depend on the location and the number of affected fibers. Little wonder that no two patients with MS have the same initial symptoms.

THE AGE AT which symptoms are apt to develop roughly parallels the child-bearing period. First attacks often follow an acute infection, trauma, vaccination, or pregnancy. It is questionable whether these conditions play a causative role.

Many victims complain of numbness, tingling, or coldness in one extremity. These sensations may shift from one extremity to another. A number of sufferers have a feeling of heaviness (or deadness) in the legs or in one arm. Loss of vision in one or both eyes and, occasionally, double vision may ensue. Transient paralysis, weakness, or awkwardness of the limbs also develops. Painful muscle spasms and loss of urinary or bowel control may be troublesome.

AT THE OUTSET, one or two of these symptoms may exist, but they often subside spontaneously. For example, there may be weakness in one or both legs or impaired vision in one eye. Generally, these disappear only to return months later with additional involvement. Certain defects persist, leading ultimately to complete disability. Mood disturbances (usually euphoria) also are seen, although some victims become depressed.

No specific tests demonstrate MS. Diagnosis rests on the varied and unpredictable manifestations. Symptoms are treated as they develop.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

AGE OF PHOTO

Mrs. M. G. writes: This is far from a medical question, but it has our yoga class in an uproar. Mrs. L. claims that the small picture of you at the top of the column is an oldie. Several other ladies in the group disagree. Personally, I'm on the fence, since I really don't know. If it is not against your policy, can you tell us if the photograph is new or old?

REPLY

X-RAYS AND FISH BONE

W. writes: If a person swallows a fish bone and it sticks to the throat, would it show up on X-ray?

REPLY

Bones usually show up under X-ray, but often can be seen by direct examination.

BEER SPRAY

I. K. writes: I spray beer on my hair every day to keep it in place. Is this harmful?

REPLY

No. As a matter of fact, some girls use beer to set their hair. It is supposed to be very effective for this purpose.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, light air pollution.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Salvation Army Unit Is Broke

SAN JOSE (UPI)—The Salvation Army has stopped providing food for the city's needy because its coffers are empty.

"We are broke," Major William Ricken, administrator of the Army's emergency grocery order program, said Wednesday.

Ricken added that his unit was $4,000 in debt.

He blamed the fiscal problem on the Santa Clara County Department of Social Services. "They quit giving food stamps to needy families on a walk-in basis in July and August," he said.

Ross To Study Zone Board Plea

The Ross Town Council will consider a request to turn over jurisdiction of town creeks to the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone at its meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in town hall.

The Corte Madera Town Council approved a similar request last week, but the Larkspur City Council deferred action, saying it wanted more information. (The zone board wants enforcement responsibilities for keeping creeks in the Ross Valley clear of debris, a task now handled by cities individually. The cost will be about $30,000 annually.)

The Ross council also will discuss pending legal action over the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

$12 Million Sought To Boost Cal Expo

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The general manager of the California State Fair and Exposition says fair officials will ask the legislature for $12 million to restore the fair to its original concept of a year-round event.

"We have a new plan—a plan to expand and to take the monkey off the taxpayer's back," said General Manager Thomas Bair. "I think we will get the legislature's blessing."

Bair said the Cal Expo executive committee is proposing the five-year plan to make the fair a year-round exposition and entertainment center again. Such a program was tried in 1968 but it was a financial flop.

Two months ago the executive committee proposed establishment of a large garden area, children's playground and zoo and a permanent amusement park, some of the same ideas shelved five years ago.

"We've reached the stage now," Bair said, "where most people think we have an expensive plant on our hands and maybe we ought to be doing something more. A dog show and a religious revival here and there and a 20-day fair are not enough."

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown, D-Oakland, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, said he believes the legislature "probably" will provide more funds for Cal Expo and "elevate its use."

Brown said the lawmakers likely will act favorably on the proposal rather than allow Cal Expo to be an abandoned facility for most of the year.

Apathy Toward Military At A High Point—General

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "National apathy" toward the military has reached its greatest level at a time when the "potential threat to our survival has never been greater," an Air Force general told the National Guard Association yesterday.

Public support of the military always rises and falls in times of peril and peace, Gen. Seth J. McKee of the North American Air Defense Command told 1,100 delegates to the association's 94th congress.

"Our present national apathy, however, represents a departure from the regularpattern," he said.

"While we are still very actively engaged in a shooting war, and at a time when the known potential threat to our national survival has never been greater, we find ourselves at the very bottom of the curve," McKee said.

He suggested there might be less apathy if Americans were reminded of the historic fate of other powerful nations. He cited ancient Greece and Rome and the empires of Spain and Portugal.

Citing critics who term the U.S. "imperialist," McKee said that in the past quarter century of world dominance, the U.S. has not added "one inch of territory to the national boundaries of our nation at the expense of another nation."

In the same period, he said, former Western colonial powers granted independence to more than 1.1 billion persons while the Soviet Union has "brought under varying degrees of subjugation over 100 million people."

RED-FACED RUSSIA

Embarrassment Over Olympics

By PAUL WOHL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Moscow's embarrassment over the Arab guerrilla killing of Israeli athletes in Munich has been deepened by the reactions of both its own citizens and its Eastern European colleagues.

It was one of those rare occasions when overwhelming personal reactions have exposed — briefly — a gulf between Communist sympathies and Communist policy.

On-the-spot observers report that privately even highly placed Russians have expressed embarrassment and indignation.

A number of Russian citizens, mostly Jews, protested publicly, despite official denial of a request from several of them for permission to do so.

Andrei D. Sakharov, the "father of the Soviet H-bomb" and chairman of the private Civil Rights Committee, joined some 30 men and women in a street demonstration in which all were detained briefly by Moscow police. It may have been the first time that Professor Sakharov has chosen to demonstrate in the street.

Most East European Communist-ruled countries at least made it unmistakeably clear in their initial reactions that "acts of terror and violence against innocent people are unacceptable in a civilized world" — words actually spoken by George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Through all this, however, the Soviet government itself has been forced to keep an embarrassed silence about the affair. Editorially, neither the official Soviet News Agency nor any newspaper has condemned the incident.

Only the Soviet sports committee's representative on the Olympic Committee expressed sympathy.

Soviet newspapers, which had covered the games rather fully, carried the communique of the president of the Olympic Committee, an announcement that the games had been interrupted, and extracts from West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's message to Arab heads of state.

The problem for the Kremlin is the highly delicate nature of its policy toward the Middle East, compounded as it is by the currently strained Soviet-Egyptian relations. So despite their embarrassment, the Russians are unlikely to say anything thatwould that would the Arabs.

As might have been expected, the outburst of protest in Eastern Europe ended quickly, and most reports in Communist-bloc countires, with the exception of East Germany, were brought into line with he more restrained Russian stance.

East Germany had been especially outspoken in its condemnation. Neues Deutschland carried Sept. 6 a front-page headline referring to 'Worldwide Indignation over the Brutal Crime.'

In bold type, a front-page communique stated that "official circles in the capital of the German Democratic Republic condemn in the strongest terms this disgusting crime and reject terror as a means of attaining political aims."

An editorial expressed "abomination and loathing" and called the crimes committed in the Olympic village "horrible and senseless."

The East German athletes,together with Poles and Hungarians, attended the service for the fictims, which was fully carried by East German television.

Soviet television of Sept. 6, in contrast, showed only a few pictures of the service and of the final scenes at the airport. Soviet athletes were absent from the service.

East Germany's continued unadulterated denunciation of the Palestine terrorists is said to be motivated by inside information in the possession of East German intelligence, according to which Arab terrorists are linked with underground Nazi elements in West Germany.

Other East European reports were hardly less blunt at first than those in East Germany.

According to Radio Budapest on Sept. 5, the Munich attack has lowered the Palestinian movement to "the level of banditism." Radio Warsaw on the same day spoke of "an insane act condemned by the entire world." Bucharest and Belgrade referred to the tragedy in similar terms.

Only Radio Prague spoke of "a shooting-out" without mentioning that Palestinian terrorists had been involved. Prague's colorless reaction may have been influenced by the fact that earlier 13 Czechoslovak "spectators" had asked for asylum in West Germany.

Korea Lashed By Heavy Rainstorm

SEOUL (UPI)—A heavy rainstorm hit the southern part of the Korean peninsula today causing a heavy toll of lives and widespread floodings, police reported.

Police confirmed 21 persons killed, 32 injured and seven missing. More than 1,000 houses were flooded.

The rain, which reached six inches in less than 20 hours, disrupted traffic and communication ervices in the region. A vast area of rice paddies was washed away, police said.

The southern port city of Pusan, which was hit hardest, reported 15 persons killed and 23 others injured.

Chilena Valley School Is Opened

Laguna Joint School in Chileno Valley has opened its 1972-73 school year with 19 pupils and a new teacher, Barbara Armington of San Rafael.

Trustee Donald J. Moreda reported after Tuesday night's board meeting that enrollment was up six pupils from last year. Mrs. Armington was hired at a salary of $7,800 a year.

WORD-A-DAY

New Radio Program To Be Replayed

The first program in radio station KTIM's new weekly series on city and county government will be rebroadcast at 9 a.m. Sunday according to Robert Dinsmore, station manager.

The hour-long panel discussion first aired on Tuesday featured officials from Belvedere, Mill Valley, San Rafael, Sausalito and Tiburon. They discussed a variety of topics ranging from Sausalito's life-style to San Rafael's quest for open sapce, and answered calls from listeners.

Next week's live broadcast at 9 a.m. Tuesday will feature speakers from Corte Madera, Fairfax, Larkspur, Novato and San Anselmo. County supervisors and other county officials are scheduled as panelists for the Sept. 26 broadcast.

Dinsmore, who moderates the broadcasts, said public officials will be encouraged to discuss each agency's unique problems as well as those common to all the cities and the county, stressing problems other than those on routine council or board agendas. The city and county speakers will be rotated on a regular basis.

Bill Would Aid Food Programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has received from Congress a bill that would increase federal aid for school lunch, breakfast and summer nutrition programs.

The Senate passed the measure on a voice vote Wednesday after the House approved it by a 378-0 vote.

It would raise to eight cents from six cents the federal subsidy for school lunches. This would cost an additional $85 million a year.

Breakthrough May Aid Birth Control

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)— After six years of painstaking research, a biochemist has made a breakthrough essential to understanding the role that hormones play in human reproduction—a discovery that could lead to safer birth control methods.

Dr. O.P. Bahl, a professor of biochemistry in the state university of New York's School of Medicine at Buffalo, has successfully analyzed the 231 amino acids and 55 sugar compounds of human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), a hormone created by the placenta of pregnant women which aids the development of the fetus.

The discovery is important, according to Bahl, not only because it provides a key to the successful analyzing of other complex human hormones—but because it also could lead to better, safer methods of birth control.

Essentially, Bahl said, HCG is very similar in its effects to one of two hormones, produced by the pituitary gland, that trigger ovulation in human females.

Thus, although HCG is produced in the human female after conception, its similarity to the pituitary's lutinizing hormone (LH) makes its analysis vital to any understanding of the way hormones control ovulation. Ovulation is the releasing of an egg by the ovaries, the first step toward conception.

LH, however, is extremely hard to obtain.

"You need 30,000 to 40,000 human pituitaries in order to do any kind of chemical analysis," Bahl said.

This is where HCG—an easily obtainable substitute for LH—comes in. Large amounts of the hormone are passed out in the urine of pregnant women, Bahl said.

"HCG and LH have similar functions, and we're hoping they have similar structures," he said.

HCG or LH possibly may be synthesized in the coming decade, Bahl said, but this alone will not provide any new methods of fertility control.

"You could use them in cattle, where you need more animals, but in humans you need something that could act as an antihormone."

It is in this area that Bahl's future research may provide an answer.

"The next thing we will deal with is the mechanism of altering the action of the hormone."

By "selectively modifying" the parts of the giant molecule which affect the reproductive process, Bahl said, it may be possible to create a "neutral" version of the hormone, which would act like the natural hormone in every respect except that it would not trigger ovulation.

Twist Is Added To Water Skiing: Money

Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma will be trying to make it three-for-three this weekend at the third annual California International Cup water ski tournament at Berkeley's Aquaticark, but there is a major difference this time around.

For winning the first two overall men's titles Mike, a 22-year-old who grew up in San Anselmo, won himself some trophies and plaques. That's fine, but for someone who has won the world water ski title four times and hundreds of other crowns along the way, a trophy is a trophy is a . . .

MIKE SUYDERHOUD

This time Mike will be going for a large chunk of a $15,000 prize fund, by far the largest purse ever for a water ski meet. Although he will be going against the best skiers in the world, Mike is one of the few skiers entered who would have a chance of sweeping all three divisions, jumping, slalom and tricks.

If he did such a thing it would be worth $4,000.

While practicing yesterday, Mike said he felt better, physically and mentally, than he has for some time. A partial tear of ligaments in his left knee has slowed him down the past couple of months but he's ready to go now.

"I feel as good as new," he said during a break in the practice at Aquatic Park. "I hope to do well. I feel that I'm really ready."

Mention of his chances of a sweep brings a smile to the mustachioed Suyderhoud. "These other guys are awfully good so it would be very difficult for that." First prize for overall is $1,000. First in each of the individual events is also $1,000.

Although Mike wasn't there, some of the other top U.S. skiers performed in Munich during the Olympics as a trial sport. "It will be a trial sport in Montreal for the '76 Olympics and I think by 1980 it's possible that water skiing will be an Olympic sport. It deserves to be in the Olympics since it's such a popular sport throughout the world."

Mike is one of two sport figures currently in the big league class who were reared in San Anselmo. The other is Montreal Expos' catcher-first baseman John Boccabella. The two met for the first time a few days ago.

"I was in Montreal for the Champion of the Americas tourney in August and the Expos were playing the Cincinnati Reds," Suyderhoud said. "I went to one of the games and before it started I went over by the Expo bullpen and talked to him. That was the first time we had ever met."

One of the young stars of the water ski set who will be challenging Suyderhoud is Bob La Point, 17, of Novato, national boys' slalom champ. So will Bob's brother, Kris, of Castro Valley. Trying to win a spot in the field by qualifying today was Thelma Salmas, 36, of Novato, oldest competitor in the trials who is determined to show the kids that water skiing is not just for the young. Also among those scheduled in the trials was Mike McGinley, 17, of Novato.

The youngest who is going to steal the hearts of spectators is Carlos Luis Simonet, a 13-year-old from Caracas, Venezuela. The little guy looks even younger but I'm told he's a sensation in trick skiing. In all, there will be skiers from seven foreign countries competing.

Saturday's action begins at 9 a.m. and Sunday's at 11 a.m. Tickets will be sold at the gate, $3 either day or $5 for both.

A's Odom Is Ready To Aid Flag Drive

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Right-hander John Odom is ready to aid the Oakland Athletics in the stretch drive for their second straight American League West title.

The hard-throwing pitcher shut out the Minnesota Twins on six singles 8-0 Wednesday night. He improved his record to 14-5 with the route-going performance.

The win enabled the A's to pick up a game on the second-place Chicago White Sox who lost to Kansas City and now trail Oakland by three games.

Oakland scored in bunches against the Twins—five runs in the sixth inning and three more in the ninth to gain an even split in the four-game series.

After Twins rookie Dave Goltz set the A's down on one hit in the first five innings, Oakland scored five times on four hits, two walks, a balk and an error.

Matty Alou knocked in the first run with a soft single to right after Bert Campaneris had singled up the middle and moved to second on a sacrifice by Joe Rudi. Reggie Jackson then singled to left and Mike Epstein walked, loading the bases. Goltz balked, forcing in Alou from third. Another walk again loaded the bases.

Pinch-hitter Gonsalo Marquez got an infield single to score the third run, and two more scored when Rod Carew threw wild past first, trying to retire Marquez.

Today is an open day for the A's who return home for a long 12-game stand.

Fox, Giants Closing In On 4th Spot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— There is precious little for the San Francisco Giants to salvage this season but Manager Charlie Fox will get what he can.

"We'll still try and catch Atlanta," Fox said after the Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-1 Wednesday night to pull within two games of the fourth place Braves in the National League West.

"We'll use the same lineup against Atlanta as we did against the Dodgers," Fox added. That lineup pounded out 10 hits including three doubles and a triple to whip Los Angeles.

It made it easy for pitcher Jim Barr to pick up his seventh victory. Barr was a last-minute replacement for Sam McDowell, who hurt a finger on his pitching hand.

"It was time for me to pitch anyway," Barr said. "I had my regular rest. It just wasn't my turn."

Barr gave up five hits and struck out five. He did not walk a batter. "I hate to walk batters," he said. "There's no defense against a walk. When you make the batter hit the ball, you have eight other people to help you."

Barr lost his shutout when Bobby Valentine homered in the eighth.

The Giants didn't waste any time scoring. They got single

Banaszek Recovered For 49ers

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Offensive tackle Cas Banaszek is sufficiently recovered from preseason injuries to play in the San Francisco 49ers opening season game against San Diego Sunday, 49ers officials say.

Meanwhile, two rookies, offensive guard Edgar Hardy of Jackson State and linebacker Marty Huff of Michigan signed taxi squad contracts after clearing waivers Wednesday, the club said.

Coach Dick Nolan also raised the possibility that Doug Cunningham might be reactived for the Chargers game, depending on the condition of Vic Washington, who sat out last week with a sprained ankle.

Cunningham had offseason knee surgery and has not played in any of the 49ers six preseason games.

Probe In Grid Hall Activities

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York attorney general's office Wednesday confirmed a published report that it has been investigating possible fraudalent activities on the part of the National Football Foundation.

A story, published Wednesday in the Wall Street Journal, said that the National Football Foundation has raised over $5 million during the past two decades through donations from various institutions and individuals but has a net worth right now of only $2 million and has yet to begin construction on the Hall of Fame.

The frauds bureau is trying to find out what has happened to the money collected and why the foundation has failed to launch its project.

As originally conceived, the Hall of Fame was to be constructed on the campus of Rutgers University at New Brunswick, N.J., the site of the first collegiate football game. A ground-breaking ceremony was held in 1966 but as yet no construction there.

Recently, the foundation purchased a 65-room former private home on 80th street in New York City and has said it will install the Hall of Fame there. The reason for the switch in locations, the foundation said, is due to increased building costs at Rutgers and the fact that they now have less than $2 million to spend. It is estimated that to build the Hall of Fame now at Rutgers would cost $5.5 million as compared to $1 million 20 years ago.

Raiders Count On Sistrunk To Bolster Defense

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI)— Otis Sistrunk may not make Oakland Raider fans forget Ben Davidson, but, then again, he might.

The big defensive lineman out of Georgia never went to college, yet he is being counted upon to shore up the Raiders' defense this season. And Tommy Prothro, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams, had to practically beg the Raiders to take him.

"Prothro called us up and said he wasn't going to be able to keep Sistrunk and he knew we liked him," said Raiders Coach John Madden.

San Rafael Grid Field Work Done

In order to "reduce and prevent crowd control problems," approximately $20,000 worth of renovations have been made at San Rafael High School's football field, including the erection of fencing, placement of additional lighting, and creation of a five-man supervisory group.

Moreover, three separate entrances have been assigned to prevent mixing of fans from rival schools.

"We want to reduce and prevent some incidents which have occurred in the past and may occur again in the future," said Dr. John Plank, superintendent of schools.

San Rafael's field is the only one in Marin County equipped to handle night football. Reports of scattered crowd violence circulated last season.

The measures include:

Additional perimeter fencing, most visibly on the north (Mission Street) side of the stadium, restricting fan access to the playing field and the rival fans' stands;

Security floodlights illuminating the areas behind the stands, already erected, and additional

Scott Optimistic About Chances

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Second in a series on Marin County Athletic League football prospects.)

The list of football players who were graduated from Novato High School last spring reads like a Who's Who in Marin County football. And yet, Al Scott is smiling.

Scott is the head coach, and he fully expects his Hornets to contend again for the Marin County Athletic League championship which they shared last year with San Rafael at 5-1.

"We realize we have graduated some fine football players, but we feel we can fill their positions," Scott says.

Chief among the graduated stars was all-league quarterback Marty Moroski. Replacing him is Tom Conklin, last year a starting safety "who has been throwing the ball exceptionally well in practice." Conklin won a duel with Chris De Recat for the starting job.

He will have good targets. Joe Powell started at wide receiver last year, and Joe Robinson saw a good deal of action. Chuck Dupius has earned the other wide receiver job. All are seniors. Junior Ken Straw has inherited the tight end task from his all-league brother Greg, and senior Gary Lash is a capable backup.

"We will have a pretty well balanced offense, using the information and the pro set," said Scott. "We won't have the power to run over some people, so we'll mix it up."

Juniors Mark Lipe and Ken Ferrari will start at fullback and tailback, respectively. Ferrari weighs only 140 pounds, but is "a tough little nut," in Scott's words.

The offensive line has been "inconsistent," but center Paul Kessler, guard Bruce Dunlap and tackle Chris Meaney have impressed Scott.

The defense currently is a question mark, but Scott is confident it will turn into an exclamation point by season's end.

"We may not have one or two outstanding indiviudals in the line like we did last year (i.e., all-leaguer Russ Weklych), but we will have a good group. The secondary has had some trouble, but it's made tremendous improvement, and the potential definitely is there."

Senior halfback Mike Rennier is the only experienced player in a secondary that includes junior Mike Martin ("an outstanding hitter") and impressive sophomore Steve Hoog.

All told, Novato has 14 lettermen returning, and 24 other spots on the roster filled by relatively inexperienced players. The Hornets host tough Riordan of San Francisco Saturday at 1 p.m. in their season opener, and begin league play against experienced Terra Linda Sept. 30.

Sept. 16	Riordan of San Francisco	1 p.m.
Sept. 23	at Lincoln of San Francisco	11 a.m.

Miami Faces Kansas City In Opener; Kicking Duel Looms

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It was ironic last Christmas night that the American football conference title was decided by a Cypriot and a Norwegian. But the 1972 season could open with the same pair playing a major role.

The Cypriot is Garo Yepremian and he kicked a 37-yard field goal in the "sixth quarter" to give the Miami Dolphins a 27-24 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs and a berth in the Super Bowl. Jan Stenerud, the Norwegian-born placekicker for Kansas City, had blown a chance to give the Chiefs the title when he missed a 31-yarder — normally a sure thing for him — with 31 seconds left.

National Football League schedule-makers have decided to open the season with a rematch of the 82-minute, 40-second title game and the Chiefs seem especially apprehensive about it.

They won't come right out and say it but coach Hank Stram feels his club is ready to avenge the loss.

FACILITIES

lighting for the field itself, expected within two weeks;

Additional stands, raising the seating capacity by approximately 600 to about 4,000 expected to be erected on the visitors' (east) side by Oct. 1; and

A special cadre of five unarmed, green-coated stadium officials who will function as a "management group," supervising the activities of other officials. The cadre will be headed by stadium manager Victor Holewinske and will be responsible to Don Leisey, director of administrative services of the school district.

In addition, 8-10 armed policemen will be present at each game, Plank said.

The $15,000 for the improvements came from tax funds allocated to the district. An additional $4,500 was raised by "student clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations and interested citizens," and was used to refurbish the existing bleachers, Plank said.

Fans of the home team have been assigned an entrance and ticket booth off Third Street, and will sit in the west stands. Visitors' fans will buy tickets and enter by the gymnasium on Mission Street, and will sit in the east stands. Students from the home school will enter the west stands through the campus between the music and classroom buildings.

No spectators will be permitted to enter at other than the specified entrances, Plank said. "The idea is to keep the two groups of fans separate."

In addition, no elementary pupils will be allowed to enter unless they are accompanied by a responsible adult. "Responsible means they keep control of the youngster so he doesn't run around loose," said Plank. "There is no objection to an older brother or sister accompanying the child, as long as the child is adequately supervised."

Veale, Howard May Key 1st Place Race

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A couple of guys who spent most of the season toiling with the Texas Rangers and the Charleston Charlies may turn out to hold the key to the tangled American League Eastern Division pennant race.

Bob Veale, who was with Charleston from May 11 until Sept. 1 when the Red Sox purchased his contract, pitched 2 2-3 innings of perfect relief Wednesday night to save Boston's 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees and keep the the Red Sox in first place.

Frank Howard, who was purchased from Texas on Sept. 1 by Detroit, drove in four runs with a double and a three-run homer as the Tigers came back from a 5-1 deficit to edge the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and move into second place a game back.

VEALE

Veale's major league career seemed over on May 11 when Pittsburgh cut him and no other big league club was willing to sign him. "I contacted a few teams but they were all like the Pirates," Veale said, "they wanted to go with younger guys."

So, Veale, who'll be 37 on Oct. 28, signed a contract with Charleston of the International League and pitched with the Charlies until Boston decided to take a chance on him. "Our people told us they thought he could help us," Boston Manager Eddie Kasko said.

Veale has made only two appearances with Boston since joining the club but he has a win and a save and that's the difference between first and fourth place right now. After Felipe Alou hit a two-run pinch double in the seventh off Lynn McGlothen, Veale retired all eight batters he faced to lock up the win.

DETROIT

Detroit has been desperate for hitting because the entire team seems to be in a batting slump so the Tigers purchased Howard from Texas where Bob Short wasn't too happy with Howard's six-figure contract. Howard provided the punch against Baltimore as his run-scoring double in the first inning and three-run homer in the fifth off Dave McNally trumped a grand slam by Boog Powell.

Howard's homer highlighted a five-run rally that was climaxed when Mickey Stanley broke from third and Doyle Alexander balked, permitting Stanley to score the deciding run. Fred Scherman pitched four innings of scoreless relief ball to save Joe Coleman's 16th win.

In the other games, Oakland routed Minnesota 8-0, Kansas City edged Chicago 6-4, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 3-1 and California stopped Texas 6-5.

SCHAAL HITS

Paul Schaal's two-run double in the eighth inning pushed Kansas City past Chicago. The White Sox had tied the game 4-4 in the eighth on run-scoring singles by Carlos May and Buddy Bradford. Schaal also singled in a run in the fifth for the Royals.

Joe Lahoud's fourth inning homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth and paced Milwaukee past Cleveland. It came off Gaylord Perry, who suffered his 16th loss against 20 wins. Gary Bell got the win.

California rallied for two runs in the eighth to edge Texas. Leo Cardenas drove in pinch-runner Billy Parker with the deciding run with a bunt single after Ken McMullen doubled in the tying run.

runs in the first and second innings and then five more in the third. Bill Singer gave up six of the runs and was saddled with his 15th loss.

The big hitter for the Giants was Ken Henderson with a double and two singles. Rookie Gary Matthews tripled to drive in two runs in the big third inning. Barr helped himself with a double and a single and drove in one run.

The victory was the ninth against six losses for the Giants against the Dodgers this season.

Preps Add Baseball J.V. Play

Junior varsity baseball will be come an official Marin County Athletic League sport this year after gaining approval from the league's board of managers during a meeting yesterday in the Quail Hill Inc. office building at Terra Linda.

The board, made up of principals of the eight MCAL schools, last year voted to start an official junior varsity league in basketball for the 1972-73 season, so yesterday's action makes it two J.V. sports. Previously, all junior varsity sports were unofficial and did not count in official MCAL standings.

The board also voted upon a procedure to choose a representative for the playoff football game between the MCAL and North Bay League in case two or more teams tie for the league crown. In case of tie, winner of the game when the tying teams played would represent the league. If the teams tied in their regular league game, the representative would be chosen by the other league grid coaches.

Atlanta's Slugger Aaron Draws Kudos

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sparky Anderson says Hank Aaron is one-of-a-kind so it follows suit that he belongs in another league.

A league set aside for special ballplayers like Aaron, that is.

Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, was asked Wednesday night after his Cincinnati Redlegs had beaten Atlanta in 10 innings, 6-5, how he felt about Aaron.

"Jeez, I can't even talk about him. He's in a class by himself and I can't compare him with anybody else. Guys like him, Koufax, Mays, Mantle and a couple others are so special and just don't belong in this league. They ought to have a league of their own."

Johnny Bench's two-run 10th inning homer was the decisive blow for the Western Division leaders but Aaron stole the spotlight with his two home runs.

The Hammer's two home-run night gave him 30 for the season and 669 in his career. It also marked the 14th season he has hit 30 or more homers, breaking Babe Ruth's record of 13.

In other National League action, Pittsburgh topped Chicago 6-4, New York trounced Philadelphia 11-6, St. Louis nipped Montreal in 5-4 in 11 innings, Houston edged San Diego 6-5 and San Francisco downed Los Angeles 7-1.

Rookie Jorge Roque's 11th inning pinch home run pushed St. Louis over Montreal and moved the Cardinals into a fourth-place tie with the Expos in the Eastern Division.

John Edwards' pinch sacrifice fly drove in the with the winning run after Doug Rader had doubled and taken third on a sacrifice in Houston's win over San Diego.

Roberto Clemente had three hits including a two-run homer in the seventh inning as Pittsburgh beat Chicago.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

'Reading' The Hole

By LEE TREVINO

The last few turns of a putt are influenced more by the grain of a green than the others. As the ball slows down, the grass can make it change direction more.

This is why the touring pros look close at the cups and grass around them. They're not just admiring a hole in the ground, even if they feel like crawling in it. They're looking in the cup to help figure which way the grain is growing.

Facing the hole, if the right side of the cup is green, the left side will be brown. From this you assume that the grain lays right to left, meaning your putt will break to the left.

Another tip in "reading" a hole is to see if it's worn on one side. This means the grain runs toward the worn side. Balls putted with the grain have been traveling so fast that they hit the far side of the hole. The observant putter then adjusts his stroke.

Baseball Averages Slipping

The baseball season is gradually winding down, and so, apparently are the batting averages of Marin County's minor league ballplayers.

The lone exception is Al Curtiss of Fairfax, who batted at a .282 pace last week on 11 hits in 39 at-bats for the Oakland Athletics' Class A farm club at Coos Bay, Ore.

Curtiss had a double, two triples, and six runs batted in as he raised his average to .241 for his first season of professional ball.

Everybody else slumped, including John Dolinsek of Novato, who saw the elusive batting figure of .300 slip a little bit farther away. He hit just .227 for the week (five for 22) for Peninsula, Va., a Montreal farm in the Class AAA International League, and now has a .290 mark for the club.

Tom Corder of Novato suffered even more, batting .071 on one hit in 14 tries and watching his average shrink to .219 for Bakersfield in the Class A California League.

Novato's Russ Dillon was idle for Atlanta's AAA farm in Richmond, Va. His season pitching log stands at 3-9 with a 4.00 earned run average.

Wilt Is Absent From Practice

Combined AP & UPI

Chamberlain was absent Wednesday when the National Basketball Association champions opened their first day of practice for the coming season.

Neither he nor his attorney would make any official comment on the star's failure to report, but earlier in the summer Chamberlain threatened to retire unless his contract was renegotiated.

Pete Newell, the club's general manager, said it is not Lakers' policy to renegotiate contracts and added: "unless there was a reasonable excuse for missing the opening practice session, there will be a fine levied."

Football

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Colts announced Wednesday that three-time all-pro tight end John Mackey has been placed on waivers. The action by the Colts climaxed three days of controversy over Mackey's playing status.

The American Football Conference Club Vice President Joe Thomas said the move was made "since the resultant dispute has made it very difficult for Mackey to return as an effective member of the Baltimore Colts..."

Tennis

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Quarter-final action begins today in the $40,000 Four Roses Premium Women's Tennis tourney, with top seeds still in the running for the lucrative purse.

World champion and no. 1 seed Billie Jean King beat Betty Stove of the Netherlands Wednesday 6-0, 6-4 in the second day of the tournament.

In today's singles action, third-seeded Australian Margaret Court faced sixth-seeded Francoise Durr of France and Windy Overton of Ormond Beach, Fla., clashed with no. 2 seed Nancy Richey Gunter.

Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The revived Texas Open will feature two former champions, Ron Cerrudo of Napa and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriquez, and 1969 U.S. Amateur champion Steve Melnyk, sponsors said Wednesday.

The tournament was canceled after 1970 because of unsuitable dates. It will be played Nov. 2-5 this year.

General

WASHINGTON — A House of Representatives commerce subcommittee has announced it will review legislation passed 11 years ago allowing professional sports teams to blackout home games on television.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the panel, said Wednesday the inquiry will include commercial television blackouts as well as those imposed in connection with closed circuit and theater television used for professional boxing.

Tennis Tourney Qualifying Set On Albany Court

This weekend, it will feature qualifying play for the $20,000 women's division of the Golden Gate Pacific Te nis classic The women's tourney ends ıt. 24 and then the men will go from Sept. 25 through Oct. 1 after $34,000 in prize money.

Included in the women's field, where 40 girls are competing for eight openings, is Alice Valentine, a teacher this summer at the Belvedere Tennis Club. The eight qualifiers will join the 24 contract women of the Virginia Slims circuit.

Firestone Cuts Out European Racing

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., citing "greatly escalating costs," has decided to discontinue its auto racing activities in Europe at the end of the current season.

Firestone has been active in European racing since 1964.

San Anselmo Flag Grid Coaches Sought

The San Anselmo Park and Recreation Department is seeking volunteer coaches for its fifth and sixth grade flag football league playing Saturday mornings at Memorial Park. Those interested should contact the recreation office in Memorial Park.

Meanwhile, boys' player signups will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at participants' school grounds.

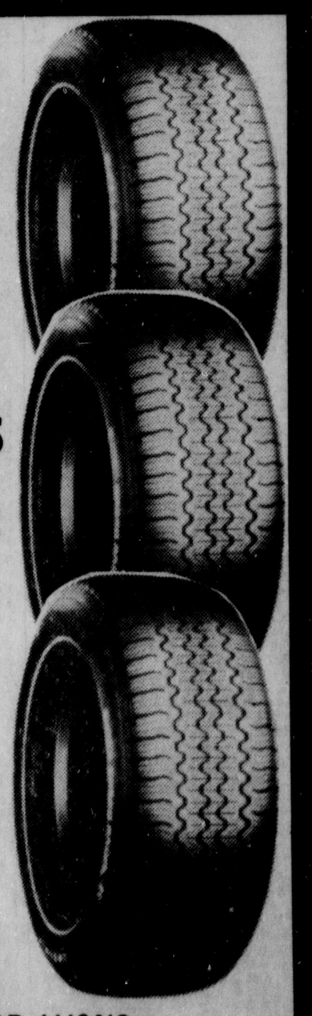
RADIAL TIRES



Been getting a lot of calls on these lately. Because of the tremendous success of the Michelin X Steel Radial Ply Tire, a lot of companies are trying to jump on their band wagon. The truth of the matter is simply this — There is only one Michelin the only other tire exactly like it is the Sears Radial, and Michelin makes them, but I under sell them in price. Goodrich - Uniroyal - Firestone General are all out with steel radials — are they any good?? Who knows only time will tell. Michelin has been proven with time 23 years. These other steel radials range from $1.00 to $3.00 under or over Michelin's price. The Japanese steel radials are priced below Michelin and, I know they are better performers than the American steel radials they have more experience.

New Bookstore Will Be Opened In Corte Madera Village Square

A new bookstore oriented toward encouraging education for all ages will open next week at 25 First Street in Corte Madera Village Square.

The building is the old Parkside Hotel, built about 1873.

To be called First Street Books, the store will be operated by three women with unusual backgrounds. One is an educator, the second is an attorney-educator, the third a geologist.

Celia Elke of San Anselmo worked at Family Mix, an educational cooperative in San Anselmo, for about 15 months. She has been an assistant teacher and art teacher.

Patty Latcham of San Anselmo is an attorney. The third partner is geologist Cynthia Canfield of Santa Rosa.

An innovation planned by the three is to have push carts loaded with paperbacks and magazines to serve morning bus commuters at the Village Square.

"We'll have quality paperback and hardcover books, specializing in educational materials and adult type games," said Mrs. Elke. "We'll be encouraging education from the grades through the college level."

Stan Valan of San Anselmo, who operates the Grotto, said plans are still tentative because he must get several permits. If all goes well, he hopes to have his new Grotto built in three or four months on a vacant lot between Wiltshire Towers and RB Furniture Store.

He will maintain the same nautical motif at the new Grotto, with a seating of about 80 and a more adequate cocktail lounge. He plans about 32 off-street parking places.

He is not sure at this point whether he also will retain the present Grotto on Lincoln Avenue in addition to his new restaurant. The Grotto has been operating in San Rafael for five years.

LARKSPUR NATURAL Foods at 460 Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur will be sold to new owners on Sept. 25, but the store operations will continue unchanged.

Christopher and Jacqueline Rosenfelder, who have owned the shop for two years, are moving to New Jersey where his parents live.

New owners will be Mrs. Gloria Hamilton of San Diego and her son, Jeffrey Hamilton, who will live in Larkspur and manage the establishment. The store sells natural foods such as dried fruit, nuts, fresh organic vegetables, dairy products and grains. It also has a juice and sandwich bar.

Larkspur Natural Foods is open six days a week from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

MARIN CIVIC BALLET Association finds itself briefly in the restaurant equipment business as result of moving into its new quarters at 100 Elm Street, San Rafael, the former Marist Fathers' Seminary.

With the building, the dance group acquired a complete institutional type kitchen. "It cannot be used by our ballet school," commented Mrs. Philip R. Placier, vice president.

The association has the facility open for inspection of the equipment through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., hoping to find a buyer.

Most of it wouldn't be suitable for the kitchen in your home, according to Mrs. Placier.

THE GROTTO seafood restaurant at 909 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, hopes to open a new facility across Highway 101 from Marin Civic Center.

INVESTING

2 For The Cautious Investor

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I will shortly receive $20,000 which I wish to invest for safety and income with perhaps modest capital gains. Any suggestions would be appreciated. — J.L.

A. Mobil Oil and Reynolds Industries, both traded on the New York Exchange, are suitable issues in view of your investment goal. Both are selling in the upper sixties, yield close to 4 per cent and boast very conservative P/E multiples.

Of particular importance in the Reynolds picture is a newly introduced small cigar, the Winchester. Because this is adjudged a cigar, rather than cigarette, the IRS has cleared it for radio and television advertising.

Test marketing of the low-cost filter-tip cigar has been very favorable. Company has consistently increased the dividend with the most recent increment declared last January.

Although major international oils as a group have not been star profit turners, Mobil appears to be an exception. Gross revenues rose 11.4 per cent and earnings 6 per cent in the first half.

Mobil's holdings offshore Canada's East Coast run to over 30 million net acres, and it was on this property that the Sable Island strike was made. If findings prove to be in a commercially feasible quantity, the area's strategic location would be an added benefit to profits.

Again the consistency of dividend boosts adds appeal to these shares for income investors. Equal dollar amounts of these two issues would purchase approximately 150 shares each.

Q. I invested $3,000 in Investment Company of America (OTC) in 1966, 1967 and 1968. In addition, all dividends have been reinvested up to date. All told my 265.2 shares have cost $3,885. Should I hold or sell? — H.B.

A. Your shares, currently worth $3,960, should be held, particularly if capital protection is important to you. While many other funds have achieved more aggressive growth records in up markets, these same performers dropped considerably faster in down periods.

This $1.5 billion asset fund is invested in a broadly diversified blue chip portfolio and growth will generally follow that of the market as a whole.

Prices Mixed As Market Opens High

Advances outnumbered declines, 619 to 490, with 1,531 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 5,840,000 shares.

The early strength was credited to some business news in which there were reports the United States has worked out a large trade deal with the Soviet Union and a wheat deal with China.

Analysts, however, said many investors have discounted much economic news and remain skeptical about the nation's overall economy. Many investors remained on the sidelines.

Panhandle Eastern Pipeline was the most active issue, up 14 at 36 1-8 on 233,100 shares including a block of 225,000 shares at 36.

Prices were slightly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Technicolor was the most active AMEX issue, up 7-8 at 17 5-8 on 23,200 shares.

On the Big Board, glamors met with mixed results. Philip Morris and Corning Glass gained 1 1-4 apiece, and Schlumberger 1. ARA Services Curtiss-Wright, Bausch & Lomb and Itek lost 1 1-4.

Seven Year High For American Sales

DETROIT — American Motors' retail passenger car sales during the first 10 days of September increased 12 per cent over last year.

R. William McNealy, group vice president-North American Marketing, said dealer deliveries in the Sept. 1-10 period totaled 4,754 cars, compared with 4,230 a year ago. It was the highest sales level for the period in seven years.

Chrysler Reports First Period Sales

In the same period a year ago, the company's dealers delivered 27,576 cars. There were seven selling days in the period this year, compared with eight a year ago.

The Market As Garden: Steel Woes

By S.M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The blossoms that bloom in the spring indeed fade in the stock market almost as often as in the garden.

Last spring Bethlehem Steel, the traditional pricing leader for the industry, guaranteed there would be no price increase on most of its line at least until year's end.

To many on Wall Street, this appeared to be a shrewd move that would serve "Bessie" well in the long run. It appeared the firm was making certain it would not run into profit-margin problems with the Price Commission. Reading between the lines: a super-strong summer was in store for the steel companies.

After all, a great many economists at that precise moment were revising upward their expectations for the rapidity of the economic rebound. Such a situation could produce windfall profits for the steel industry, inasmuch as many steel buyers had allowed their inventories to become unduly low and might soon be forced into vigorous catch-up buying.

But now that summer is nearly past, reality has set in. Although steel shipments are much improved over 1971 and although imports are lower, the demand for steel isn't quite what the optimists expected. Not enough segments of the business world are participating in the economic recovery.

"Inventories appear to have been kept unusually low and new industrial construction is only now showing faint signs of recovery," stressed J. William Harless of Value Line investors advisory service.

So the steel stocks, although up considerably from their lows, have lagged the 1972 market — even though it is increasingly being characterized as a market that is luring money away from high-priced glamour issues into a broad array of cyclical stocks.

Harless believes second-half steel shipments might prove to be a record. But even with that, he does not expect record earnings, although he sees most steel companies topping their 1971 net income.

In the opinion of one mutual manager, who sold out the remnants of his steel holdings when the shares rallied from their 1971 bottoms, "the problems were being overlooked by the optimists."

To his thinking, if the steel industry followed Bessie's lead and held to a no-price-hike policy throughout 1971, the steelmaker would fall well short of having to worry about profit-margin ceilings imposed by the Price Commission.

His reasoning: "Unions were going to get the previously agreed to 8 per cent pay hike on Aug. 1 (the increases varied between 6 and 8 per cent). They simply had to be in a position to pass this on, at least some of it."

In general, mutual funds tended to ignore the steels, because of this guarantee against boosting prices, and leaned toward other basic-metals companies if they held any convictions at all about participating in the economic rebound of 1972. For example, Boston Fund bought blocks of Alcoa, Freeport Minerals, and Phelps Dodge, but it skipped steels.

Jack Collins, research chief for Argus Research Co., is among those who feel that the economic cycle has a good distance to go yet and the setting is highly promising for real impact on steel earnings, not just sales.

Says another widely followed analyst: "We think the economic cycle will be a classic one, with over-inventorying and overbuilding by industry just down the road." Though he has trimmed back his profit estimates on major steel firms for 1972, he expects the industry to almost certainly boost tonnage prices next year, at least enough to cover wage hikes.

Most analysts suggest avoiding the big makers at this stage but encourage buying smaller and specialty firms for their leverage.

SAME BUILDING, NEW FACE

Earth Berm Applicant Plan: One Objection

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Army Corps of Engineers said yesterday it has received one objection to a proposal by the Basalt Rock Co. of Napa to build an earth berm on a 34-acre marshland on San Rafael Bay.

The protest came from a group called Save San Pedro Bay, a corps spokesman said.

The Department of the Interior has requested that no action be taken on the application until the department reviews the project.

The company plans to plant trees on the berm to screen its industrial operations southeast of San Pedro Road near Peacock Gap. The berm will be seven feet high, 30 feet wide and about 1,600 feet long.

Meanwhile, no objections have been received to an application by George Kappas of 765 Bridgeway in Sausalito for a permit to construct houseboat mooring and to fill 1.6 acres of shoreline at Kappas Marina.

The Department of the Interior also has requested that no action be taken on this project pending further study.

The project already has been approved by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the state Water Resources Control Board.

River Plan Legal Fight Is Settled

AUBURN (UPI)—A six-year legal fight over construction of the $115 million Middle Fork American River Project in Placer County has been settled one month before it was to go to trial.

Attorneys for the Placer County Water Agency said Tuesday the settlement requires insurance companies to pay $1.4 million to American River Constructors and $15,000 to McCreary-Koretsky Engineers.

They said the agency, a defendant in the suit, is not required to pay any money because under the settlement $60 million in lawsuits against the agency will be dismissed.

American River Constructors filed the damage action in 1966, claiming the specifications for the project in eastern Placer County did not include adequate geographic information. The contractor's attorneys said that due to the inadequate information, the contractor was required to do extensive and costly work to complete the job.

$90 Million Bond Sale Date Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest yesterday scheduled Oct. 3 as the date for the sale of $90 million in California general obligation bonds to finance three state programs.

Mrs. Priest said $50 million of the issue will be bonds for the veterans farm and home loan program. They will be the first bonds marketed from a $250 million issue approved by voters last June.

Another $25 million in bonds will finance state beach, park, reaction and historical facilities and are the last portion of a $150 million 1964 authorization to be sold.

'Conservation' Groups Silent On Bond Issue

San Rafael voters have an opportunity Tuesday to say whether they believe in keeping open space enough to pay for it.

On the ballot for a special election is a proposal for the city to bond itself for $2,250,000 for purchase of open space.

Little opposition to the proposal has surfaced. Also, however, there has been little campaign in its behalf.

MARIN'S NUMEROUS — and often highly vocal — conservation groups have been strangely silent.

The same groups that turn out hundreds of protesters against an owner's proposal to develop his own property have failed to mount a campaign for the positive approach proposed by the city council: the purchase of private properties to make sure they will not be developed.

We find this more than a little surprising. Can it be that these avowed spokesmen for preserving the environment are merely "aginners," unable to be FOR anything?

They might have been expected to point out many advantages to the City of San Rafael's open space proposal:

No. 1: Purchase of the land by the entire taxpaying population assures benefits for that entire population — and for generations to come.

No. 2: Certainly the expense, though great, is less now than if purchase were attempted after still more of the land has been brought under development and still more inflation has occurred.

It has been pointed out repeatedly in other connections that bonding, although it involves payment of a lot of interest, may be cheaper in the long run than delaying purchase until cash is available — because inflation tends to outrun interest rates. The same argument holds for the open space bond proposal.

No. 3: Purchase of land, and keeping it unused, may be cheaper for the taxpayers than allowing it to be developed. In a study two years ago for the City of Palo Alto, the consultant firm of Livingston and Blayney concluded that it would be cheaper for that city to buy its foothill lands than to permit residential development of them —for the residences would not produce enough taxes to pay for the services they required.

Although the planning consultants cautioned that such conclusion for Palo Alto might not hold true elsewhere, because of differing conditions, San Rafael's situation is quite similar to that of the southern Peninsula city.

No. 4: Saving such lands as hillsides and ridgelines within the city will prevent developments which will not wait for a county-wide park district. Also, the proposed county-wide district must of necessity spread its purchases over the whole county.

THERE ARE OTHER good arguments, too, which could be put forth in behalf of San Rafael's open space bond issue. It seems odd that those who cry loudest about saving the environment have not offered them publicly and at length.

We hope that two-thirds of San Rafael's voters approve the issue next Tuesday. If they fail to do so, some blame must attach to the "conservationists" who failed to seize the opportunity offered them to prove they are really for saving the environment.

Elective State Board Should Set School Policies

By RUS WALTON

Summer is sneaking into fall and the kids are straggling back to school. Now it's vacation-time for parents — until the weekend, at least.

This is a good time to think about public education; the system of schooling which is now more idol than ideal.

I suppose it's a waste of time to fret about compulsory education. But compulsion has always bugged me and the older I get the more I admire the free spirit.

Incidentally, nowhere in the state constitution does it say education shall be compulsory. The compulsion comes from the politicians, not the people. The constitution simply says: "... the Legislature shall encourage by all suitable means the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral and agricultural improvement."

BE THAT AS it may, there are several other — less controversial — education reforms that should be undertaken.

The law should be changed so that the voters elect the members of the State Board of Education. The constitution allows for that: "The Legislature shall provide for the appointment or election of the state Board of Education and a board of education in each county."

At the county level, the legislature opts for democracy. At the state level, they choose politics; the governor appoints the board members. That is not wise. Education is too important to be left to poltiical decision and appointive powers. It's not a matter of person or party, it's a matter of common sense.

Why not elect a Sate Board of Education similar to the way we elect the State Board of Equalization? Establish 10-12 districts within California (one man-one vote, to be sure!) and ask the voters within each district to elect a member to represent them on the State Board of Education? For a term of four years, with a maximum of two or three terms.

That elected board should then appoint the state superintendent of education (public instruction). Just as the county boards have that power, so should the state board. And, just as the county superintendent answers to the county board, so should the state superintendent.

THE STATE EDUCATION Code makes the relationship (and line of authority) between the state board and superintendent of instruction quite clear: the board is to decide all matters of policy and the superintendent is to fit his programs and procedures to those policies.

That sounds good but it doesn't work — not with an appointed board and an elected superintendent.

At present Wilson Riles is education czar and the board tags along.

Since the superintendent can say to the board members, "I was elected by the people; were you?" there is not much the board can do about it. Some members kick and snort but the majority ends up going along with Riles.

That could be straightened out if the members were elected and the superintencent were appointed.

FINALLY, THE STATE should get out of the business of selecting and publishing school books. Each district should be permitted to purchase the books its educators choose.

In the same manner that it should establish policy, the state board (in cooperation with the department of education) should establish standards of achievement by subject and grade, and annual state tests to determine whether districts are meeting those standards. Let the districts determine how best to meet those standards; what texts to use, what techniques, curricula and scheudles to employ.

As it is now, the state selects and the teachers reject. Millions of dollars are being wasted. In an extreme example, only 8 per cent of the copies of one textbook printed by the state have been ordered by local schools. The balance — 92 per cent — sits on the warehouse shelves.

"I was counting on that $1,000 for everyone. Now I'm beginning to feel like a big-city mayor."

Says Violence Not Related To Open Door

In an article published in your paper on Sept. 7, the writer referred to a "ramshackle coffee house" at the heliport where people fought while drunk, resulting in one man killed, one man wounded, and one man arrested.

May I point out that the place, which is well known to me, is run by the Open Door Ministry. Young travelers in a needy positon are helped in a selfless way by both food and counseling. Alcohol is not ever available or used and the place is highly respectable, neat and clean — by no means ramshakle or disreputable. The unfortunate violence that occurred nearby had nothing to do with the "Open Door" or the Open Door Ministers, who are good spiritual people. It was only a coincidence that the fight took place in that area.

Lack Of Fluoride Deprives Children

I am deeply concerned about the tens of thousands of Marin County children who may be deprived of a nutritive element and thereby may suffer all their lives with toothaches and poor teeth and jaws, whose bodies would be handicapped with mouth infections and who, during their lives would spend otherwise unnecessary thousands of dollars to repair the damage. This is what can happen if the voters become frightened by the outright lies of those who oppose bringing the fluoride content of our water up to the proper level.

The proof of the measure's excellent results and safety is based on the soundest studies. There is not a shred of good scientific evidence to deny the conclusion of the need for proper amounts of the element, and that water is its best vehicle.

Statistical studies of city after city all over the world are consistent. Tooth decay where levels are correct is ⅔ less than in areas with dificient levels. (For example — Welfare costs for dentistry per recipeint are 60 per cent less in San Francisco than in Oakland. San Francisco's water has been fluoridated for 20 years. Oakland's has not. Welfare care is the same.)...

Every reputable scientific and health organization in the land approves. Half the population in the nation is getting its benefits. It is high time Marin joined in...

No-Fault Faulty, Says Trial Lawyer

Re: No-fault insurance editorial Aug. 21:

Your editorial on the inconsistency of lawyers is amusing, but not completely fair. On a personal level I find most lawyers to be amusing, and I'm even less than impressed with the thought processes of some, but their inconsistency on no-fault insurance pales in comparison with inconsistency of a newspaper backing an insurance industry bill.

1. It would probably raise premiums by 19 to 57 per cent of the basic policy (independent actuarial studies done by the president of the American Actuarial Society).

2. It would force people to self insure themselves for medical and wage protection that 89 per cent of them already have (official governmental statistics).

3. It would cut off the right of full compensation of 95 per cent of the California citizens.

It is not the trial lawyers who killed no-fault in the legislature, but rather the reasoning process of every legislature who considered those bills, coupled with the opposition of some 40 newspaper editorials that three the whole subject into serious question and the wholehearted opposition of 115 consumer groups. . .

There are many things wrong with the existing system, but passing no-fault bills in frustration is not the cure to this complex situation. The cure is not the ABA Plan, but the California Trial Lawyers nine-point plan of insurance reform.

Arab Governments Remain In Fear Of Terrorist Bands

NEW YORK — In this the most Jewish of cities, the outpouring of grief and anger over the Olympic murders is as palpable as the haze that hangs in the air in these warm September days. With it goes a sense of futility and frustration in a people with ancient memories of suffering and persecution. How long, they ask, how long will this go on?

That is a question without an answer. Sec. of State William P. Rogers, at the direction of the president, spoke brave words about getting international cooperation to put an end to terrorist action. But they are likely to remain just that — words.

For the guerrilla centers in four countries — Egypt, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon — are so enmeshed with the hatreds of the Arab-Israeli conflict that, short of massive intervention by outside forces, they cannot be eliminated. Intervention could drive the terrorists deeper underground and to even more desperate acts. One constructive result might be for countries in Europe, such as West Germany, to root out reported centers of Arab plotting and guerrilla recruitment.

EGYPT IS the cardinal example. Since the Soviet Union removed Russian "advisers" and advanced Russian weapons, the future of the government of President Anwar Sadat is uncertain. If he were to make so much as a gesture of reproof against the terrorists he could expect reprisals bringing him down.

A cold-blooded murder at the time the Arab nations were meeting in Cairo last November showed how far the terrorists can go and apparently get away with it. The Jordanian premier, Wasfi Tal, was gunned down in the lobby of Cairo's Sheraton Hotel. The assassins boasted that they dabbled their hands in his blood. They have never been brought to trial.

Through it all runs the subterranean current of oil, a political spill that washes up far and wide. The paradox is the dependence of Western Europe on the oil of the Middle East. West Germany gets up to 80 per cent of its oil supply from Libya. And while the dictatorial power of the Moslem fanatic, Muammar El-Qaddafi, has been somewhat curbed, he continues to be a raging champion of Arab supremacy.

With oil revenues put at a billion dollars a year and huge reserves reported in London banks, he has a reach that cannot be discounted. More moderate states, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, are said to give Egypt generous subsidies out of their oil revenues. This is a way of buying peace in the explosive Middle East.

THE BLOWUP can come again as it came in the Suez crisis in 1956. While the risk of U.S.-Soviet confrontation and big-power participation has been diminished, even a limited Middle East war could be shattering in its effect. As has often been said, the Soviet Union is not preapred to pay hard currency for Middle East Oil, particularly since the Russians are rapidly developing their own petroleum and natural gas resources. But terror directed at pipelines and refineries could bring the wheels of Western Europe to a stop.

Terror is contagious and corrupting in its contagion. Here in New York, the Jewish Defense League in several instances resorted to terrorist acts, notably in the fire-bombing of the office of Sol Hurok, the impresario, who has brought troops of Russian performers to America.

The Israeli government was deeply disturbed by the militancy of the JDL. Such acts invited reprisals and, as seen in Jerusalem, would have the opposite effect in the campaign to persuade the Soviet Union to allow more Jews to leave for Israel. The JDL leader, Rabbi Meir Kahane, emigrated to Israel.

THE ONLY ARAB head of state to speak out in condemnation of the Olympic barbarism was Jordan's King Hussein. Hussein took a bold and courageous step to put down his own terrorists, firing on the refugee camps where they hid themselves.

But those camps remain scattered through the whole area, with the Arab states contributing nothing to a long-term solution with the United Nations, which largely through American funds keeps body and soul together as the miserable years pass. It is a festering sore breeding violence and terror.

Youth Vote-Or Lack Of It— Can Decide November Election

LOS ANGELES — Unless President Nixon continues to build up an electoral advantage over Senator McGovern of landslide proportions, it is still likely that the youth vote could be decisive. But it is by no means clear that Senator McGovern will get a high enough proportion of the youth vote to make the difference.

The effect of young voters during the McGovern primary campaign was enormous. That was different. It was centered in a few states, and the task of corraling enough votes to secure control of the nominating delegation was relatively simple. The issues and the technical problems for Nov. 7 are quite otherwise.

THE AVAILABILITY of new voters in 1972 is entirely unprecedented. There are almost 26 million of them. Some 11 million $lv42$voticg age. Under the new rules, and with were enfranchised by the 26th Amendment. Over 14 million have come of voting age since the last presidential election.

In addition, there are millions of others who have not exercised their franchise in the past, or do not so normally. Most important are those who are not registered. There are 140 million Americans of voting age. Under the new rules, nd with intensive registration drives, perhaps 106 million of them will register. Of that number, perhaps 85 million will vote, and that would be a new record in the United States.

The key, really, is registration. That is why both Republicans and Democrats are now mounting really massive sign-up campaigns. And so are non-partisan organizations like the League of Women Voters.

There are roadblocks in the way. Local registration officials and some old-line politicians are not very sympathetic to the flood of new potential voters. They upset traditional organizations and controls. Then, in 1972, there is a very one-sided seeming campaign. It could engender overconfidence — and hence apathetic voting — among Republicans. There is disaffection with the nominee among some Democrats. There is discouragement and low morale.

THE NEW VOTERS, the younger voters, are those who have been least likely to register in the past. That is why both parties are concentrating on them now. While Senator McGovern benefited heavily from registering college youth, they are a modest minority. Nationally among the 25 million of potential new youthful voters, only 7 per cent have had four years of college, 31.2 per cent have had some college education, 75.2 per cent have graduated from high school and 24.8 per cent have not graduated from high school.

The greatest pool of unregistered youth is among the poor in the big cities. In New York, for example, scarcely a third of the 18-20-year-olds registered in 1971, the year they received the new franchise. It will take great effort to arouse such youth and persuade them of the efficacy of the ballot box.

Various polls show youth not so enthusiastic for Senator McGovern as had been previously assumed. A Gallup poll in late July showed some 57 per cent for Senator McGovern and 41 per cent for President Nixon. Thus the Democratic strategists are concentrating on areas which Senator McGovern must carry if he is to have any chance of success, and particularly among non-college youth. Tables are set up in places where poorer people congregate, such as unemployment offices and food stamp distribution centers. California is a major McGovern target.

Republicans, conversely, are focusing on more affluent suburbs, shopping centers, and such places. The vigorous Young Voters for the President, a Republican group, is laying on a vast doorbell ringing campaign. It is agreed that such direct solicitation is the most effective, for whatever party.

If Senator McGovern cannot score heavily among the 18-24-year-old ranks, he obviously has no chance of election. So far, the signs are uncertain. Youth can be very powerful in American and world society today, but it has not yet proved itself anywhere convincingly and conclusively. The 1972 election will be its most significant test and opportunity.

Hoffa's Secret Vietnam Plan: Strike On Ho Chi Minh Trail

WASHINGTON — There has been criticism in government circles over the handling of Jimmy Hoffa's trip to Hanoi, which was canceled at the last moment.

For some reason the White House, the Justice Department and the State Department, as well as Hoffa's lawyers, all had different versions as to what actually happened.

By piecing together a bit here and a bit there, I think I can now reveal what took place.

WHEN JIMMY HOFFA was serving time in prison, he decided to study the Vietnamese language, in hopes that someday when he got out he could organize the truck drivers along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the Teamsters Union.

Somehow word got to the White House of Hoffa's proficiency in the language. (It was first believed that Hoffa's cell was bugged, but this was later denied.)

In any case a White House staffer at a meeting said: "Why don't we send Hoffa to Hanoi to unionize the North Vietnamese truck drivers? Then he could call a strike and cut off all the supplies to the south."

"What a great idea!" President Nixon said. "How does it sound to you, Henry?"

Henry Kissinger replied, "It doesn't bother me, as long as I can keep going to Paris."

"But Hoffa is in prison," another White House staffer said.

"The President can parole him," someone suggested. "We'll leak the story that the President is paroling Hoffa so the Teamsters will support the Republicans during the election year. No one willknow the real reason is so he can go to Hanoi."

A CALL was put in to the attorney general, who said it would be no problem to parole Hoffa, but he raised the question as to how Hoffa could get a passport to leave the country.

"We never thought of that," a White House assistant said. "We'll have to inform Bill Rogers, the secretary of state, of our plans."

"Absolutely not," Kissinger said. "If we tell Rogers about this, we'll be setting a bad precedent. He'll want to know about other things we're planning to do in foreign affairs, which are none of his business."

"Henry's right," a White House staffer said. "If we clue in Rogers on this, he'll be coming around all the time wanting to know what we're cooking up. A little knowledge for a secretary of state is a dangerous thing."

THE PRESIDENT asked, "Why can't Hoffa just go down to the passport office and apply for a passport without Bill knowing about it?"

The machinery was put into motion. Justice got Hoffa his parole, Kissinger told the North Vietnamese Hoffa was coming, and the White House press office prepared an announcement revealing the President's 1,987th secret plan to get us out of Vietnam.

But somebody goofed, and the announcement was made before Hoffa took off for his mission.

Because Secretary Rogers was not in on the plan, he thought someone in the passport office had erred and, without checking with the White House, Rogers canceled Hoffa's passport and announced that the Teamster boss couldn't go.

The President was urged to overrule Rogers but decided against it when the secretary of state called angrily and said that if Hoffa went to Hanoi, he, Rogers, would organize a Republicans for McGovern committee. With only a 34 per cent lead in the polls, Nixon couldn't afford this, so he reluctantly denied he knew anything about Hoffa's trip.

It was a great blow to Hoffa, not to mention the White House. But worst of all, President Nixon now has to come up with a new secret plan to get us out of Vietnam.

McGovern Finances: Huge Debt In State

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—With only about $11,000 on hand, the main financial committee of Sen. George McGovern's California primary campaign is staring at a huge debt of $247,300.

According to documents released by the secretary of state Tuesday, the McGovern Central Control Fund in Los Angeles said it has collected nearly $210,000 in recent months and spent about $204,000 at the same time.

The fund, however, has spent $2.4 million so far this year, most of it in the primary election, and run up debts of $466,300. But the McGovern for President Committee, Inc., in Washington, D.c., has assumed $219,000 of the debts.

No documents were on file from the principal state finance committee for President Nixon, but both Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew reported they had spent nothing personally on their campaigns.

The Bay Area Citizens Committee for the Re-election of the President declared, however, it has received nearly $181,000 this year and spent only about $30,000.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty's Democratic presidential aspirations cost his campaign committee $86,822. It collected $87,595.

In reports released today, the Shirley Chisholm for President Committee, California, said it had received $38,441 during the year and spent $36,057. The surplus has been transferred to the Democratic Party of California.

A committee for Sen. Edward Muskie, who along with Mrs. Chisholm had sought the Democratic presidential nomination, reported receipts of $31,937 and expenditures of $37,538 with debts of $7,603.

The disclosures of contributions and expenditures are required by federal law for presidential and congressional candidates. The deadline for filing the statements with the state was Sunday—Monday if hand-delivered—and many had not yet been processed.

A host of small McGovern committees, which funnel money into the central fund, also filed statements. The Northern California McGovern Campaign Committee appeared to be in better fiscal shape than the central fund. The committee reported cash on hand of $15,419 with debts of $7,500.

The McGovern central fund has received massive loans from sympathetic businessmen including $200,000 from Xerox king Max Palevsky of Los Angeles. Miles Rubin of Malibu, a McGovern campaign adviser, also loaned the fund $75,000 and Max Factor III added another $50,000.

Major contributors who gave money outright to the South Dakota senator's campaign included musician Herb Alpert, $2,500; Eugene Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, $1,000, actors Paul Newman and Joanne Woodard, $5,000, and businessman Norman Lear of Beverly Hills, $1,000.

There was a touch of humor in some of the reports from the campaign committees. The Berkeley Community for McGovern, which raised $5,240 for its candidate, detailed its expenditures right down to $1 for ear plugs.

Arwin Moths of El Cajon, the American Independent nominee for a congressional seat in the San Diego area, reported spending $14.70 for his primary campaign in which he was unopposed.

Scribbled on his financial statement was this disclaimer, "All figures are in terms of Federal Reserve Accounting Unit 'Dollars' (FRAUDs) inasmuch as no real dollars of constitutional money were used." Dollars, he said, are "a specified quantity of silver and gold."

In other congressional reports, the campaign committee for Fortney "Pete" Stark of Danville, who defeated veteran Rep. George P. Miller, D-Alameda, in the primary election, declared expenditures for the year of $160,922 and receipts of $152,916.

The committee received a $55,000 loan from Mary A. Brunder of Chicago and a $25,000 loan from Joe B. Smoot of Walnut Creek.

Miller's report was not available.

Two committees for Rep. John Schmitz, R-Tustin, who was defeated in the primary, spent $92,544 while taking in $64,289. Schmitz is now the presidential nominee of the American Independent Party.

Committees for his successful opponent, Orange County Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw, received $81,308 and reported spending $79,949. One of Hinshaw's major contributors was San Diego businessman C. Arnholt Smith, who gave $4,000.

McGovern's Man: We'll Be Okay

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The young man charged with rallying California youth around Sen. George McGovern blames a high surf, gentle ocean breezes and warm sun for the coolness toward his candidate.

"Young people have been at the beaches, taking it easy, sunning it up. Once they come back from vacation and get the sand off their feet, we'll be okay," predicts Ron Sufrin, a UCLA economics major who is 19 and is working in his first major political campaign.

Eugene Wyman, a Beverly Hills attorney, is 48 and has been putting the touch on fat cat Democratic contributors in more campaigns than he can remember. He doesn't think the beach is the problem.

"I don't think McGovern is as well organized as he was during the primary. Nor has he the momentum," says Wyman, an important member of the Los Angeles Jewish community and pre-convention supporter of Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Like some other old-line California Democrats, Wyman is sitting out this presidential election and concentrating instead on raising money for congressional races.

Beth Labson, at 18 a Democratic candidate for the state Assembly, says: "Young people are a little skeptical of McGovern right now. They think he has lost some of his pureness." She cites the Eagleton affair and "compromises he has made."

"If you want my opinion," says one major California union leader, asking for anonymity, "McGovern would be better off if he dismantled his staff and took a two-month cruise."

With eight weeks remaining before the election, there is no question that President Nixon leads McGovern in their quest for California's 45 electoral votes, the biggest bloc in the nation.

Both camps — McGovern's perhaps hopefully, Nixon's somewhat conservatively — agree generally with the latest California Poll which shows the President out in front by 8 percentage points.

Still, this potentially surmountable lead is a far cry from the 34 point bulge enjoyed nationally by Nixon in the latest Gallup Poll. And McGovern strategists say they see signs the tide has turned in California and that this ultimately will be reflected nationwide, as political trends here so often are.

"California and the Pacific Coast generally look like one of our strongest areas," says Richard G. Stearns, 27-year-old western coordinator for McGovern. "Our biggest problem now is to assure people that the campaign has found its foot and is moving ahead."

One such issue is McGovern's recently discarded $1,000-a-head income redistribution plan. Stearns says after the California primary, which the South Dakotan won by less than 5 percentage points, a private poll found that the $1,000 scheme "was probably the most unpopular issue associated with McGovern."

"It caused more disaffection than anything else," he says.

McGovern was encouraged by visits last week to two traditionally Democratic groups — the Jewish community and organized labor —which have not been overly enthusiastic about his candidacy.

The senator drew standing gvations from the Southern California Board of Rabbis when he charged that Egypt and Lebanon were chiefly responsible for the Olympic killings, and was endorsed by the International Association of Machinists at its annual convention.

A year ago it appeared Nixon could be hurt by sagging unemployment. But since then the California unemployment rate has improved from 7.1 to 5.8 per cent. And aerospace employment is on the upswing.

Nixon, meantime, probably has the smoothest campaign operation in modern California political history. Money and party unity are no problems. And Nixon youth director Gary Hunt, 23, reports no trouble recruiting young volunteers — even off the beaches.

"We just hope our people don't become overconfident. If they start thinking we've got it in the bag, we're in trouble," says Lyn Nofziger, former communications director for the Republican National Committee who is Nixon's California campaign director.

Pornography Readers Are 'Well Educated'

ATLANTA (UPI) — People who read pornography tend to be well-educated, well-read, and socially and politically active, according to Dr. W. Cody Wilson, an expert on the subject.

Dr. Wilson, former executive director of the U.S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, also said non-religious, young married men are the type most likely to be a consumer of pornographic material.

Dr. Wilson told the Medical Association of Atlanta that nobody has been able to pinpoint the reasons why, but said, "I would guess that the type of person as described has more social contact, and would frequent places where there is less inhibition toward sex."

Wilson said the commission's report, the recommendations of which were rejected by the President and the Senate, changed many concepts concerning pornography's effect on the American citizen.

He said it was found that the sex criminal's exposure to pornography during childhood and subsequent years was "very, very low, and in many cases, almost nil."

Wilson said studies do indicate that there may be positive connection between moral depravity and pornography.

"But what we can't determine right now is what comes first—the pornography or the moral depravity," he said. "We tend to think that the person might have been morally depraved before he ever discovered pornography."

Wilson also said he felt most children were sexually educated at the age of about 13.

"By the time they reach 15, it's old stuff to them, or they are a little embarrasse," he said.

"But adults need to be sex educated as much as the child," Wilson said. He suggested that children and their parents be taught in the same sex education class.

"Another disturbing thought is that most clergymen, lawyers and teachers who are supposed to be sex counselors are actually in need of sex education themselves," he said.

Gets Death Sentence For Stealing Eels

TAIPEI (UPI)—The Yunlin District Court in central Taiwan Wednesday sentenced to death Ling Chao, 40, for being the mastermind in the armed robbery of more than 100,000 baby eels.

The eels were valued at $20,000 and were stolen at gunpoint from an eel farm. Seven accomplices in the holdup were each sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Bolinas Cleanup Order Bogged Down In Confusion

Fast Crackdown Urged On Unclean Dwellings

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County supervisors order last week to the county administration to clean up the Bolinas area by cracking down on unsanitary dwelling in vehicles and ramshackle shelters appeared today to have bogged down in legalities and interdepartmental confusion.

County Administrator John F. Barrows — under pressure from county supervisors — called a hurried meeting of responsible county department heads to iron out problems causing the delay.

Supervisors last week ordered the planning, building and health departments to enforce county ordinances dealing with illegal dwellings.

The board's action came at the urging of several Bolinas residents who said more and more transcient youths were moving into their area without proper sanitary facilities.

As reported yesterday, owners of more than a dozen illegal vehicles were warned by the planning department to bring their "mobile homes" up to standards and acquire permits, or move on.

However, the Independent-Journal learned late yesterday the county counsel's office had advised the planning department not to cite violators today but instead wait upon a "concerted effort" by all departments.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said he was concerned over the legal basis of prosecuting violators soley on the basisof the county zoning ordinance requiring permits.

He said his office would have a stronger case in court if those residing illegally could be cited also for violating health and safety regulations because of lack of sanitary facilities.

County Counsel Maloney and County Administrator Barrows said they did not know why the various county departments had failed to coordinated their efforts with the planning department which began last Thursday as ordered by the board of supervisors.

Herbert Wimmer, chief of building inspection, said yesterday his department had not received notice from Barrows of the get-tough procedure until yesterday, a week after the supervisors issued their ukase.

Wimmer said one of his four inspectors is on vacation and the number of complaints from elsewhere in the county was running unusually high.

He said his department generally responds only to official complaints from residents and that he had not received any from the Bolinas area — target of the county crackdown.

Director of Environmental Health William L. Desmond likewise said he had just received Barrows's notice, but also said his office has been and would continue to enforce health standards in Bolinas.

A check of records, however, showed that the last citation written by his office for a health violation in West Marin was nearly two years ago — November 1970.

Whether today's hurriedly-called meeting of county officials would lead to resumption of cleaning up the Bolinas area this week was uncertain.

Meanwhile, in West Marin,

Homeowner Taxes To Edge Up

The average Marin County homeowner will pay about $1,014 in property taxes this fiscal year, $5.30 more than last year, county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell reported yesterday.

Mitchell said he reached that conclusion after studying the fiscal 1972-73 tax rates set by Marin's 71 separate taxing jurisdictions.

Overall, he said, taxes to be levied by the 71 agencies average 7.8 per cent higher than last fiscal year for a total tax levy of $86.9 million.

Mitchell said he average homeowner owns a $38,500 house which was not reappraised by the county assessor. The $750 homeowner's exemption was applied.

The increase generally was caused by higher tax rates set by school districts, cities and special districts, he said. The county this year lowered its rate by 14 cents to $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation.

(It should be noted that the average homeowner was arrived at through countywide averaging. It's doubtful there are many homes in Belvedere, for instance, selling for $38,500.)

Using the major taxing code area for each of Marin's 11 cities, the auditor-controller found that the average homeowner would pay more in taxes in eight cities and less in three.

Cities in which the owner of a $38,500 home would pay less are Fairfax, $15.71 less; Larkspur, $4.17; and Sausalito, $4.79.

Cities in which the "average homeowner" would pay more are Belvedere, $5.60 more; Corte Madera $10.47; Mill Valley, $20.50; Ross, $38.41; San Anselmo, $20.68; San Rafael, $6.03; Novato, $18.10, and Tiburon, $10.47.

In unincorprated sections of the county, the "average homeowner" would pay $45.98 more in West Marin, $13.85 less in Terra Linda, 18 cents less in Marinwood, $16.60 less in Kentfield and $19.44 more in Loma Verde.

A tax rate booklet covering all 382 taxing code areas in Marin is being published and will be available in the county auditor-controller's office.

Larkspur Aides Invited To Party

By PAT PERRY

Alice and Paul Vincilione, long embroiled with the City of Larkspur over their attempt to grade and develop the Tiscornia Estate lands, have invited Larkspur's elected and appointed officials to a cocktail party Saturday.

The officials are of various mind about the propriety of attending since the Vinciliones and the city are involved in a law suit over the development.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon said he and his wife will attend the party. "Do you want us to tell the I-J whenever we get invited to parties," he told a reporter. "We would like to be able to lead our own personal life."

Mayor William G. Fleckles, who went to a similar Vincilione party last year, said he won't attend because his wife is to undergo surgery Saturday.

But councilmen Joan Sestak, Alfred J. Malvino and Robert H. Lee said they have declined the invitation.

Mrs. Sestak said, "I felt it was inappropriate for me to attend. We are the city. And the city and the Tiscornia Estate are still awaiting the outcome of the suit." Lee and Malvino expressed similar views, the latter saying, "I just don't think it's proper when there's litigation under way."

Planning Commissioner Charles Curley also said he didn't think it would be appropriate to attend.

Planning Commissioner Leonard S. Rubin said he doesn't know if he'll attend the party, and chairman Otto Hoefler said he wasn't invited.

Larkspur's legal hassle centers on the Tiscornia Estate leading up to Baltimore Canyon, run by Alice B. Copeland Vincilione and her husband, Paul, and their illegal grading of Little King Mountain.

On July 17 Judge McGuire issued a temporary injunction against the estate forbidding further grading at least until May 1973, after concluding from testimony that more than 500 cubic yards had been moved both last October and between February and May this year without a required permit.

But the judge has not yet ruled on the Vincilione's countersuit, on whether the city council and planning commission justifiably turned down a permit to move up to 350,000 cubic yards of dirt from the crown of Little King to the flat land across Magnolia Avenue.

Acting city atty. Peter Brekhus said today that no word on the judge's decision on that case has yet been received, and there is no indication when it will be.

Mrs. Vincilione said Saturday's affair "is just a party we give annually to friends and acquaintances." She said they

Senate Ends Arms Pact Bottleneck

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted today to halt its month-long squabble over the new Soviet-American arms control agreement and put the ratification issue to a vote, possibly by nightfall.

The move was a tactical defeat for arms control advocates fighting a White House-backed amendment they claimed would jeopardize further negotiations with the Russians and sour the atmosphere of detente.

A leadership move to impose cloture — limiting further debate on the issue to one hour per Senator — mustered the necessary two-thirds vote, on the first try, a very rare occurrence.

The vote was 76 to 15, or 15 more than the margin required. It was only the 10th time in history that cloture was invoked on the first attempt. California's two Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney, both Democrats, voted for the measure.

This cleared the way for an immediate showdown on an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a bitter opponent of the arms agreement, demanding "equality" in the size and numbers of missiles deployed by both sides when a permanent treaty is negotiated to replace the five-year arms agreement.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., charging that Jackson's plan would jeopardize further arms negoitation, offered a substitute calling for "overall equality, parity and sufficiency" in all types of weapons. The Senate voted this down 48 to 38.

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee from both parties fought the Jackson amendment, contending it would create a rigid condition for the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) when they resume this fall.

$2.25 Million Bond Voting Set Tuesday

San Rafael residents in a special election Tuesday will vote on a $2.25 million bond issue aimed at preserving some of the city's fast disappearing open space.

The measure at the outset would cost taxpayers about 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with the levy gradually decreasing over a 25-year period. The cost to the owner of a $50,000 home, for example, would be $12.25 the first year.

A two-thirds majority of the vote cast is needed to pass the bond issue.

Some 21 parcels totaling 3,837 acres with an aggregate market value of $12 million on county assessment rolls have been listed for possible acquisition by the San Rafael Planning Department if the bond is authorized. Development proposals are pending in various stages on eight of the parcels.

After holding public hearings, the city council will draw up a priority list of parcels to acquire from the list — assuming the bond money becomes available.

In the event of bond passage, the council is expected to focus attention on the eight parcels for which development has already been proposed. These lands include:

The Larwin property of 148 acres northeast of the civic center between the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and Gallinas Creek. A proposal for 1,421 townhouse units plus commercial recreation has been made for the property.

Pinto Ridge, 183 acres from the end of Ridgewood Avenue in Rafael Highlands to an extension of Del Haro Way in Terra Linda, on which 295 townhouse units and single-family dwellings are proposed.

The Robert Dollar estate of 11.1 acres fronting Mission Avenue, on which 80 units of townhouses and condominium apartments have been proposed.

Peacock Gap Unit 5, a 72-acre parcel at McNear and Peacock drives which has been proposed for subdivision into 170 single-family dwelling units.

San Rafael Cayes, a 121-acre parcel in east San Rafael on an extension of Canal Street, proposed for 1,557 apartment units.

Oak Hill, 18 acres along an

Brown Suing To Remove Prop. 22 From Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —In an unprecendented action, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. today filed a lawsuit seeking to remove the controversial farm labor initiative from the November ballot. (See other story, page 5.)

Brown said that petition signatures to qualify the measure contained forgeries and were "unlawfully obtained by means of fraud unprecendented in the history of California."

The suit seeking to strike the initiative, designated Prop. 22, was filed in the Sacramento County Superior Court it named as defendants Sacramento County Clerk William Durley, James S. Allison, Los Angeles County registrar and recorder, and Joy G. Jameson, of Corona, the official proponent of the measure.

An aide to Brown said it was the first time in California history that a secretary of state had filed such a suit after he had certified an intitiative for the ballot.

GOP Files Countersuit In Bugging

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's campaign committee has filed a $2.5 million countersuit against the Democrats, alleging that the Democrats' bugging charges were aimed at capturing newspaper headlines.

The GOP suit, filed in the U.S. District Court Wednesday, charged invasion of privacy and violation of First Amendment rights. It also said the Democrats were using the taking of depositions as a means of making accusations that would constitute libel if published without benefit of the court proceedings.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, campaign manager for Sen. George S. McGovern, was named in the suit. O'Brien was Democratic national chairman and principal plaintiff when the Democrats filed their $1 million suit against the five bugging suspects.

The five, including two who had received funds from President Nixon's re-election committee, were arrested on burglary charges June 17 during an alleged attempt to plant electronic surveillance equipment inside Democratic national headquarters.

In other developments Wednesday:

—The Democrats reported finding another purported bug, "a small black device," in the telephone of Spencer Oliver, executive director of the state chairmen's association of the Democratic National Committee. Last week the Democrats found a "little red box," allegedly for electronic surveillance.

—Maurice Stans, finance chairman of Nixon's re-election committee, dismissed as "politically motivated" a House Banking Committee report that Stans had knowledge of $100,000 in Mexican funds illegally transferred to Nixon's campaign fund.

Demos 'Hurt U.S., Red Trade': Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz accused Democratic critics of jeopardizing U.S. trade with the Communist bloc today as the administration announced the sale of about 15 million bushels of wheat to mainland China.

Butz stoutly defended the administration's huge wheat deal with the Soviet Union, and singled out Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern for particularly sharp criticism, in testimony before a House agriculture subcommittee headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex.

At about the same time, the Agriculture Department's Export Marketing Service announced the wheat sales to China, confirming reports which circulated Wednesday.

Butz, asked about the relatively small Chinese sale, said he understood that for some time Chinese spokesmen had been in contact with an international grain trade firm identified only as a French-based company. On Monday, Butz said, the firm filed a statement with the Agriculture Department applying for export subsidy on 20 million bushels of U. S. wheat for China.

Butz, who has been engaged in a heated, long-range debate with McGovern over the U.S.-Soviet grain agreement, told Purcell's panel:

"The partisan attacks on this historic sale to Russia, and the poor judgment displayed, are jeopardizing the present and future sales of American farm products, and all commercial products, to the Soviet Union."

Big Russian Trade Deal Seen As Kissinger Leaves Moscow

LONDON (UPI)—Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger today ended three days of talks with Soviet leaders reported aimed at a multi-billion dollar U.S.-Russian trade deal and flew into London for talks with British leaders on outstanding European and international problems.

Kissinger declined to comment in Moscow on Soviet reports his three days of talks with Party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev had resolved differences holding up the trade agreement, but western diplomatic sources in Moscow said "there probably is something" to the Soviet report.

"I've spent most of my time here in meetings with Mr. Brezhnev," Kissinger told reporters at Moscow's Vnukovo 2 Airport. He declined to expand on his remarks but said there would be an announcement "in due course." One report said the trade deal could be as much as $5 billion.

Top security precautions were taken at Heathrow airport, with police patrolling terminal roof tops, as the U.S. Air Force jet carrying Kissinger taxied into position. Police surrounded the plane while Scotland Yard officers and American security guards screened the area.

Kissinger was meeting British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home this afternoon and thereafter was to confer with Prime Minister Edward Heath, at the latter's official country residence in Chequers.

Diplomatic sources in London expected Kissinger to inform the British leaders of some of the international aspects of his talks with Brezhnev, notably any projected moves toward a European Security Conference and the overall future Western course toward the Soviet-led Communist bloc.

Britain stands ready to accept the Finnish-proposed Nov. 22 date for preparatory multilateral talks in Helsinki on the projected 35-nation European Security conference, perhaps to be held next year.

But formal acceptance hinges on some gesture from Moscow which would signify Soviet willingness to agree to exploratory talks on American-sought balanced East-West force reductions in Central Europe.

So far there has been no such known gesture from the Kremlin, unless Kissinger received it in his confidential talks there in the past three days. The Communist newspaper Pravda said today in Moscow there are no grounds for delaying the Helsinki talks.

Kissinger flies to Paris Friday for talks with French President Georges Pompidou and there were persistent reports he would meet Le Duc Tho, the top Hanoi official in Paris, for more secret talks on ending the Vietnam War. Communist diplomats in London said Moscow has been urging Hanoi to settle with the United States but had made no progress.

Guardedly optimistic diplomatic reports in the past few days have predicted some progress in the weeks to come in the Paris peace talks, but above all in the secret Kissinger-Tho contracts.

Soviet officials placed a blanket of secrecy on the talks from the moment Kissinger and his five-man delegation arrived from Washington Sunday. They announced only that Kissinger had attended a luncheon given for him by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Tuesday.

But Victor Louis, a Soviet journalist with close contacts among the Kremlin leadership, reported in a London newspaper that the talks had resolved differences holding up a new U.S.-Soviet trade agreement along with U.S. credits to finance it.

Price Panel Chief Denies Fraud Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — C. Jackson Grayson, chairman of the Price Commission, has denied charges by the United Auto Workers that government haarings on car prices are a "political charade" and a "fraud."

Grayson reacted Wednesday to an 11-page letter from UAW president Leonard Woodcock read during the second day of commission hearings.

Prior to reading Woodcock's heated letter in the record, Nat Weinberg, the union's special projects director, said the UAW was withdrawing its request to testify.

The letter charged that the hearings were "nothing more than a political charade designed to delay price increases for the major auto corporations until after election day."

Woodcock said the commission's inquiry was a "fraud perpetrated on the American public in order to promote the re-election of President Nixon."

Grayson called Woodcock's charges "categorically untrue. It is absolutely not the case," he said.

The hearings were called after the UAW, along with consumer advocate Ralph Nader, filed suit to force a public airing on the auto price issue. The suit was rejected by a U.S. District Court here but the commission called the hearings anyway.

The commission denied price increase applications from General Motors and Ford on Aug. 29 while similar applications by Chrysler and American Motors were suspended pending results of the hearings.

Woodcock said the session was now virtually meaningless since only Chrysler and American Motors have 1973 hikes pending.

Weinberg said during a question-and-answer session with commission members that the hearings are now largely moot because any significant price increases would not be made until General Motors, the traditional price leader in the industry, sets its prices on next year's cars.

In separate testimony, Fred G. Secrest, Ford vice president and comptroller, said his firm was frustrated and dismayed by the commission's price hike denial. He said the rejection was unfair and "in effect, a government-forced price reduction."

Ex-Governor Flunks Bar Exam

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)— Former New Mexico Gov. David Cargo, who was preparing to move to Oregon, changed his plans Wednesday when he found out he had flunked the Oregon bar exam.

The news leaves Cargo, twice governor of New Mexico and an unsuccessful Republican primary candidate for the Senate in 1970 and 1972, undecided as to future plans, and puzzled over the test results.

"I just can't figure it out. I passed the Michigan and the New Mexico bar exams. I had high marks on both of them," he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Welfare Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite welfare cutbacks in the two most populous states — California and New York — national relief rolls reached another all-time high of 15,089,000 persons in May.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department gave the figure today, reporting federally-financed welfare rolls added another 40,400 persons between April and May. May was the latest month reported.

Local charity rolls unsupported by federal funds dropped 20,000, leaving a net gain of 20,400, but the national total was the highest since the government began compiling national welfare statistics in 1936.

Rahman In India

Mujib, who arrived today from Geneva on his way to Dacca, told newsmen at the Presidential Palace, "If Mr. Bhutto wants to talk with us, it is proper for him to recognize Bangladesh first."

Meeting nearly 100 newsmen at the Presidential Palace immediately after his hour-long talk with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, Mujib said, "You know my stand. Bangladesh is a sovereign country. It can talk to any other country only on that basis."

Relations Resumed

BONN (UPI) — West Germany and Poland today reestablished diplomatic relations for the first time since World War II.

The communique said the two sides had decided to establish embassies in Bonn and Warsaw, effective today. If said ambassadors would be named "without delay."

Pope's Plea To Man

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI) — Pope Paul VI called on modern man yesterday to be intolerant of impurity, immorality and sexual obsession that drags man into the mud.

"We must realize that impurity is not a right," he said during his weekly general audience at his summer residence in the Alban Hills south of Rome. He said his remarks were addressed especially to young people.

The pontiff appealed to Christians "to be in a state of alert and not to give way to environmental immorality." He said it is not possible to be intolerant about immorality.

"We live in a time in which man's animal nature is degenerating into unleashed corruption," he said. "Man is walking in the mud."

KP May Be Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon, anxious to save its new breed of servicemen from such menial chores as kitchen police, was reported today offering to absorb the half billion dollar annual cost in return for congressional permission to keep hiring civilians to take over the traditional GI jobs.

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., a member of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee and close associate of some top military figures, told the House he had been authorized to transmit the Pentagon offer, which he said he supported.

Sikes prepared an amendment to a pending $74.6 billion defense money bill to strike a proposed requirement that the armed services by April 30 end their efforts to "civilianize" KP and other such detail work.

Lansky 'Undesirable'

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Interior Minister Joseph Burg said today it would be "undesirable and dangerous" for alleged American underworld chieftain Meyer Lansky to remain in Israel.

The supreme court ruled Monday that Lansky had to leave the country, rejecting his application for citizenship. In effect, it agreed with the Interior Ministry that he was a "threat to public safety."

In an interview with the Jerusalem Post, Burg said there was no evidence linking Lansky to crime in Israel and said:

"His remaining seemed to me both undesirable and dangerous, whether the danger was of organized crime in Israel or of Israel becoming the center of illegal activities abroad."

Plastic Surgery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A team of five doctors, headed by a plastic surgeon, operated for two hours yesterday on entertainer Ann-Margret's battered face and injured leg — at her request choosing a more painful surgical treatment to leave fewer scars.

Earlier diagnoses that she had broken a kneecap — and might limp for the rest of her life — proved unfounded, doctors said.

But her husband, Roger Smith, said it still wasn't known whether she would ever again be able to perform the energetic dance routines she was famous for.

Gunman Killed While Robbing Belfast Pub

BELFAST (UPI)—A gunman trying to rob a Belfast bar died in a battle with a plainclothes policeman early today, but not before seriously wounding the officer, an army spokesman said.

The gun fight in a bar catering to British army veterans broke out less than three hours after two gunmen sprayed another bar with submachine gun fire, killing one man and wounding a second.

The deaths, the first since Monday, raised the toll in three years of Ulster violence to 559 killed.

Police said they suspected the robber at the Hill Foot Bar was a member of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) trying to raise funds for the outlawed movement. He was foiled by a policeman drinking a beer in the bar, who pulled his own pistol and fatally wounded the man.

"As the robber fell, he turned to the officer and fired one shot before dying," the spokesman said. "The bullet hit the officer in the stomach."

Earlier in the evening two men burst into the Divis Castle Bar in the Springfield Road area and sprayed the room with submachine gun fire without warning.

The bullets killed one man standing with his back to the door drinking beer and wounded a second. The gunmen escaped.

Police were initially unable to identify the two men shot, but said they suspected it was an assassination attempt despite the indiscriminate firing.

Earlier Wednesday Protestant mobs rampaged through the streets of a Belfast suburb, attacked policemen and tried to burn down a municipal building where a group of local police officers sought safety.

A spokesman said the mobs formed after 16 Protestants were jailed on arms charges in Carrick Fergus, eight miles north of Belfast.

They drove the police into the town hall, then tried to set the building ablaze before police reinforcements drove them off with baton charges, he said.

Egypt: U.S. Also Should Condemn Israeli Actions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt has taken exception to a message from Secretary of State William P. Rogers urging a world campaign against guerrilla attacks because the statement fails to mention "Zionist terrorism," political sources in Cairo said today.

The message was delivered Wednesday to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Hassan el Zayyat by an official of the U.S. interests section at the Spanish embassy but the sources said the government would not answer it immediately.

The Arabs have long contended the Israelis carry out as much guerrilla warfare as Palistinian commandoes.

Zayyat said the message dealt with recent guerrilla attacks urged Egypt as well as other countries to ratify international agreements aimed at countering such acts, he said.

"The government of Egypt, as well as all Arab governments and peoples had hoped that this concern would have prompted the American government to...destroy the evil at its very roots, and not content itself with a study of results and manifestations," Zayyat said.

"Zionist gangs have imposed their terrorism on the Arab region for 25 years, until this terrorism bore fruit and manifested its success in the expulsion of Palestinians from their homes, the usurpation of their rights and the colonization of their land," Zayyat said.

The Egyptian cabinet conferred for seven hours Wednesday on relations with West Germany following accusations and counteraccusations over the Sept. 5 slaying of 11 Israeli atheletes by Arab guerrillas in Munich.

West German Ambassador Hans-Georg Steltzer earlier denied Egyptian charges that Bonn was taking part in an "American-Israeli plot to justify Israeli aggressions on Syria and Lebanon."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Commerce and Industry Minister Haim Bar-Lev said security for Israeli notables traveling abroad was being tightened.

"It is obvious we cannot provide a guard for every Israeli abroad, but I can assure you that security for future Israeli delegations will be radically different from those at Munich," he said.

An inforced source in Tel Aviv said Wednesday Israel has launched a top-level investigation into its own security breakdown at the Olympic Village. The source said both West Germany and Israel "had enough advance information...to take the proper precautions." He said he could not explain how the Arab guerrillas still got inside "but this is going to be investigated."

Some Billboards Get A Reprieve

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ignoring administration objections, the Senate has voted to impose a two-year moratorium on tearing down federal highway billboards that offer "specific information in the interest of the traveling public."

The Senate voted 43-31 Wednesday against an attempt by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to remove the moratorium from a federal highway aid bill.

Moratorium backers said the measure was intended only to retain signs that direct motorists to gas stations, restaurants and other services until an alternative can be developed to offer motorists the information.

PROBLEM OF COWBOY LIFE

Stacy Merryman, 4, of Corte Madera, thinks she knows why cowboys are reputed always to die with their boots on, as pal Paul Kaye of San Rafael tugs to remove the footgear. The two were trying out their costumes for the Grand National Livestock Esposition, Horse Show and Rodeo's "Littlest Cowboy" contest set for Oct. 14. Deadline is Oct. 11 for obtaining entry blanks for 3-to-10-year-old boys' and girls' costume competition from the contest manager at the Cow Palace, P.O. Box 34206, San Francisco 94134.

'Shoot It Out' With Hijackers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Citing the violent nature of recent airline hijackings, a federal official said Wednesday airlines should use military personnel prepared to "shoot it out" with hijackers.

Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., assistant U.S. secretary of transportation for safety and consumer affairs, said there has been a change in the nature of the airline hijacker.

Once they were men who wanted only a "free ride to Cuba" but, now they have an "interest in political aims and ransom" and do not care about lives or property, he said.

Noting some airlines already permit pilots to carry weapons, Davis said he favors military personnel as airline pilots.

Beef Supplies On The Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In another indication of rising beef supplies for consumers, the Agriculture Department has reported a continued increase in the number of cattle being readied for slaughter in feedlots.

The department's Statistical Reporting Service (SRS) said the number of cattle and calves on feed Sept. 1 in six states in which monthly records are kept was up 17 per cent from a year earlier.

The increases included 32 per cent in Texas, 18 per cent in Arizona, 16 per cent in Nebraska and California, 14 per cent in Colorado and 2 per cent in Iowa.

Abrams' Testimony 'Contradictory'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in four hours of testimony on unauthorized bombing raids against North Vietnam clearly contradicted earlier statements by Gen. John D. Lavelle, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss, said Wednesday.

Stennis said he was not surprised by the conflict, but did not disclose its nature. Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, which has questioned Lavelle and Abrams in closed session this week.

Abrams' nomination to be Army chief of staff has been delayed because of Lavelle's admissions of bombing North Vietnam in violation of President Nixon's orders for protective reaction strikes only. Lavelle indicated in House testimony last June that Abrams knew of the violations.

"There's a conflict between the testimony of Gen. Abrams and Gen. Lavelle that will have to be resolved by the committee," Stennis said after Abrams' appearance Wednesday. "I'm not surprised at the conflict, the testimony has been so voluninous. It's inconclusive yet."

The hearings were to resume late today with Air Force Sgt. Lonnie Franks, 23, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Franks' letter to Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, saying that U.S. pilots had violated Nixon's orders led to the retirement of Lavelle, former commander of the 7th Air Force in Southeast Asia, and the inquiry that has delayed Abrams' promotion.

Despite the controversy, there seemed little doubt that the committee ultimately will approve Abrams, for four years U.S. commander in Vietnam, as the top soldier in the Army.

Two senators—Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Peter Dominick, R-Colo.—in dispute over how much Lavelle's superiors including Abrams knew of the violations both agreed Wednesday to support Abrams' nomination.

Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, gave newsmen the first public information available on the precise nature of Lavelle's violation of Nixon's orders.

Under the rules, in force because the administration was trying to get peace negotiations underway in Paris, American aircraft were limited to striking North Vietnamese targets on three conditions:

—When fired upon;

—If an enemy aircraft was in the vicinity of the American aircraft which were flying reconnaissance flights;

—If surface-to-air (SAM) missile radars were activated.

Lavelle, however, on his own authority, admitted that he ordered his pilots to attack when ground control intercept (GCI) radars were activated,9too, regardless of whether they were fired on.

Lavelle insisted, however, according to Saxbe, he never gave any orders for false reports that would indicate retaliation was within the prescribed rules.

An Air Force investigation showed that there were 28 unauthorized raids involving 147 aircraft.

'VC' Leave Mark On City Tombstone

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some tombstones in San Francisco's Mission Dolores, founded in 1776, carry the wording: "killed by the V.C."

"V.C." does not stand for Viet Cong but for Vigilance Committee, the vigilante movement of the 1850s that was the largest of its kind in American history.The vigilantes wanted to wrest control of the government from the Irish Catholic Democrats.

A Penal Kickback For Marin

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Commitments of Marin youths and adults to state penal institutions during the 1971-72 fiscal year reached 23 against a projected 45, the state Youth Authority reported today.

The reduction entitles Marin County to $88,000 under a state law which provides subsidies to counties in return for reductions in levels of commitment, said Allen F. Breed, authority director.

Marin will actually collect only $22,000 since it participated in the program only for the last quarter of the fiscal year.

The subsidy must be used to provide intensive probation programs for youthful and adult offenders, Breed said.

Statewide, the expected commitments were reduced by 5,266, the greatest reduction since the program began in 1966. Commitments have been reduced by a total of 20,567 during the six-year period.

Sonoma County had 33 commitments, 67 less than expected for a subsidy of $268,000.

Seven Sentenced For Drunk Driving

Seven persons have been sentenced by Judge Robert A. Smallman in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Monday were:

Thomas Calvin Miller Jr., 33, of 119 Madrone Avenue, San Anselmo, arrested March 1 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Neil Whitney Halvorsen, 42, of San Francisco, arrested May 29 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Sentenced Tuesday were:

Alan Joseph Trombla, 44, of 29 Ridge Road, Fairfax, arrested July 12 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Joseph Patrick McKenna, 24, of 4 Greenfield Court, San Anselmo, arrested May 7 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $360.

James G. Vierling, 41, of San Francisco, arrested June 29 on Paradise Drive, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Robert Arthur Sandahl, 51, of 260 Canal Street, Apt. 214, San Rafael, arrested July 2 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Raymond Stanley Robb, 28, of Fairfield, arrested June 2 on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, placed on probation for one year and sentenced to five days in jail.

Boat Ban Urged At Lake Tahoe

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (UPI)—A study of the Lake Tahoe shoreline says power boats should be banned from certain prime fish habitats and spawning grounds.

Dr. Anthony Orme, a consultant to the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (TRPA), said Wednesday 25 miles or 35 per cent of the lake's 71-mile shoreline is spawning zones. However, he did not specify the exact areas which he believes should be placed off-limits to power boats.

Orme was hired by the TRPA to draw up a shoreline protection plan.

DRIVE AGAINST GUERRILLAS

Israel's Target — Syria

By JOHN K. COOLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

BEIRUT, LEBANON — Syria is the main target of Israel's announced new military, political, and psychological drive to eliminate the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

Close to 10,000 guerrillas operate in Syria, under varying restrictions from President Hafez al-Assad's army and administration.

This adds to the pressures already generated against General Assad by Egyptian President Anwar al-Sadat's decision last July to remove Russian advisers from Egypt.

Syria still had Soviet advisers and President Assad has said they are needed. But Moscow is not especially well disposed toward the Palestine guerrillas.

A number of recent commentaries from the Kremlin have called on the guerrillas — both before and after their attack on the Israeli Olympic team at Munich — to abandon terrorism and turn instead to organized political activity under sponsorship of one unifying Palestinian organization.

The Iraqui chief of state, General Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr, sent President Assad an urgent message September 10, Damascus radio reported.

Arab diplomats here said they believed it was an offer of Iraqui military support in case of renewed Israeli attacks. The last troops stationed in Syria left when the Arab eastern front command ceased operations two years ago.

Iraq and Syria are ruled by rival clans of the Baath (Arab Socialist) Party which are not on good terms.

There are many signs that General Assad was alarmed by the decline in Moscow-Cairo relations. Syrian news media repeatedly warned Egypt, which with Libya is Syrias's partner in the Confederation of Arab Republics, against its drive for better relations with Western Europe.

"You cannot trust the Western European states," these Syrian commentaries said in effect. "Their interests are too closely involved with Israel and the United States. They cannot be true friends of the Arabs." This of course also is Moscow's message to the Arabs. In any case, Cairo's campaign of charm in Western Europe has been largely spiked by the Munich events.

Shortly before the Munich attack, the Kremlin sent a top-level message to General Assad, hand-carried by a Soviet deputy foreign minister. It is believed to have included a warning against possible major Israeli action and a reminder that Syria, at such a time, could not "denude" itself of Soviet protection by spurning Soviet help and advisers.

The dogfight with Israeli planes September 9, in which three Syrian Sukhoi's were lost, dramatized the fact that the Syrian air force needs much more rebuilding. Aside form the military problems and the difficult Palestinian issue, there are basic political differences between the positions of Syria and Egypt.

Egypt, like Jordon, supports and is officially seeking peace on the basis of UN Security Council Resolution 242 of November, 1967, which would leave Israel intact inside its 1967 frontiers.

Syria opposes this. It still is dedicated to the same "war of national liberation" against Israel as the Palestinians are.

This Syrian hardness of attitude is related to differing ways in which Israel talks about occupied Syrian and occupied Egyptian territory.

Israeli leaders, including Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, have often said that Sinai, or at least part of Sinai, is negotiable whereas the Golan Heights of Syria are not. New Jewish settlements are being installed much faster in Golan than in Sinai.

Damascus is certain that it has nothing to hope for from any peace settlement. Therefore it is not interested. This is what makes the new Arab-Israeli fighting following the Munich events doubly dangerous.

have invited many city officials and staff, but they will be a small minority among the guests.

She said of the pending litigation, "I don't think that you absolutely have to be unfriendly with people just because you have a difference of opinion."

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said he has been invited, along with several other city employees, and refused to say if he will attend. At Monday's special meeting of the Larkspur City Council, Bathurst was rebuked by the council for ineffectual policing of the illegal grading.

Mayor Fleckles said, after a long closed session, that Bathurst and other city staff members had been guilty of an "error of judgement" in the Little King controversy, but there had been no evidence of collusion.

The Vinciliones hosted a similar party in June last year, which was attended by councilmen Fleckles, Brixon and Earl J. O'Grady, Mrs. Sestak's predecessor, plus two planning commissioners, several members of the park and recreation commission and the library board.

Others on that occasion, too, questioned the propriety.

Mrs. Sestak said she went to the party last year as a library board member, feeling there was "no possible conflict of interest."

OBITUARIES

Harvey R. Crotts Of Bolinas

Harvey R. Crotts, longtime Bolinas resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 62.

A native of Willits, he had lived in Bolinas for 43 years. The family home is at 23 Wharf Road.

Until his retirement in November, he was mill superintendent on the rock crusher at Hutchinson Quarry in Greenbrae for 17 years.

Crotts was a charter member of the Bolinas Volunteer Fire Department and served as a fire commissioner for the Bolinas Fire Protection District. He was an elder of Calvary Presbyterian Church.

He was a member of Marin County Operating Engineers Union 3 and of American Legion Post 572, Bolinas.

During World War II, he served with the Army's 55th Station Hospital in North Africa and Italy and received the Purple Heart.

He is survived by his wife, Annie, of the family home, by two sons, H. Roland Crotts Jr. of Larkspur and I. James Crotts of Bolinas, and by a sister, Irene Sousa of Fremont.

Funeral will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at Calvary Presbyterian Church, Wharf Road and Brighton Avenue, Bolinas. Burial will be in Presbyterian Cemetery, Bolinas.

Friends may call at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, until 9 p.m. tomorrow.

ALICE FIELDS

Alice Wake Fields, a retired teacher living at Nazareth House in San Rafael, died today after a brief illness.

She had lived in San Rafael for four years after teaching in the San Francisco school system since the mid-1920s. She was born in San Geronimo. She was a member of Golden Gate Unit 40, American Legion Auxiliary.

She is survived by a son, Harry T. Fields of Colorado Springs, Colo., and by two brothers, Frank Wake of Vallejo and Arthur Wake in Florida.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of Nazareth House. The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the chapel. Friends may call until 5 p.m. tomorrow at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Burial will be private.

A. B. SWEETSER

Funeral for Arthur Balch Sweetser, 49, father of Alison and Sarah Sweetser of San Anselmo, was held yesterday in Palo Alto.

Sweetser, an architect with Ernest J. Kump Associates of Palo Alto, died Saturday in a fall from a six-story building he had designed at Ricky's Hyatt House in Palo Alto. He also had designed buildings for Foothill College, Cabrillo College, Mills College and other schools.

He was a veteran of World War II and a graduate of Stanford University and the Harvard School of Design.

He also is survived by a sister, Adelaide Matters of Palo Alto.

Cremation was at Alta Mesa Memorial Park, Palo Alto.

REV. DONOHOE

A concelebrated Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday for the Rev. John A. Donohoe, S.J., in St. Ignatius Church, San Francisco. He was a brother of James K. Donohoe of San Rafael.

Father Donohoe died Tuesday in Los Angeles, where he was a longtime member of the Loyola University history department.

Born in San Francisco, he was ordained to the priesthood in St. Mary's Cathedral in 1947, after graduating from St.Ignatius High School and the University of San Francisco.

He also is survived by his mother, Nellie Donohoe, and another brother, Daniel F. Donohoe, both of San Francisco.

His body will lie in state at St. Ignatius Church beginning at 4 p.m. tomorrow and the Rosary will be recited there at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Santa Clara Catholic Cemetery.

Pay Hike Decision Postponed

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night postponed a decision on firemen's request for a five per cent pay hike, according to Chairman Peter J. Ferrarese.

The Novato Professional Firemen's Association, seeking a five per cent pay hike, has offered to take a 3.25 per cent pay hike and the remainder in a dental plan.

The firemen contend that $22.465 in the district budget reserve was allocated for a pay increase and that directors had promised to bring salaries up to the average pay of other firemen in Marin.

The board adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Sept. 27 at fire headquarters. Commissioner Joseph Silveira, on vacation, was absnet.

Medal To Honor French Explorer

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — Medals commemorating the murder by Maoris of French explorer Marion du Fresne on June 12, 1772, are being struck by the Auckland Numismatic Society.

Du Fresne and some of his crew were killed in the Bay of Islands for infringing sacred Maori rites and undermining the power of local chiefs.

The medals — 10 gold, 200 silver and 300 copper — depict Du Fresne's murder, and his two ships, Mascarina and the Marquis de Castries.

Tunney, Wife Are Reconciled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John V. Tunney and his wife of 13 years have reconciled.

The office of the California Democrat said yesterday that Mrs. Tunney, 35, has returned to the family home here with their three children.

Mrs. Tunney sued for divorce in May, citing irreconciliable differences.

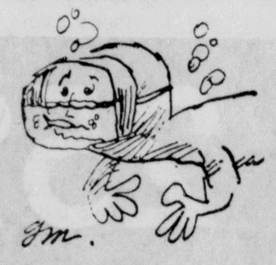
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Dan Deep, The Scuba Diver



Dan Deep saw an ad on the YMCA bulletin board for a $35 scuba diving course. Dan signed up for the course taught by Tom Tuna. The instructor donated his services to the "Y" and received no pay for teaching the course. The "Y" provided some equipment; the students bought the rest.

Tom was not a certified instructor and there was no life saving instruction included in the course. Equipment was not regularly checked because of the high cost of testing air cylinders.

Dan went with his class on an ocean dive without a life vest or an air regulator. Something went wrong and Dan suffered severe lung and nerve damage. He sued the "Y" for damages. Officials claimed that the "Y" was merely a volunteer allowing the notice of the class to be posted. And said that it had no control over the instructor.

The court ruled that the "Y" could be held liable. It said that the "Y" appeared to allow the instructor to act for them. Upon completion of the course, the "Y" gave each student a certificate. It also accepted the $35 fee for the course and allowed it to be advertised under the "Y" auspices. Thus, even if Tom were an independent contractor, the "Y" had a duty to exercise some control. In aiding an "inherently dangerous" program, the "Y" had to take special precautions.

For many years "charities" were not liable to their beneficiaries. Under early law, a chairty patient of a hospital, or the beneficiary of a charity could not sue his "benefactor." Today a charity is liable for injuries just like any other organization. Often the charity patient or beneficiary is least able to bear the loss.

Any charity that "sponsors" a program has some duty to review what it sponsors. The charity does not guarantee the safety of those benefits, but it must take precautions against dangers that can be "reasonably anticipated."

Marinite Booked On Theft Charge

A 21-year-old Mill Valley man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing license plates and a tire after he allegedly tried to buy the tire with an invalid credit card, sheriff's deputies reported today.

The man, Daniel John Pasquale, of 240 Redwood Highway, tried to purchase a tire from the Texaco service station on Frontage Road, sheriff's deputies reported. The attendant at the station started phoning for verification of the credit card and Pasquale reportedly fled.

He was picked up by sheriff's deputies on Ricardo Road in Strawberry and arrested on suspicion of possessing false evidence of registration, stolen license plates and the stolen tire.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where he remains in lieu of $5,000 bail. He was scheduled to appear in Marin County Court today.

Suit Against Synanon Dropped

OAKLAND (UPI) — The first of three child custody suits attacking the influence of Synanon Foundation on children was dropped Wednesday by the plaintiff after a few hours of trial.

Larry S. Stewart, 32, a Kaiser Industries public relations man, had attacked the life style of Synanon's schools in a suit for custody of his son, Scott, 7, from his ex-wife, Edna, 26, a registered nurse at Synanon.

But after testimony that the boy was undergoing treatment at the Synanon school for a serious eye ailment, Stewart's attorney announced that the suit would be dropped.

Sebastopol Man To Get Hearing

A 21-year-old Sebastopol man charged with trying to burglarize a San Anselmo market pleaded innocent yesterday and a preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 3 in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said they responded to an anonymous call about someone trying to break into the Bill and Beth Grocery Store at 1513 San Anselmo Avenue and allegedly found Wardell trying to enter a rear window.

Bolinas Attorney Paul D. Kayfetz said yesterday he had been asked to represent some of those threatened by the county's ordinances.

Charging the county was acting "in a heavy-handed manner," Kayfetz said he would appeal to the board of supervisors Tuesday for a more lenient approach.

"Many of the people affected are not transcients but are attempting to establish homes in Bolinas," he said. "A lot of them are panicking... many have children just starting school."

He suggested that instead of a 72-hour warning, those in substandard dwellings be given 30 days to comply with regulations.

Kayfetz said his discussions indicated many of those affected agree with the county's crackdown on unsanitary conditions but feel more time is needed.

FDA To Order Safe Containers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said yesterday it will order that pesticides and similar household poisons be sold only in "childproof" containers.

The FDA said the action is necessary to reduce the number of children sickened or killed by accidentally swallowing such common highly toxic substances as insecticides, rat poison and weed-killer.

Safety containers will be required when such substances are sold in packages of less than one gallon in liquid form or five pounds or less in solid form, the agency said.

Shark Season

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (UPI)—Fishermen from the west coast of Johore State have urged the government to help end a shark menace that is costing several nets of catch daily. Previously fishermen in the area had considered pirates their worst enemies.

Burglary Charge Hearing Is Set

A preliminary hearing for two Marin City residents charged with burglarizing a San Rafael service station was set yesterday for Sept. 26 in Marin Municipal Court.

David Walter Pedrico, 36, and Francis Ann Arenado, 32, denied the charges stemming from their arrest Sunday on Highway 101.

According to police, the two were arrested at the Sausalito-Marin City offramp because their car matched the description of one seen leaving the service station at Second and E streets.

An attendant told police he saw a man loading the station cash register containing $100 into a car and driving away.

Pedrico, according to police, was paroled from San Quentin less than three weeks ago.

Richmond Boy Drowning Victim

The victim was Johnny Morgain, who friends later said did not know how to swim.

The youngster had gone to the harbor after school with three friends. Two were ashore, and one was on another float, when the incident occurred.

'Minority Work Program Working'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Chief James E. Stratten of the Division of Apprenticeship Standards, State Department of Industrial Relations, said today the placement of minority race apprenticeship labor is working in a state-approved program.

Stratten said the number of apprentices registering in August was 2,082, the highest since October, 1969, and that the figure reflected the increase of minorities into the program. Nearly 21 per cent of the registered apprentices in the year ended June 20 were minorities, an increase of about two per cent over 1971.

Plead Innocent To Drug Charge

Two persons arrested Friday when suspected marijuana was found in their van pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of having the weed.

A preliminary hearing on the felony for Barbara Gail Cohen, 24, of Forest Knolls and Alvah Sheldon Howard, 22, of no fixed address was set for Oct. 3.

A sheriff's deputy on patrol on North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, stopped to inquire about a license plate wired over another plate on the front of Howard's vehicle.

Nixon Meets With Rizzo, Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met with political allies from the vote-heavy states today after he and his closest advisers had put the finishing touches on his campaign plans.

Nixon chatted with Democratic Mayor Frank Rizzo of Philadelphia and Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York as he resumed business at the White House Oval office following his political skull session at Camp David, Md., Wednesday.

Brown Considers Court Action Against 'Fraud'

FRESNO (UPI)—Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., convinced of fraud in the circulation of petitions for Proposition 22, said Wednesday he was "seriously considering" going to court this week to force the farm labor measure off the November ballot.

Brown also said a 10-county probe into the hotly-debated proposition would be expanded statewide.

"No doubt fraud has occurred," Brown said at a news conference following a meeting with Fresno County District Attorney William C. Daly. "The question is, how widespread is it?"

Brown said he had received over 2,000 complaints about the way signatures were gathered to get the initiative on the ballot including forgeries of names and misrepresentation of what the proposition would do.

He said in some cases petition circulators covered the attorney general summary of the measure, on the petitions, with a card so the signer couldn't read it.

Brown said an examination by his staff of petitions containing 320 signatures from Fresno County showed 33 apparent forgeries and another 43 signatures with other irregularities.

If passed, the proposition would ban secondary food boycotts, require secret ballot union representation elections, establish an Agricultural Labor Relations Board and set a mandatory cooling off period for harvest time strikes.

Cesar Chavez, director of the United Farm Workers union, bitterly opposes the proposition and says it would destroy his union.

United Farm Workers attorney Frank Denison of Delano said Wednesday he had been examining signatures collected in Fresno County and found evidence of "fraud, forgeries, missing dates, altered dates and gross miscounts."

Brown said he had uncovered no evidence county election departments were involved in the fraud.

Mrs. Nick Chalko, one of the persons in charge of the Fresno county petition drive, conceded Wednesday the Attorney General's summary may have been covered with a card on some petitions.

"After we give them (the circulators) the petitions we don't know what they do with them," sie said.

Brown said he had evidence that in at least one county the circulators were instructed by the petition sponsors to place cards over the summary.

He said many petition signers were told Cesar Chavez supported the initiative, that it would lower food prices and establish a minimum income for farm workers. Brown said those allegations are false.

In Kern County, District Attorney Albert Leddy said a handwriting expert had checked 7,329 signatures certified to the Secretary of State and found at least 1,000 which did not appear to match those on registration affidavits.

Other counties involved in the original investigation were San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Clara, Orange, San Diego, San Mateo, Alameda and San Bernardino.

Brown said there had been no complaints about fraud in the gathering of signatures for the marijuana initiative or other propositions on the November ballot.

Corona Prosecutor Hits Hawk Tactics

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—In the strongest words since the trial began, the prosecution charged Wednesday that Juan V. Corona's attorney has "poisoned the mind" of the public about the mass murder case.

Bart Williams, assistant Sutter County district attorney, directed the accusation against Richard Hawk at the end of the trial's third day with the first juror yet to e selected.

"He (Hawk) already has poisoned the mind of the public at large," said Williams, "and feels, as far as pretrial publicity is concerned, that he has the public in his hip pocket."

Hawk, repeatedly ignoring warnings from Superior Court Judge Richard Patton, has consistently accused the prosecution of hiding evidence that would show Corona innocent of slaying 25 migrant workers and urying their bodies along the Feather River.

It was the first time since the trial began that the prosecution sought out newsmen to respond to the defense attorney's attacks on their case and investigations.

Asked by a newsman why the prosecution has suddenly become talkative, Williams said, "We are fighting for our lives. That guy (Hawk) is trying to run away with the battle wagon."

Although dressed down twice Wednesday by the judge in private for his criticism, Hawk refused to tone down his statements as the opposing attorneys began their questioning about pretrial publicity.

Hawk, responding in court to District Attorney G. Dave Teja's complaints about his pretrial remarks, said "anything I may have said to the press was to rebut what that jackass sheriff said."

He was referring to Sutter County Sheriff Roy Whiteaker, who said after Corona's arrest last May, "We are certain he committed the murders."

While talking to newsmen during a break in the trial, Teja also reacted sharply to Hawk's charges that the state is deliberately withholding evidence favorable to Corona.

"That's absolutely false," Teja said. "Anybody who knows me knows that I am an ethical prosecutor and would not suppress evidence."

During the third day of the trial, the defense used its first challenge for cause and removed as a potential juror, Rolland Brown, a Vacaville onion processing plant worker.

Charity To Get More Than Half

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Louis R. Lurie, a self-made multi-millionaire who died Sept. 6 at the age of 84, left more than half his estate to charity, it was disclosed Wednesday when his will was filed for probate.

Attorneys for the estate said a dollar estimate of Lurie's wealth would not be available "for some months," but it was believed his real estate and other holdings were valued in excess of $50 million.

The principal beneficiary of the will is the Louis R. Lurie Foundation, a charitable trust established by Lurie 20 years ago.

The foundation will get 50 per cent of Lurie's estate for 27 years, after which the funds will be distributed to Lurie's grandchildren or their offspring.

HOPALONG DIES — William Boyd, matinee idol of silent films who became famous on television as Hopalong Cassidy, died yesterday after a long illness.

(UPI Telephoto)

'Hopalong Cassidy' Boyd Dies In Hospital At 74

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — There have been 16 different Tarzans, six Lone Rangers, two Supermen, three sets of Batmen and Robins and a litter of Lassies.

But there could be only one Hopalong.

William Boyd, who made Hopalong Cassidy a fixture of the early days of television, died late Tuesday night. He was 74.

Boyd was the first of the western actors to foresee the riches that could be made in television, and parlayed a series of cheap movies made years before into one of television's biggest hits worth millions of dollars.

He so identified the black-clad, silver haired Hopalong with himself that no other actor could take over, and after he retired he refused to give interviews, for fear children would see he was not the saintly knight of the sagebrush he played.

Funeral services will be private. He was survived by his widow, former actress Grace Bradley, his fourth wife.

A spokesman for South Coast Community Hopital, where Boyd had been under care since June, said he died of a combination of Parkinson's disease and heart failure.

After brief stardom as a romantic leading man in the 1920s under Cecil B. DeMille (who was struck by Boyd's gleaming, prematurely white hair), Boyd's career ran downhill, in expensive living and gambling debts.

He was broke in 1948 when he shrewdly saw the potential in the television market, and obtained the rights to 66 quickie movies he made, starting in 1935. The movies featured the exploits of a character named Hopalong Cassidy.

But Boyd, originally cast as a villain, talked the director into using him as the hero—and then insisted on turning the character around.

Boyd's Hopalong could never be seen drinking, smoking or interested in women. He was neat and clean, but dressed in a stark, silver-trimmed black outfit just at the time other western heroes were switching to gaudy outfits and black hats were supposed to mark the villain, not the hero. In Boyd's movies, Hopalong never shot the bad guys until they had a chance to shoot first.

Boyd talked a local television station into showing one of his old Hopalong films for $200 and set off a boom. He became a multimillionaire from the demand for his films, and from the Hopalong cap pistols, hats, holsters and other paraphanelia.

After all 66 films had been aired at least four times each and the public demand continued, NBC talked Boyd into coming out of retirement to make 26 Hopalong episodes for television, with the late Gabby Hayes as his sidekick.

Although he hadn't worked in five years, Boyd saddled up his milk-white horse "Topper" and galloped through the 1952-53 television season, then faded into the sunset, to enjoy his riches.

He made his last public appearance as Hopalong in 1961 agreeing to open a highway in Palm Desert. He turned down the offer of a scissors, pulled out his six-gun and shot the ribbon apart.

Education Costs Up But Enrollment Lags

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Office of Education estimates school spending will climb to a record $90.5 billion this year, although enrollment will show its smallest increase in 28 years.

An annual back-to-school survey of the agency issued Wednesday said spending to provide classrooms and instruction for 60.4 million students from kindergarten through graduate school would climb $5.4 billion over the last school year's $85.1 billion figure.

Enrollment, however, has gained only 400,000, the smallest increase since 1944. Vance Grant of the government's National Center for Educational Statistics said a declining U.S. birth rate was responsible.

Most of the increased enrollment will take place in colleges and universities. The survey said total enrollment in elementary and secondary schools was expected to decline by 200,000 from the 1971 level.

The agency said a gain of 300,000 high school students had been offset by a decline of 500,000 children in kindergarten through the eighth grade.

The decline in elementary school enrollments is due to an annual drop in births since the "baby boom" peaked in 1961 with 4.3 million births, Grant said. The decline is expected to continue to a 3.4 million level this year.

Grant said the birth rate has had an impact on the teaching situation.

"With fewer children coming into school at the same time more graduates are leaving college with teaching degrees, the so-called teacher shortage is really a thing of the past," Grant said.

College enrollment this term is estimated at 9 million, up about 6 per cent from last fall. Elementary and high school level schools enrolled about 46.2 million pupils, and private schools 5.2 million.

Defense League Member Arrested For Bombing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The head of the local Jewish Defense League chapter, whose television debate with an Arab escalated into a fist fight, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of bombing the Arab's home to "revenge Munich."

Irving D. Rubin, 27, and four others described by police as members of the militant Jewish group, were arrested on charges of intent to cause injury with a destructive device. The charges were in connection with a pipe bomb hurled from a passing car Tuesday night at the Hollywood apartment house where Mohammed Shahth lives.

Shahth was not home at the time, but his wife and two children were. The bomb broke windows and caused superficial damage to the building's facade. Nobody was hurt.

Shortly afterward, an anonymous telephone caller told the UPI Los Angeles bureau that "We bombed the home of an Arab for the killing of the Israelis in Munich." He ended the call with the JDL slogan: "Never again, never again."

Rubin and Shahth, a Palestinian Arab, debated the Middle East crisis this summer on the talk show of Robert K. Dornan on Los Angeles television station KTLA.

Luncheon Crush

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 3.6 million office workers try daily to squeeze into New York's 5,000 restaurants for lunch, although only about 500,000 can be properly served. The luncheon crush has resulted in installation of tens of thousands of office refreshment units which dispense hot and cold food and beverages.

Aborted Takeoff Leaves Jetliner In S.F. Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Trans World Airlines cargo jetliner carrying 40 tons of lettuce and strawberries slid off a San Francisco International Airport runway on takeoff Wednesday night and plunged into San Francisco Bay.

All three crew members were rescued unharmed after they scrambled in to a liferaft from the Boeing 707, which came to rest in a mudflat about 150 feet offshore from the end of the runway. Most of the severely damaged plane remained above water.

TWA officials said a fuel tank ruptured when the left wing hit a pier spilled about 500 gallons of jet kerosene fuel into the bay, but equipment borrowed from an oil company was keeping the fuel from spreading.

Two TWA employes who are SCUBA divers attached hoses to the plane's other fuel tanks to remove other fuel and oil.

A TWA spokesman said the plane plunged off the runway after the pilot apparently tried to stop midway through the takeoff.

"The pilot did try to abort the takeoff and attempt to stop the plane," he said. "Any variety of things may have caused him to take this action, but we don't know what they were at this time."

The left wing clipped a pier on which runway guide lights were mounted and the wingtip was embedded in the wooden pier supports.

The pier was the same one which was struck by the landing gear of a Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 on a takeoff July 30, 1971. Four of that plane's 22 wheels were shoved up into the passenger compartment, injuring 26 of the 212 persns aboard. The Pan American plane was able to complete its takeoff and return for a safe landing.

A hole was torn in the fuselage just ahead of the wing, the left wing was broken when it struck a pier supporting airfield lights and part of the cockpit was damaged.

The crewmen were taken to a hospital where they were given a medical examination and released. Then they went to a motel to await the arrival of a federal safety investigation team.

TWA said the freighter, Flight 604, was on a regular run from San Francisco to New York.

The crew members, all of whom are based in the New York area, were Capt. R.C. Bogatko, First Officer T.H. Sanford and Flight Engineer S. Phillips.

TWA said it would be a day or two before the federal government grants permission to haul the plane out of the water.

Citizens Help Will Be Sought

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission decided last night to seek citizens help in building a bandstand in Plaza Park.

Commission Chairman Lorraine Leivas said the commission approved final plans for the bandstand and said it hoped work can be completed before winter rains strike.

Mrs. Leivas said drawings of the bandstand will be circulated throughout Cotati along with a letter seeking volunteer labor and materials to construct it. She said the exterior will be weathered redwood from dismantled chicken houses.

The commission agreed that eventually benches should be placed around the bandstand along with a rock planter to match the nearby fountain.

Mrs. Leivas said the commission next spring will schedule a series of weekly concerts in the park with music ranging from rock to classical.

Eagle Scout Award To San Rafael Youth

Lawrence T. Simmelink Jr., a June graduate of San Rafael High School, will receive the rank of Eagle in a Boy Scout court of honor at noon Sunday at St. Luke Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Simmelink, 18, of Troop 38 and Explorer Post 38 is assistant junior scoutmaster.

Simmelink was a member of the 1971 Marin County cochampion football team, and spent the summer bicycling through Europe.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Simmelink of 10 Bayview Drive.

Hearing Delay Will Be Sought

The Muir Beach Improvement Club last night decided to ask the Marin County Planning Commission to postpoe a hearing scheduled for Sept. 25 on the proposed $2 million restaurant on the sea cliffs north of Muir Beach.

Club president Janet Stump told the Independent-Journal today that the club spokesman against the restaurant will not be available to testify before the planning commission on that date.

Plans for the restaurant were presented in July by Leslie Smith of Miwok Corp., which developed the seascape subdivision in the community.

At that time, the improvement club, which represents about one-fourth of the Muir Beach residents, firmly rejected the proposal.

1 GI Dies In Week's War Action

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today one U.S. serviceman was killed and eight others were wounded in Vietnam war fighting last week —the second consecutive week that only a single American died.

The Saigon command reported, however, that Vietnamese war casualties on both sides jumped substantially during the week ending Saturday. Increased fighting in South Vietnam's northern sector boosted Communist casualties to the highest point in three months and the government toll of 638 killed was the highest in one month.

The death of the American brought to 230 the number of U.S. servicemen killed in Indochina combat this year. The command said 1,003 have been wounded since January and 243 are listed as missing in action.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 45,857 American servicemen have been killed in the war, 303,380 have been wounded and 1,670 are missing.

A total of 883,719 Communists have died and 168,563 South Vietnamese soldiers have been killed in the fighting duringthe past 11 years.

U.S. Planes Finish Off North Vietnam Railyard

SAIGON (UPI)—Scores of U.S. warplanes attacked North Vietnam for the third consecutive day Wednesday, wiping out the remaining half of a key railroad yard they hit Tuesday and blasting a railroad bridge on the Hanoi-China route, the U.S. command said today.

In South Vietnam, government marines inched forward in house-to-house fighting through the rubble of Quang Tri City's Citadel and today claimed they controlled half of the 50-acre stronghold. North Vietnamese troops clung to the west side of the walled fortress.

U.S. spokesmen said 310 warplanes from four aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin and bases in Thailand flew raids into the North Wednesday. The bulk of the strikes, according to war communiques, were in the northern part of the country around Hanoi and Haiphong.

The command announced the loss of the fourth warplane in three days over North Vietnam. Spokesmen said a Navy A7 Corsair was shot down Wednesday near Quang Khe, 230 miles south of Hanoi, but the pilot bailed out over the Gulf of Tonkin six miles from the coast and was rescued within 20 minutes.

Air Force jets attacked the Kep railroad yard 40 miles northeast of Hanoi in the second straight day of raids on the major transportation complex 40 miles northeast of Hanoi. Spokesmen said pilots reported destroying "all rail lines in the rail yard" during the attacks. Pilots returning from raids on the yards Tuesday reported knocking out half the rail complex.

F4 Phantom jet fighterbombers knocked out two sections of the 400-foot, six-span Lang Lau railroad bypass bridge 37 miles north of Hanoi, the command said. Pilots dumped an unknown number of laser-guided bombs to wreck the bridge.

Spokesmen said the span was in a network of rail lines and roads from China to Hanoi and that traffic would be "slowed" by the destruction of the span over the Cau River.

Navy planes attacked the major highway and railroad bridge at Thanh Hoa for the third day in a row, spokesmen said. The bridge, two miles northeast of the city and 91 miles south of Hanoi, is an important link between the capial and southern battlefields. From 1965 to 1968, U.S. warplanes were unable to damage it.

Wednesday's raids on the Thanh Hoa span, according to spokesmen for the 7th Fleet, destroyed 180 feet of rail and roadbed but officers made no mention of the bridge itself being hit.

Autumn Red Push Seen In South

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists soon will launch an autumn offensive in South Vietnam designed to score enough gains to persuade President Nixon to modify his peace terms prior to the U.S. elections, American intelligence officers believe.

The analysts said Hanoi had been able to move an estimated 20,000 fresh troops into South Vietnam in the past two months and that the Viet Cong were placing heavy emphasis on recruitment of soldiers in the south.

They said they expected the major new push to begin within a few days and build to a high point during October, trying to tie down Saigon's main forces while the "pacification" program is rolled back in the countryside.

Targets of the offensive could include the utlying defenses of Saigon itself, the sources said. They noted there has been increased Communist military activity recently around Tan Son Nhut and Bien Hoa air bases in the Saigon area.

The U.S. officers said Wednesday they were not overly concerned about the effects of a new offensive, but they conceded that despite the American air bombardment of the north, the North Vietnamese retain the capacity to continue the battle for many months.

The sources described as accurate published reports that North Vietnam has from 20,000 to 30,000 men in the Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon, compared to about 3,000 who were in this region a year ago.

The fertile delta contains a large portion of the population of South Vietnam and produces most of the country's food.

North Vietnam has displayed a remarkable ability to continue to move men and supplies southward in recent weeks, despite the U.S. air attacks, the intelligence officers said.

They said the Communists have utilized a variety of techniques to overcome the damage inflicted on railway supply lines from China by effecting quick repairs or using improvised tactics to transfer freight around broken sections in rail lines and blasted bridges. They also appear to have been able to effect rapid repairs to their petroleum pipelines.

U.S. Rejects Cong 'Peace Cabinet' Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The United States today rejected a Viet Cong demand to control one-third of a peace cabinet in South Vietnam as a scheme to first emasculate the Saigon regime and then impose Communism on the population without even an election.

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter charged at today's 159th Vietnam peace talks session that the Communists, in their 1971 peace plan reworded and republished Sept 11, wanted the United States to dismantle the South Vietnamese regime before they would agree to negotiate with its remnants.

"Specifically," Porter said, "the changes you demand before you will agree to such negotiations include: the release of all North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prisoners of war and civilians detained for crimes against the state, and a total change of the policy of the emasculated Saigon government thus created."

Saigon negotiator Pham Dang Lam also brushed aside the plan which urges the creation of a "national concord" cabinet as did the July 1971 peace plan.

One-third of the seats would be held by the Viet Cong, one third by the Saigon administration after president Nguyen Dan Thieu's dismissal, while the remaining third would be men chosen jointly by the Communists and Saigon.

"No one is deceived by this formula which poorly conceals your unchanged design to seize power in South Vietnam immediately or in stages, by foce or by devious means, and to place the whole of Vietnam under the rule of the Hanoi Communist regime," Lam said.

Both Lam and Porter said the Viet Cong represented a tiny fraction of the South Vietnamese public and was not entitled to one-third of a coalition cabinet.

Labelling the Viet Cong demands "preconditions," Porter said they would determine South Vietnam's future without free elections.

Porter said that in addition to taking one-third of the cabinet seats, the Communists wanted to name half of the neutral element.

"One can reasonably express a belief at this point that such a method of selection would, along with the Viet Cong element, raise your effective participation at least to the 50 per cent level," Porter said.

Porter remarked that the Viet Cong might exert a veto against neutral men nominated by the Saigon third.

"As the North Vietnamese army would, under your proposals, still be involved at that juncture in all-out military activities in the south, one can reasonably judge that your influence on the unarmed neutral element of your proposed government would indeed be considerable," the U.S. envoy said.

Spanish-American War Vets Meet

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The few remaining veterans of the Spanish-American War attended their 74th annual encampment Wednesday but not one of them was able to march in the mile-long parade. They blamed it on rheumatism and tired feet. "I could have made it," said J.N. Bryam, 91, Spokane, Wash., "but my rheumatism kicked up last night and my knee gave out."

"I could have made it last year," said Col. E.G. Thomas Sr., Salt Lake City, new commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, "but my feet gave out on me after a tour of Russia."

About 100 women members of the Sons and Daughters of Spanish-American War Veterans marched behind the 13th Naval District band in the parade headed by the Multnomah County sheriff's posse.

TRIUMPH GT-6

Triumph's designers have overlooked nothing on the GT6. The Sundym Hotline tinted rear window (as standard equipment) has a heating grid fused to its surface to start freeing it of fog or frost electrically, if you desire, the instant you switch on the ignition. Special mounts for a four-point jacking system are part of the design. And a "no-loss" cooling system reduced the need to top up the water supply.

Hospital Commitment In Slaying Case

A 55-year-old Mill Valley housewife who told psychiatrists she killed her husband because she didn't want him committed to an insane asylum was herself committed to Napa State Hospital yesterday.

After finding Harriett Josephine Putney capable of understanding the murder charge and participating in her defense, Judge Joseph G. Wilson found her not guilty by reason of insanity and ordered her committed.

The judge decided she was insane when she shot her husband June 27 after reviewing testimony presented to the grand jury.

Mrs. Putney was a patient at Napa from 1962 to 1964 and had been undergoing outpatient treatment since Psychiatrists told the judge she expressed fear of electricity, belief that walls contain listening devices and gremlin-like people.

She told a psychiatrist she had to kill her husband, Stanley, 54, because he was talking strangely and might have been committed. Mill Valley police said they had been arguing about whether to move to the mountains or the seashore.

Mrs. Putney shot herself in the abdomen after killing her husband, but recovered after two weeks in the hospital.

Assault, Mischief At School

Novato High School has reported an attempted rape, a burglary and malicious mischief, according to Novato police.

Officers received a report yesterday that an unidentified juvenile attempted to rape a 17-year-old student at an unidentified garage on Washington Street after dragging her from the high school soccer field at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The juvenile, about five feet, six or seven inches tall and wearing a brown hat and blue jeans released the girl after she began crying, police said.

Officers reported that 40 wall lockers at the school were pried open between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. yesterday and contents were strewn about the corridors. A night light and fixture were damaged and trees and plants damaged, at an estimated loss of $100, police said.

Police also received a report Tuesday that welding equipment valued at $415 was taken from Room 42 at the school between June 15 and Tuesday.

Misdemeanors Bring Park Work Sentence

Ben Chimak Bercier, 24, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and public drunkenness and was ordered to work three days for a park and recreation department.

• Judge Robert A. Smallman imposed the work on the North Dakotan who was arrested Tuesday on Bridgeway in Sausalito with a plastic bag of marijuana.

State 'Swatting At Gnats' On Smog, L.A. Director Says

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The head of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District criticized the state Air Resources Board Wednesday for failing to get at the "monster" of air pollution—the automobile

The board, meeting for two days here, recommended Wednesday that five Southern California counties crack down on new industrial facilities likely to pour out large quantities of pollutants.

"They are swatting at gnats when they should be trying to strike down the monster," he said.

The action of the board, which is only advisory in nature, recommends that counties in the South Coast Air Basin apply strict building controls on any source which produces more than 100 tons of pollutants a year.

But the board stopped short of recommending any limitations on automobiles or residential buildings.

Chass added that although he would like to see the board investigate autos and residential polluters, he was not in favor of any limitations "at this time."

The recommendation to limit industrial sources was left up to local government agencies to implement. The South Coast Air Basin includes all or part of the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Before the board's meeting, the coordinating council of the basin approved the plan, but several observers, including Chass, called it a "severe limitation" on future growth.

Chass said the recommendation was "sort of a super zoning procedure," which if followed by Los Angeles would be applied on a case by case basis.

"A new cement plant would have an extremely dim chance in some areas, but might be permitted in others where the amount of blowing dust far outweighs particulate emissions from the plant," he said.

David Souten, technical advisor to the regional office of the federal Environmental Protection Agency, told the board he would have preferred a stronger limitation plan, "one which deals with automobile and residential limitations."

Souten said, however, that the EPA did not know what the limitations should be.

William Fitchen, air pollution control officer for Orange County, criticized the EPA and said its "experts are just plain inexperienced. They come out here from the East and suddenly know all about our pollution problems."

San Rafael Woman On Federal Jury

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — June M. Koltun of 112 Du Bois Street, San Rafael, was appointed one of 23 members of a special federal grand jury yesterday.

U.S. District Judge Stanley A. Weigel said the panel will sit for only four months, dealing mainly with drug problems for the Drug Abse Law enforcement group.

Windows Kept People In Bus

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)—Police said today a number of students who died in a school bus that plunged into a rain-swollen river from a sinking ferry boat Wednesday were trapped inside because the windows were rolled up to keep out the rain.

A police spokesman from a rural district 16 miles north of here said the bus was pulled out of the Krian River today "with quite a number of bodies in it."

He said latest figures show up to 34 persons were believed drowned in the capsizing of the platform ferry.

Otis Takes Federal Job In Bay Area

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Webster Otis of Ross, who has served the past year in a Department of Interior post in Washington, D.C., has returned to the Bay Area in another Interior job.

Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, has named Otis, 37, field representative for the department's Pacific Southwest region, headquartered in San Francisco.

Otis, whose new assignment will involve surveillance and coordination of department activities in the region, is paid $32,407 annually.

Until the new job, Otis had served as special assistant to John W. Larson, assistant secretary for department program policy. He replaces William M. Monroe, who has been assigned to another position with the department in San Francisco.

Otis had joined the department amid controversy over an interest ultimately divested in Point Reyes National Seashore property being condemned by the federal government.

Change Taken

A thief who has learned how to trip an electronic coin-release device took $41 from a change machine at the Time Saver Laundry, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, sometime between Monday and Wednesday, police reported today.

Party Leads To Bizarre Death

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A 21-year-old man was partially decapitated with a ceremonial Japanese samurai sword and bled to death Wednesday night when a fight broke out at a glue sniffing party, police said.

Police charged Alex Diaz, 17, in the death. They said that when the fight broke out, Diaz picked up the 2½ foot sword and swung at the elder Salaraz. One blow cut off one of Salazar's hands and the other cut through his neck.

Diaz was taken to the Bexar County jail where he was held in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Tam CSD Building Contract Awarded

The Tamalpais Community Services District board has awarded a contract for construction of its new utility building in the corporation yard.

The contract was given to Ireland and Robinson Inc. of Belvedere for $12,398 during the board meeting Tuesday night.

According to board member Glenn Lambacher, the company will build the concrete slabs required for the entire building and a portion of the framing and roofing.

The building on Bell Lane should be completed by the end of November, Lambacher said.

The district also awarded a $3,246 contract to Campbell-Bishop of Corte Madera for a three-quarter-ton pickup truck to replace one of the district's older trucks.

In other action, the board recommended that the Richardson Bay marshland be included among the top priority buffer zones in the county master plan.

The board also earmarked $224 for the mailing of about 1,400 opinion surveys to all district voters to determine sentiment on open space, park development and services.

Virginia City To Be Dedicated

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (UPI) —Virginia City will be formally dedicated as a national historic landmark Friday, 11 years after it was declared eligible for such recognition.

The ceremony by the old Fourth Ward School will feature the public unveiling of a bronze plaque. A National Park Service representative will speak.

The site was found nationally significant by the secretary of the interior and was declared eligible for designation as a national historic landmark July 3, 1961. It was recorded in the the National Register of Historic Places.

Dixie Advisory Group To Study Bill's Effect

The Dixie School District board last night decided to form a citizens advisory group to study the impact passage of the Watson Initiative would have on the district.

The board, on record in opposition to the measure, ordered formation of the citizens group after receiving letters against the measure from Governor Ronald Reagan, state School Supt. Wilson Riles and state Sen. Peter H. Behr (R-S.R.), according to district Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

Reagan opposed the Watson measure — which, if passed Nov. 7, would limit property tax as means of supporting schools and other governmental agencies — because of "the destructive abruptness of change" it would cause, Campbell said.

Campbell said the measure would reduce district income by 30 per cent. The cut would mean a limitation of special district programs, result in massive staff cutbacks and enlarge class size, according to the superintendent.

The complex proposal would basically reduce property taxes by 40 per cent and shift the burden of financing such programs as welfare and local education to the state. Legislative consultants have estimated the measure would trigger a statewide $1.3 billion in other taxes to offset loss of local property taxes.

Campbell said the board would appoint the citizens advisory committee at 8 p.m. Sept. 27.

"We would like to see property tax reduced but want replacement income," Campbell said.

The Dixie School District board also:

CROSSWALK — Decided to study the possibility of a crosswalk at Nova Albion Way and Arias Street as requested by several parents.

FUND REQUEST — Agreed to borrow $300,000 from the county while awaiting receipt of tax funds for 1972-73.

STUDENT TEACHERS — Approved agreements with San Francisco State and University of California School of Nursing for two student teachers. In another matter, the board approved a job description and pay of $1.65 an hour for summertime student aides.

CONTRACTS — Modified 12 teacher contracts for proper step and pay scale placement.

PERSONNEL — Hired Daniel Chambers and Patrick Loomis at $4 an hour as teaching assistants for the music program and accepted the resignation of elementary teacher Jean Urban, who is moving. Also hired were three custodians: Thomas James at $671 per month, and Douglas Davis and Stephen Berner, both hired at $141 per month.

WE RECOMMEND SCOTTS LAWN FOOD TO ANYONE WHO WANTS TO FEED A LAWN
1. Supplies the high-nitrogen feeding that California lawns need to thrive.
2. Contains plant-available iron to make up for our iron deficient soils. Works rapidly through the leaves.
3. Long lasting feeding due to patented Polyform process — keeps grass and dichondra green longer and eliminates the wasteful surge growth that causes extra mowing. Resists leaching.
4. Clean, lightweight granules (no filler material added) make feeding easier and faster. A big relief from back-breaking heavyweight fertilizers!
5. Backed by Scotts "No-Quibble" guarantee - you must be Satisfied or your money back. Every cent.

Mill Valley Woman To Serve As Panelist For Career Day

Musician Ruth Freeman of Mill Valley is one of 12 Chi Omega Sorority Alumnae who will serve on a panel for the Chi Omega Career Day to be held Sunday beginning at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Philip Angell in Orinda.

Panel members will describe their careers, the new directions careers are taking and how best to prepare for them, according to the chairman, Mrs. Igor Blake of Lafayette.

RUTH FREEMAN
Musician on panel

Mrs. Freeman is a principal violinist with the San Francisco Civic Light Opera and plays with the San Francisco Ballet Co. and the Oakland Symphony. She teaches at San Domenico School for Girls.

Other members of the panel are Nancy Vinson Rubey of Diablo, Claudia Williamson Steel of Chico, Wayne Peters of Menlo Park, Louise Driggs and Jane Eshelman Conant of Berkeley, Elizabeth Denton Blake of Lafayette, Mary Laidley Lenahan and Marie Bertillion Collins, both of Piedmont, Emma Kiesel of Oakland and Betsy Sotzin Miller and Caroline Charles, both of San Francisco.

Chi Omega members from Marin planning to attend are Mmes. Sheldon Bowers and Paul Murray of San Rafael, Edward J. Ruff of Ross, James Egger of Greenbrae, Kenneth Weels of Belvedere and R. H. Berry, Horace Henderson and Kenneth Verling, all of Kentfield.

THE ANNUAL picnic and barbecue for members of the Marin County Chapter, United Ancient Order of Druids of California, will be held Sunday at 12:30 p.m. at Gerstle Park in San Rafael.

Chairmen are Mmes. Thomas A. Cuthbert and Alfred Schieve. Committee members who will arrange the barbecue, serving and games are Mmes. Joseph Serafino, Evan Brandenburg, Stany Cervick, John Mazza, M. K. Powell and Antonio Rostoni.

EL MARINERO Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will open the fall season with a luncheon Monday at noon at the home of Mrs. George H. Rigler in Greenbrae.

Mrs. Arthur Strehlow, national vice chairman of Americanism, will speak at the meeting on the topic, "Americanism and the DAR Centennial Project." The project is refurbishing the two rooms in Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

Hostesses for the luncheon are Mmes. Rowland King, Joseph E. Bare, Eugene Robinson and Walter N. Wyman.

COUNCIL THREE, Sierra Nevada Region, International Toastmistress Club will hold its first council meeting of the club year at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

"Designs for the Emerging Woman" will be the theme for the day. Council chairman Pearl Brklacich will preside at the meeting. Mrs. Melvin C. Nathan of San Rafael is reservations chairman.

SISTERHOOD OF St. Nicholas Russian-American Orthodox Church is having a rummage sale Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church rectory, 102 Ross Avenue in San Anselmo.

Boutique and white elephant items will be offered for sale, and piroshki, salad and pastries will be available for lunch or to take out.

THE PRESIDENT'S grand opening program will mark the beginning of the new club year for the Petaluma Woman's Club.

Beginning at 1 p.m. Tuesday club members will be served champagne punch and refreshments and will get a close look at the new fall fashions.

"Fashions for Fall" will be presented courtesy of Queen's Closet, Carithers and Village Shop, all in Petaluma, and will be modeled by club members. A business meeting will begin at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Russell Silva is the fashion show coordinator. Program chairman is Mrs. John Klemenok, and decorations chairman is Mrs. Leland Titus.

MR. AND MRS. John Maguire will be hosts for the Novato Newcomers Club Couples Gourmet Group to be held Saturday at their home in Novato beginning with cocktails at 7 and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jerry Carstens and Mrs. Einar Kruse, chairmen, will act as menu co-ordinators for the "Mexican Fiesta."

Karen Knapp Weds A.J. Camilleri

Karen Lynne Knapp of Novato became the bride of Anthony Joseph Camilleri Jr. of San Rafael at the Chapel at Hamilton Air Force Base on Sept. 2.

Maid of honor for the wedding was Kathy Riner of San Rafael and the bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Judy Knapp of Santa Rosa, and Libby Butterfield of San Rafael.

Steve Garrett of San Rafael served as best man. The ushers were Anthony's brother, Ernie Camilleri of San Rafael, and Chris Anderson, also of San Rafael.

A reception was given at the Officers Club at Hamilton.

Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Knapp of Santa Rosa, and Anthony's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Cammilleri of San Rafael. Both Karen and Anthony are graduates of Terra Linda High School and attended the College of Marin.

She is employed with Gensler Lee Diamonds in San Rafael. Anthony was graduated from College of Marin and is a member of the San Francisco Police Department.

C.K. Harding Weds Miss McReynolds

Joanne McReynolds and Charles Kelly Harding were married at Chapel One at Hamilton Air Force Base on Aug. 26.

Joanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack O. McReynolds of Novato, and Charles is the son of Mrs. Aaron G. Hardin of Elkhorn City, Ky.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Ronald D. Cooper of Tulsa, Okla., and bridesmaid was Mrs. Tommy Collom of Novato.

Ronald Cooper was best man, and Tommy Collom ushered.

Following a reception at the Officers Club at Hamilton, the couple went on a wedding trip to Southern California. They will live in Novato.

The bride is also the sister of Stephen McReynolds of Austin, Tex. She graduated from Terra Linda High School and is attending College of Marin. She is employed at Wells Fargo Bank in Novato.

The bridegroom was graduated from Hellier High School in Elkhorn and is attending College of Marin. He is employed by Safeway Stores in Larkspur. He is the brother of Mrs. Randall M. Belcher of Ashcamp, Ky., Aaron G. Hardin Jr. of Cudahy, Wis., and Mrs. John A. Gentry of Martinsville, Va.

200 CARS

Classic Concours Show Is Readied

Among the more than 200 classic cars that will be on display at the 10th annual Silverado Concours d'Elegance on Sept. 24 are a 1937 supercharged Cord, once owned by cowboy actor Tom Mix, and a Rolls Royce Silver Cloud limousine orignally purchased by Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh.

The concours, sponsored by the Marin Circle, Florence Crittenton Home and Services of San Francisco, will be held at the Silverado Country Club in Napa from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Chairman is Mrs. Charles Read Best Jr. of San Anselmo, and Mrs. David N. Lytle of Tiburon is entries chairman. Honorary chairman of the concours is Briggs Cunningham of Costa Mesa, a former sports car racer and yachtsman.

A 1930 Duesenberg Model J LeBaron Sweep Panel Phaeton and a 1924 Isotta-Fraschini engine from the Briggs Cunningham Automotive Museum also will be on display at the concours.

Entries in 23 classes of pre-World War II cars will be judged, and this year a class has been established for Duesenbergs. Three Model J Dual Cowl Phaetons will be on display. Only 477 Model Js were manufactured, and each is now worth up to $100,000. Another new class is "contemporary production" for post-war automobiles originally costing more than $10,000. All of the 1971 first-place trophy winning cars have been invited as have best of show and most elegant of show cars from all previous Marin Circle automobile shows.

Tickets will be on sale at the entrance the day of the concours.

Nursery School Has Openings

Sausalito Cooperative Nursery School has a few places available in the 12:30 to 3:15 p.m. session for 4 and 5-year-old children.

Ann Workman is the director, and Mrs. Jerry Barbour of Mill Valley is accepting applications.

Morning and afternoon sessions are five days a week.

Transparent Trend For Holiday Market

Sheer brassieres will be available for the holiday market and increase in popularity in the spring, according to Women's Wear Daily. Reasons for the transparent trend are a return to sexiness, continuation of the popular bare look, and a demand for lighter more natural bras.

The comfort of seamless bras will soon be combined with sheer fabrics in the creation of sheer seamless brassieres. The transparent look has been popular in Europe for several seasons.

PREPARING FOR their first concert of the fall season are Novato Choraliers, at left, Mrs. John Carter, director; Mrs. Clara Coleman, soloist; and Mrs. Jan Wilson, one of the accompanists. Mrs. Coleman is rehearsing "Happy Wanderer" which will be included in the concert to be presented tomorrow and Saturday nights at the Veterans Memorial Building to benefit Ross Psychiatric Center.

'Autumn Music' Concerts To Start Fall Season

By DOROTHY NEWELL

The Novato Choraliers, under the direction of Mrs. John S. Carter Jr. will start the fall season by participating in "Autumn Music" at the Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael tomorrow and Saturday.

The evening concerts are being presented by Marin Mental Health Foundation to benefit Ross Psychiatric Center.

Director Barbara Carter began her musical career when she was 7 years old, starting with piano lessons. When she was 10 years old she began playing ty violin. She attended the University of Denver, where she was a violinist in the concert orchestra. She also studied at the Lamont School of Music in Denver.

Mrs. Carter was choir director at St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato for several years. She joined the Choraliers six years ago and became the director in the fall of 1970. Barbara said the 30 women in the group sing for the pure enjoyment of singing. The group of women travels throughout Marin County singing for various clubs and organizations, hospitals and convalescent homes. The group of singers is so popular it cannot accept any more singing dates for the month of December.

Barbara, a native of Denver, and her husband, a retired Air Force major and now traffic management specialist with the Navy, have two sons, Richard and John. They have lived in Novato since 1955. Barbara is a former employee of the Independent-Journal. She worked in the classified department in the Novato office for five years.

When not rehearsing and singing with the choraliers, Barbara enjoys ceramics, sewing, gardening, and she also teaches violin when time permits. She is a member of Chapter SS of PEO, the Novato Community Players and she also sings with the Winifred Baker Chorale. She also sang one summer with the choral group with the Arthur Fiedler Boston Pops Orchestra in San Francisco.

Accompanists are Glenda Elvy, Harriet Howard and Jan Wilson.

HELEN AND SUE:

Whatever happened to the good old days when you met a guy and he thought you were nice so he asked you out?

Nowadays when you meet a guy, he thinks you're a not-bad chick, so he says, "Wanna get high with me tonight?" If you say "No" he asks, "Then you wanna meet me somewhere, like my place?" And likely he expects you to bring the food, wine, whatever.

I couldn't begin to tell you how many fellas have come on like this to me and my girl friends. Seems like men figure they're so much in demand that they don't have to "date" liberated females. They just imply, "I'm here, you lucky dames, so come and get me!"

And the darn girls fall for it. A lot of my friends are either on drugs, pregnant, helping support a guy who doesn't mention marriage (or all three).

If this is "liberation," then let's trade it for the good old chauvinistic days when girls were treated like something special. — STRAIGHT

STRAIGHT:

Believe me, the "good guys" are still here. Maybe you haven't found many because you aren't looking in the right places, or aren't running with your type of people. — SUE

DEAR STRAIGHT:

You'd be surprised how many letters we get from guys who wonder "Where did all the nice girls go?" Their complaint? — "Liberated" females come on too strong, don't give them a chance to play the male role. Too bad you "good old daysers" can't form clubs and get together. — HELEN

RAP:

Can male and female ever be "just friends," or does the old sex thing make this impossible?

You see, Jim and I broke up after going together two years. I felt terrible at first, but began to see it was for the best. We ignored each other, which ade it tough on our mutual friends.

Finally I called him and said, "This is dumb — why can't we settle for truly liking each other?" (We used to talk so well together.) He old me it isn't possible. A guy-girl relationship always goes past friendship for one or the other, and why risk it again?

What do you and your readers think? Does sex always get in the way when you'd like to have someone of the opposite gender as your good buddy? — WANTS TO BE A PAL, NOT A LOVER

DEAR WTBPNL:

I've seen many instances of sincere friendship between man and woman. This isn't to say that the sex thing hasn't entered their minds, but it's filed back there under "No-no," or "Impossible," or "Don't Disturb the Status Quo," and so it presents no problem.

Also, as you grow older, male-female friendships become easier, usually because both parties have romantic interests elsewhere. — HELEN

WTBPNL:

(You can say that again, Mom!! About easier-when-older, I mean.)

Trouble with the "just good pals" status between boy and girl is that one may want a buddy. but the other wants more. It hardly ever stays on one level —for both — so someone ends up hurt.

You and Jim can be casual friends — it's dumb, not speaking — but don't try for closeness again unless you want to go back together. — SUE

NOTE FROM BOTH OF US: This is a good question. Let's hear it from others on, "Can male and female ever be 'just friends'?" — H and S

Safe To Wash

It is safe to wash all upholstery made of plastic. Use thick suds on a cloth to wipe all surfaces. Then rinse and wipe dry.

PARENT AND CHILD

Some School And College Terms

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Beginning today we'll explore some of the more common terms being used by school and college personnel.

Accountability:

This word is often used to mean responsibility. That is, who is responsible (accountable) for what happens in a given school or school system? Most parents find it very difficult to determine who should be held accountable if a school system fails their own or a neighbor's child.

Is the student at fault? Or the home environment? Or is it the school atmosphere? Is it a dumb or unfair teacher? A principal who runs a prison? Or a principal who doesn't discipline? Is it the school board and their oppressive policies? Or a school board which won't spend the money to hire and retain top teachers?

If you hear the term "accountability" being used in your community, you can expect that a study is under way not only to find out who is responsible for school failures, but what should be done to improve the situation.

WHILE ACCOUNTABILITY could be used to locate where praise should be heaped, it generally is used in the negative sense — who's at fault.

Busing:

To many educators, the word "busing" means Swann. (Swann is short for Swann v. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education.) Swann is the U.S. Supreme Court case on school desegregation rendered on April 20, 1971. In Swann, the Supreme Court ruled in part:

That it found "no basis for holding that the local school authorities may not be required to employ bus transportation as one tool of school desegregation." And further that "an objection to transportation of students may have validity when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk either the health of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process. . ."

BY COMING down on both sides of the busing issue in one decision, the Supreme Court has forced communities to deal with this problem locally.

If parents are not alert, the busing decisions will be made by city authorities or by school system employees. And these decisions may or may not reflect the community's wishes.

In most communities right across the United States, some busing is absolutely necessary to achieve desegregation. How much busing, for whom, and to what schools are the key questions. They ought to be answered by parents, not by school managers.

Mothers of black first graders should meet with mothers of Indian, Chicano, Puerto Rican, Oriental, and Anglo mothers. Together they should carry out the intent of the Swann decision.

Just how much busing, for whatever reasons, goes on in your community should be up to you mothers and fathers. Maybe it will take all spring and summer in some communities.

And require dozens of coffee klatches, block parties, discussion groups, task forces, and the like.

You'll need to get pertinent data from the school superintendent's office, and a guarantee from the school board that it will implement the busing plan you work out.

But it's really up to you. It's up to mom and dad — not just sitting at home griping about their children being bused across town — but out at meetings with their across-town neighbors working ot a mutually acceptable busing plan.

35th Birthday Party For A Yacht

By MOLLY MARIN

Some 250 yachting friends have been invited to the 35th birthday party of the Henry B. Grandin's 46-foot yacht Amorita. The party, cocktails and a buffet, will be held Friday evening at the Grandins' landlocked home on Upper Road, Ross.

Entertainment during the festivities will be provided by the Sons of the Sea, the men's glee club from St. Francis Yacht Club.

The Grandins decided to have the party this week during the City of an Francisco Perpetual Trophy yacht races, sponsored by the St. Francis Yacht Club and continuing through Saturday. The race has drawn many of their yachting friends from Southern California to the Bay Area.

ON A WEDDING trip to Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. James Louis Stewart (Maryann Phyllis Lento) will live in San Jose when they return. They are driving to the state to visit relatives of the bridegroom.

Maryann and James exchanged vows at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael Sept. 2 and will make their home in San Jose while Maryann completes her student teaching requirement.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Lento of San Rafael, and James is the son of Mrs. Gerry Stewart of Colorado Springs, Colo. and the late Mr. Stewart.

FORTY GUESTS will gather for cocktails at the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ogle on Saturday from 4 to 7 p.m. to meet thier host's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marbury Bladen of Lafayette. Ind.

Mr. Bladen, dean of University of Purdue's fine arts college, is on sabbatical leave to travel and to study at Stanford University.

WED IN SEMINARY CHAPEL

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Buehler (Carol M. Davidson) are living in Santa Clara following their marriage at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. Mr. and Mrs. Roger E. Davidson of San Rafael are her parents; the bridegroom is the son of Elizabeth Buehler of Portland and Dr. J. A. Buehler of Kentfield. (Bernie photo)

SAFE AND SOUND

Seventeen-year-old Eileen Fagan was wheeled through the hospital in Burbank, Calif., yesterday along with the wall safe in which her hand was stuck for more than five hours. She had put her hand too far into the safe at the taco stand where she worked, and firemen had to cut the safe out of the wall. At the hospital her hand was freed without injury.

Terrorists' Guns Were From Russia

BONN (UPI)—The Bavarian State Justice Ministry said today the weapons used by Palestinian guerrillas in the kidnap-slaying of 11 Israeli athletes in Munich were of Russian make, not American.

"The story from Cairo about the terrorists getting their weapons from an American soldier is not true," a ministry spokesman said.

"The machineguns used were the Russian model AK-47 and the ammunition was of the Kalashnikov brand," he said.

Federal security experts were meeting in continuous session today to work out details for the formation of a counter-terrorist polica unit, the Federal Interior Ministry said.

Interior Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher announced the government's decision to establish such a special police unit late Wednesday night.

The Interior Ministry said the nationwide investigation of all Arabs living in West Germany was continuing. It said there were 56,820 Arab citizens living in West Germany and that another 10,000 were thought to be living here illegally.

Night of Terror

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Chuck Connors and Martin Balsam will star in "Night of Terror" a 90-minute television movie for ABC.

Corte Madera Agency Expansion Is Asked

Concerned that proposed redevelopment in Corte Madera and Larskpur may cost Larkspur School District money, the Mariner Cove Improvement Association board decided last night to ask that the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency board be expanded.

Association president Howard C. Harvey said he was directed to write to the Corte Madera Agency (which is composed of the five town councilmen) and recommend appointment of two more persons, noncouncilmen.

"The moneys involved in the redevelopment agency are substantial and overlap various other government bodies," said Harvey today, "particularly school districts. It's felt the additional membership on the board will provide further insight and broaden its scope and perspective."

He said his board considered possible loss of property tax revenue by the School District through freezing of assessment levels in redevelopment areas might require a property tax rate increase, to make up the revenue lost.

The association board endorsed the Corte Madera Town Council's efforts to ensure the survival of tidelands, waterways, shorelines, and the concept of preserving existing marshlands in the Ross Valley.

Guitar Concert Saturday Night

An evening of classical guitar, performed by Paul Bertolli of San Rafael, will take place Saturday night and not tomorrow as previously announced by the Marin Music Chest.

Bertolli, winner of the Music Chest's scholarship last year, will perform at 8 o'clock in Alumni Hall of San Domenico School, 1500 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

The Saturday night performance will include the work of several composers and a concerto for guitar and string quartet by Vivaldi.

Smog Link To Cancer Disputed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A researcher for the American Cancer Society Wednesday disputed the findings of a National Research Council report linking lung cancer with urban air pollution.

"I don't like air pollution. It's not pleasant at all. It dirties curtains and has other bad effects. But lung cancer? There's no firm evidence," said Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond.

Hammond, director of a long-term cancer prevention study involving a million persons, said air pollution in American cities has had "no measurable effect at all" on the rising rate of lung cancer deaths.

"Mind you, I'm not advocating air pollution," he told a news conference. "But there has been undue alarm that may take attention away from major causes of lung cancer such as cigarettes and occupational hazards."

He said the society's own study, conducted from 1959 to 1965 and begun again last year, found no evidence or "even any hint" that would link cancer with smog.

"We have a moral obligation to keep on studying possible correlations and maybe we will find that air pollution may have some slight effect with continued exposure," he said. "But we are without any evidence now to back up the claim."

McGovern: Republicans Could Be Jailed For Their Tactics

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern said today that Republicans "can go to jail" for their campaign tactics such as the bugging of the Democratic headquarters in Washington.

"Is it possible that Watergate may be Waterloo for Richard Nixon?" McGovern asked a crowd of 6,000 at a rally on the Capitol steps. A severe rainstorm cut short the rally which was delayed at the beginning by a public address system failure.

"We don't have as many electrical wire experts as the President does," McGovern quipped, in apologizing to the crowd of state workers and university students on their lunch hour.

The Democratic presidential nominee heaped scorn on his opposition as he and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy swung into a four-city campaign tour of Philadelphia, Albany, N.Y., New York, and Waterbury, Conn.

In a statement prepared for a noon rally on the steps of the New York State Capitol at Albany, McGovern repeated charges of GOP campaign fund irregularities, including diversion of $114,000 to the bank account of one of five men arrested in the Democratic national headquarters breakin.

"Now, we Democrats have our own financial problems," McGovern said. "But I'd rather have a shortage than this Republican runaround any day of the week."

"You can go to jail for what they've done," he said.

McGovern and Kennedy appeared together before tumultuous crowds in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Wednesday.

Although the settings on blocked-off downtown streets made accurate attendance estimates difficult, it seemed certain that a total of more than 30,000 persons saw the two senators during the day.

Speaking in Philadelphia, McGovern told of an incident earlier in which it sounded as if Kennedy were the star of the two-man show.

"We were walking down the street in Pittsburgh this morning and a woman almost knocked me down to grab Sen. Kennedy's hand," McGovern said. "She said, 'Oh, Sen. Kennedy, I can hardly wait until 1976.' Then she saw me and said, 'I'm sorry, Sen. McGovern, but that's how we feel in Pittsburgh.'"

Kennedy, who turned down McGovern's offer of the vice presidential nomination, is an unlikely presidential candidate in 1976 if McGovern comes from behind to win this year. But if McGovern loses, Kennedy may make the race in four years.

In Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, the crowds were more rowdy than at other stops on the campaign, but the two senators walked from their hotels to rally sites in both cities. At other stops, they had entered in closed cars.

In Pittsburgh, McGovern said that 150,000 U.S. men remain in Southeast Asia despite Nixon's troop withdrawal program. He said he would bring them home.

Reunion

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jason Robards and Stella Stevens, who co-starred in the movie, "The Ballad of Cable Hogue," team up again for an episode of television's "Ghost Story."

Flag Pole Star Held On Assault

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—John "Flagpole" Kelly, the once-famous flagpole-sitter, was in the prison ward at County-USC Medical Center Wednesday, held on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

The 59-year-old suspect, who sat for six months atop a flagpole in Miami in the early 1930s, suffered a heart seizure while being taken to a police station Tuesday night, police reported.

Kelly had been arrested at his home in suburban North Hollywood on charges of firing six shots from a revolver. Police said the bullets went over the head of his housekeeper, Alice D'Amico.

LIKE MY NEW DRESS?

Hand on hip, Renie Clymer, portraying a would-be actress, stalks Craig Waller, a naive young man she believes is a show producer, in hopes of "being discovered." Waller appears suitably impressed with her talent in a scene from Neil Simon's comedy "Come Blow Your Horn" to be presented by the Novato Community Players at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday at the Novato Community House.

Dance, Show To Raise Travel Fund

A dance and show in San Francisco Saturday night will raise funds toward sending Scott Fetterly and Karen Keller of Novato to represent the United States in an international dance competition in Australia.

The affair will be at the Hinton-Pick School of Ballroom Dancing at 380 18th Avenue, from 8 p.m. to midnight. There will be public dancing, exhibition dancing featuring the young Novato team plus students of the Hinton-Pick school, ballroom dancing contests, and refreshments.

The campaign to raise funds for sending the two young Marinites to the worldwide competition is still less than half way to its $2,000 goal, according to Mrs. Ronald G. Keller, Karen's mother.

Contributions (tax-deductible) may be sent to Overseas Travel Fund, 1130 Ferris Drive, Novato.

Men Can Dress Like Women. . If

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Men may legally appear in public in women's clothing as long as they also sport a beard.

The Franklin County Court of Appeals, in dismissing cases against three bearded men arrested last December at a Gay Activists Alliance dance, said they "apparently are not trying to pass as women."

The law under which they had been charged forbids public nudity or in "dress not belonging to his or her sex."

Despite dismissal of the charges, the secretary of the Gay Activists, Patrik Miller, said it cannot be considered a victory because the court upheld the constitutionality of the law.

The judges said in their ruling Tuesday that the law prevents persons from being victimized by impersonators of the opposite sex.

The Dollar Is Second Class

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American tourists visiting Europe should carry traveler's checks in the currency of the country or countries they plan to visit because the U. dollar is regarded as second class in the region, the president of a foreign exchange company believes.

Nicholas L. Deak, president of Deak and Company, said Wednesday the dollar now is subject to wide discount margins at hotels and other places tourists might wish to change their dollars or traveler's checks.

"It is simply a matter of Western Europe having been flooded with dollars and having far more than it wants," Deak said at a news conference.

MUSIC REVIEW

Pianist's Recital Tailored For Young

By WILLIAM CLARK

San Domenico's music department kicked off its fall term yesterday with a recital by 23-year-old pianist Patricia Michaelian, graduate of Curtis Institute and a Kimber award winner.

Bright sunlight outdoors, the open feeling of the hall, and fresh, young student faces, lent a healthy, exuberant atmosphere to the occasion.

Miss Michaelian's program, tailored for a young audience, consisted of Mozart's Sonata in D (K.284), the Bartok Suite Op. 14, and the Chopin Scherzo in C-sharp minor.

The opening Mozart was played in a dashing, spirited manner befitting a young, athletic pianist with an abundance of technical resources and the polish of fine training. But the desire to overwhelm in a piece designed to entertain produced some harsh sounds in the open harmonies and some steely-fingered scales. Miss Michaelian is not the first pianist to be seduced by the virtuoso possibilities of the passagework in this sonata, nor the first to mistake mere volume for orchestral sonority.

The Bartok suite opened up another world in which Miss Michaelian's considerable talents could flow unhampered, and she played with a fire and intensity wonderful to hear. The four movements made a perfectly coherent whole, the free-wheeling rhythmic drive building to a peak in the scherzo that sustained the concluding sostenuto in a very moving way.

The Chopin scherzo was remarkable for its clarity and technical brilliance. The fast tempo and insistent rhythms led to a most impressive coda at the expense, however, of lyrical subtleties and shimmering colors possible in this piece.

Youths Charged In Ax Murders

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Two youths were charged with murder Wednesday in the ax slayings of an 88-year-old woman and her nephew during a robbery at their home.

Arrested and held without bond were James Curtis Malone and Alfred L. George, both 17. The two youths were living at a residential probation center.

They were charged with the murder of Blanch Jones, 88, and Wilbur Jones, 56, whose bodies were found at the ransacked family home Tuesday morning.

Reeves said both youths had police records and Malone was awaiting sentencing Oct. 27 on a breaking and entering conviction.

Campaign Delayed

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—County Coroner Lois R. Shanks interrupted her campaign for re-election Wednesday to give birth to an 8-pound, 4-ounce girl at Sacred Heart Medical Center.

Muskrat Can Mean Pocketful Of Money

The yield of the muskrat in North America, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, exceeds in value that of any other fur. This rodent, found nearly everywhere on this continent excluding the treeless tundra, has a dense, soft underfur overlaid with long, glossy guard hairs, prized for both beauty and durability.

Army Volunteers Aid To Park-Rec Group

The Army Reserve unit attached to Fort Cronkhite is interested in helping install playground equipment at Larkspur's Dolliver Park, commission members heard last night.

As part of an altered public image, said Harlan Barry, parks and recreation director, the Army Reserves have offered 60 to 80 men to work a couple of days on the project.

There is $7,500 budgeted for the heavy wooden equipment for the park, Barry said, and commission chairman Theresa Campbell and Sally Ann Wilson were designated to set up a day in December for the reserves' work project.

Larkspur Recreation Commission Also:

BICYCLE — Approved a system of secondary bicycle paths on existing streets to route traffic off Magnolia Avenue. Stripes and signs will be installed on Alexander, Taylor, Monte Vista, Holcomb and Williams.

TENNIS — Heard that a start won't be made on constructing tennis courts in Piper Park until next spring.

FEES — Were told that there is $40,000 in the kitty from condominium conversion fees, some paid under protest.

RECREATION — Scheduled Oct. 11 to hear a review of the summer recreation program by Jacqueline Branch, Corte Madera's recreation director who ran the program this year.

VACANCY — Decided to solicit candidates for a vacancy for a young member on the commission. Applicants should be Larkspur residents under 22, preferably a college student, and should apply to Barry at city hall. Interviews will be held at the Oct. 11 meeting.

No Complaint In Drug Case

No complaint was filed yesterday against a 23-year-old Central Marin man arrested earlier in the day on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and being under their influence.

The district attorney's office, however, said an investigation of the case against David William Newton, who gave both Fairfax and San Anselmo addresses, is continuing.

San Rafael Police stopped the Newton car on Francisco Boulevard after midnight and noted he appeared to be under the influence of narcotics. Police said they found possible heroin in the car.

A 16-year-old youth also in the car was cited to juvenile authorities, but Newton's wife was released with their 3-year-old son.

70 Homes Get Plan Approval

The Sausalito Community Appearance Advisory board last night approved the architectural plans for about 70 of the 90 homes in the Marina Vista subdivision, on the hills overlooking Bridgeway, near Nevada Street.

The remaining 20 plans, submitted by the Sausalito-based developer, Environmental Planning and Design Inc., will be resubmitted to the appearances board after design alterations have been made.

According to planning director H. Eric Borgwardt, the board decided that about 20 of the homes on Downhill building sites would visually overpower their lots by creating a mass of building without relief.

Preview Of Opera

A preview of the opera "Norma" will be presented from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. today at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, according to Ruth Alexander, chairman of the Marin Opera Action volunteers.

Sniper Attack In Marin City

A sergeant in the Marin County Sheriff's Department was cruising past apartment buildings on Cole Drive in Marin City today when gun shots rang out and two bullets struck his car.

Plea Bargain Is Thrown Out

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday threw out a plea bargain with Michael John Ontiveros, 23, of San Francisco because the man insisted he was innocent in talks with his probation officer.

Ontiveros pleaded guilty in July to two counts of passing stolen checks worth $650 at the Redwood Bank in San Rafael last year on condition he serve no more than six months in jail.

However, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner refused to fllow the arrangement and set a jury trial for the week of Nov. 6.

McCarthys Named In Death Suit

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A $500,000 suit was filed yesterday in Solano County Superior Court against former Sen. John F. McCarthy, his wife Ursula and son Christopher, 15, all of San Rafael, as the result of a three-car crash near Vallejo that killed two persons.

The suit was filed on behalf of Dr. Rolland Carter of San Rafael and Joseph Reade of Novato, the husband and son of Julie J. Carter, 47, who was killed in the Sept. 5 crash. She had taught for 22 years in Fairfax School District.

Another driver, William J. Waring, 27, of Vallejo, also died in the crash.

The complaint charged that the elder McCarthys were responsible for the actions of Christopher, who was driving with a learner's permit accompanied by his mother and two friends while headed for Lake Tahoe.

The Solano County office of the California Highway Patrol reported that young McCarthy was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Alive And Well

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) —Monoplacophorans, small sea creatures first detected in fossil deposits 500 million years old, were believed for many years to have become extinct during the Middle Devonian period, about 320 million years ago. However, in 1952 a research vessel dredged up 12 living monoplacophorans from a depth of 11,400 feet off the Costa Rican coast.

STEEL CORD BELTS — For added strength, stability, protection. Big Mileage!
POLYESTER CORD BODY — For smooth, quiet ride even at turnpike speeds.
• Steel cord belts help stabilize the tread for long mileage and provide extra strength for exceptional puncture resistance.
• Polyester cord in bias plies eliminates thumping, flatspotting — minimizes squeal, to give quiet ride.
• Distinctive high-fashion white sidewalls.
• Low profile (available in 78 and 70 series) and wide tread for traction.
• Wrap-around tread design for steering control.

Prisoner Of War Kin On Way To Hanoi

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—The mother of one POW and the wife of another left with a group of antiwar activists Thursday on the third leg of a flight to Hanoi to bring home three war prisoners whose freedom has been promised by the North Vietnamese.

The Swedish Broadcasting Corp. said it had been advised the men would return to U.S. soil Monday, Sept. 25.

"I could do with some sleep," said Mrs. Minnie Lee Gartley of Dunedin, Fla., as she walked out to the plane. Her son, Navy Lt. Mark Gartley was shot down over Hanoi Aug. 17, 1968.

"The telephone never stopped ringing at home with mothers and wives asking me to bring greetings," she said. This tragic war has certainly brought us together. Happy as I am, it will be a terrible experience to leave Hanoi with Mark knowing how many are left behind."

Sitting next to Mrs. Gartley in the airport's VIP room was Mrs. Olga Charles, 24, of San Diego. Her husband, Navy Lt. Norris Alfonso Charles was captued Dec. 30, 1971.

The wife of Maj. Edward Elias, third of the POWs whose imminent release was announced by Hanoi, was advised by her doctor not to travel.

"I'm still in a state of shock and cannot believe my husband will be free," said Mrs. Charles.

Their suitcases were packed with letters and small personal gifts.

"My biggest problem was to get all the letters and small personal gifts for other prisoners tucked into my suitcase," said Mrs. Gartley.

The group was led by U.S. antiwar activists David Dellinger, Cora Weiss and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin of Yale University.

"We hope to arrive next Saturday and will stay in Hanoi for a week," Dellinger said. Dellinger was given special court permission to travel pending appeal of his Chicago Seven convicion stemming from the 1968 Democratic convention riots Chicago.

Lagunitas School Hit By Blaze

District officials and members of the Marin County Fire Department were checking the ruins today to find the cause and the extent of damage. The school's business office said an inventory must be made of all equipment the center had checked out to the classroom, to learn how much was lost in the blaze that was reported shortly after 7:30 p.m.

Although the flames were confined to the portable building known as Room 16, there was smoke damage to books in the adjoining library room, school spokesmen said.

The amount of loss had not been calculated by midmorning.

If Onassis Can Break Dishes Why Can't Every Other Greek?

ATHENS (UPI)—Why can Aristotle Onassis smash dinner plates in restaurants with impunity while unrenowned citizens are jailed for doing the same thing? That was the question an attorney has asked.

Newspapers printed pictures of Onassis at a seaside resort with his arm around Italian actress Elsa Martinelli. The papers said he smashed "hundreds" of plates on the floor as Bouzouki singers danced, an old Greek tradition.

Except that the Greek military regime outlawed plate-smashing in 1968. "A year ago, a client of mine in Rhodes went to jail for 15 days for breaking plates," lawyer Nickolas Galeadis said. "And in the same newspaper that carried the pictures of Onassis, on another page was a story of a 25-year old housepainter who was arrested on the island of Eubea for breaking crockery."

"I have now sent full details of the Onassis case to the public prosecutor, the minister of justice, and Deputy Premier (Stylianos) Pattakos. I shall wait and see what they will do about it," Galeadis said.

He said the law against breaking plates, passed by the present government because the habit was "unbecoming to the Greek image," provided up to six months imprisonment for violators.

"But according to the law's second article, anyone making a big noise and getting a lot of publicity breaking his plates must get a minimum three-month sentence and possibly one year," the lawyer said.

"At the moment there are about 20 people in prisonon the island of Kos for such an offense," Galeadis said.

An Onassis spokesman would not comment on the matter. He said the shipping magnate was on his private island of Skorpios in the Ionian Sea at the present time, while his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, was in New York.

Coins Scatter, Jam Traffic

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Four money bags fell out of a Loomis armored truck today, scattered 4,000 silver dollars on busy Interstate 80 and caused a traffic jam.

The Highway Patrol said most of the money was recovered by Loomis personnel, patrolmen and helpful motorists. But it said several motorists took some of the money.

The Patrol said the incident occurred during the morning rush hour on the freeway northeast of Sacramento when a door of the truck sprang open and the sacks fell out. The sacks burst open, spilling the dollars.

Open Space Vote Tuesday

extension of Sao Augustine Way above Golden Hinde Boulevard where 66 townhouse units are projected.

Largest on the list of 21 parcels is the balance of Chinn Ho's lands stretching from Peacock Gap to Santa Venetia. The 1,260-acre parcel, on which no development has yet been proposed, is currently in the process of annexation to the city.

The ballot argument favoring the bond issue says zoning alone cannot preserve San Rafael's remaining open sapce. "If we are to preserve areas in their present state, they must be purchased in the public interest," says the argument, written by Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

The argument also claims there is no conflict between the city bond issue and the countywide park district proposal, which will be voted on in November.

"The city bond issue provides an emergency measure of saving areas which are in immediate danger of being developed. On the other hand, the countywide district would provide a long range program of acquiring open space both within and but mostly outside of the San Rafael city limits," according to the argument.

The council called for the special election in an effort to keep the county and city open space proposals separate, according to Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan. The San Rafael bond has a better chance of passing in a special election than it would on Nov. 7, since the ballot already contains a confusing string of initiative measures, Mulryan said.

The special election, to be run by the county, will cost the city $8,500.

No argument against the measure was submitted and there has been no organized opposition to it.

The San Rafael Open Space Committee — a citizens group urging passage of the bond issue —began organizing a grassroots campaign shortly after the city council announced plans last June for the special election.

The committee, cochaired by Mulryan, Jerry R. Russom, president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association, and Eric Eitreim, now has more than 200 members.

The committee divided the city into 23 precincts, elected precinct chairmen and for the past week has conducted a doorbell effort aimed at getting out the vote.

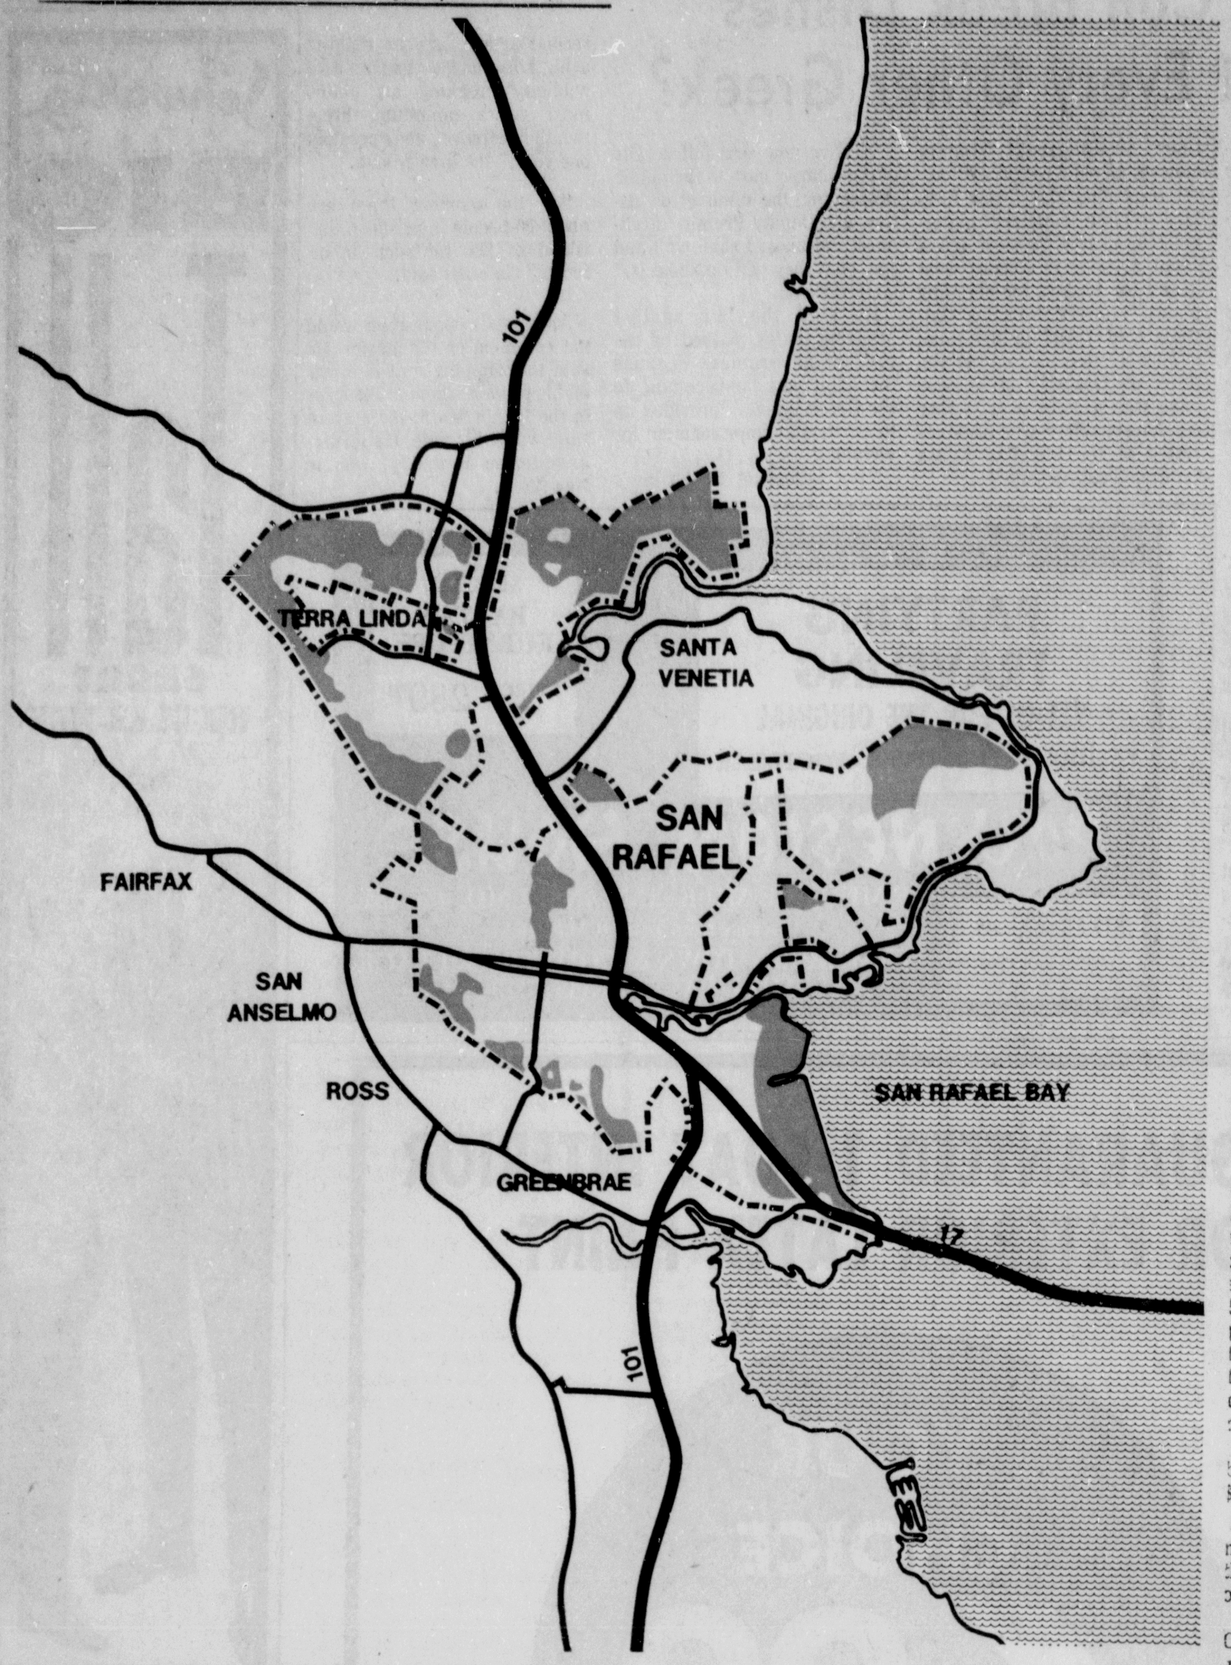
Some 20,909 residents are registered and eligible to vote in the election.

Although Terra Linda residents will not vote in the election, they will pay the 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation should the bond issue pass and the community services district be annexed to the city, according to Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

The committee will provide babysitters and carpools for voters who need them on election day, according to Russom. Residents who favor the proposal as determined through community canvassing will be phoned on Tuesday and reminded to vote, he said.

The bond issue has also been endorsed by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters, People for Parks and Open Space, about two dozen homeowners groups, Mulryan said.

Polls are open Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.



SAN RAFAEL OPEN SPACE BOND ELECTION
POTENTIAL OPEN SPACE PURCHASE SITES

OPEN SPACE — Outlined in green on this map are 3,800 acres of undeveloped and privately owned open space land in San Rafael, according to Jerry R. Russom, cochairman of the San Rafael Open Space Committee. If San Rafael's $2.25 million bond election passes Tuesday, the city council will be charged with developing a priority list of parcels to acquire from among this acreage.

ROTC Director: We Must Show Our Uniforms On Campus Again

FT. MONROE, Va. (AP) — The director of the Army's Reserve Officer Training Corps said yesterday ROTC programs must change the "low-profile attitude" adopted during antimilitary demonstrations on the nation's college campuses.

Brig. Gen. Milton E. Key told the 10th annual ROTC Conference at Continental Army Command headquarters here that ROTC enrollment has dropped drastically in the wake of the campus demonstrations.

"We must show our uniforms on campus again," he said.

Figures made public by the Army at the conference showed that the number of students enrolled in ROTC dwindled from 177,000 in 1966-67 to 50,000 in 1971-72.

Key blamed the decrease on a lessening of recruitment effort as ROTC programs came under fire from dissident campus elements and on the attitudes of college administrations which dropped compulsory ROTC.

Despite the enrollment declines, Key said, ROTC is going to "tighten up" on recruitment. He said a lowering of standards has brought too many "obese misfits" into the program.

High achievers will avoid ROTC if it continues to accept substandard recruits, the general said.

Gen. Ralph Haines, commanding general of the Continental Army Command CONARC, told the conference that ROTC "for the indefinite future will provide us with the largest part of our officer corps."

He indicated concern over the prospect of an all-volunteer army. Without draft pressure, Haines said, the military may have difficulty attracting college graduates into its officer training programs.

Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, president of Eastern Michigan University, said the decline in ROTC enrollment will be costly to the military's officer corps.

The Army gets 20 times more officers from ROTC than can be produced by the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, and 35 per cent of all Air Force officers and half of those in the Navy are ROTC graduates, the educator said.

Class Of '32 Will Reunite

A search still is on to find members of the San Rafael High School class of Christmas 1932.

According to reunion cochairman, Angelo Turrini, about half the 26-member class has been located.

A reunion — cocktails, dinner and dancing — is scheduled for 8 p.m. Dec. 23 at Dominic's restaurant, San Rafael.

Class members are asked to get in touch with Turrini of San Rafael, Edwin Garcia of Kentfield, or Henry Catala, also of San Rafael.

Tribal Warriors Are Sought By Police

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (UPI)—More than 200 riot police today searched the rugged western highlands of New Guinea for 6,000 tribal warriors who fought each other with spears, axes and bows and arrows.

Three natives were killed in the clashes early this week between heavily armed traditional enemies, the Jiga clan and the Yamuga clan, a police spokesman said.

The fighting broke out in the Classroom Enrollment Dips In Marin

Opening day enrollment in Marin County public schools was 51,322, down 413 from last year, reports to the county superintendent's office from school districts show.

The decline was despite an enrollment gain of 609 at College of Marin over its opening day in 1971. Below the junior college level, the drop from last year was 1,022.

High school enrollments were up slightly, with declines increasing grade-by-grade below the ninth. Supt. James G. Bunker of Novato Unified School District reported only about 720 enrolled in kindergarten compared to 980 in sixth grade.

Of the 16 elementary school districts, 10 reported lower enrollment than on last year's opening.

Sausalito School District, however, reversed a longtime trend with opening enrollment of 496, up 45 from a year ago. Sausalito school enrollment had been declining steadily since the 1962-63 school year, when average daily attendance was 1,123.

Also bucking the trend were Bolinas-Stinson School District, with a gain of 14 over last year; Laguna, up by one; Lagunitas, up three; Nicasio, up five, and Ross, up 31.

All superintendents report they expect the rolls to increase slightly by Monday, with some pupils entering late.

District-by-district, here are the opening day enrollments as reported to County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis, with the figure for last year in parentheses:

ELEMENTARY DISTRICTS — Bolinas,-Stinson 210 (196), Dixie 4,117 (4,354), Fairfax 957 (1,042), Kentfield 1,273 (1,303), Laguna 18 (17), Lagunitas 473 (470), Larkspur 1,478 (1,555), Lincoln 12 (15), Mill Valley 3,403 (3,454), Nicasio 53 (48), Reed 1,835 (1,876), Ross 491 (462), San Anselmo 1,839 (2,023), San Rafael 4,199 (4,444), Sausalito 496 (451), Union 9 (17).

HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICTS — San Rafael 4,146 (4,062), Tamalpais 6,137 (6,-114).

A breakdown in the unified districts shows Novato with 6,061 in elementary schools (kindergarten-sixth grade), down from 6,399 last year; 2.669 in junior high (seventh-to-ninth), down from 2,716 last year, and 2,465 in senior high, up from 2,368. The remainder were in special classes.

In Shoreline, elementary schools (kindergarten-to-eighth grade) dropped to 639 from 668 last year, high school gained to 263 from 258.

Opening day enrollment at College of Marin was 7,271, up from 6,662 a year ago.

Special schools operated by the county schools office enrolled 739 at this year's opening, up from 572 a year earlier.

Pipeline Application Reprieved By Board

The Marin Municipal Water District board yesterday voted against installing pipelines to the proposed Meadowsweet Development in Corte Madera, but then reconsidered the split vote moments before adjournment and decided to continue the application.

The directors decided to postpone their vote on the pipeline application rather than influence the Corte Madera Planning Commission which was scheduled to review the controversial development's final subdivision maps last night.

Before it reconsidered, the water board turned down the application for a pipeline extension to the proposed 128-unit development called Madera Del Presidio by a 2-2 vote, with one abstention.

Directors Jack R. Felson and Dr. Ronald T. Stafford, who have consistently opposed new hookups during what they consider to be a water shortage, voted against the application.

Board President Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. and John MacPhail Jr. voted for the new water service, saying the water board should not involve itself in planning decisions.

Eugene Miller abstained from voting and the motion died without a majority. Miller later said he abstained because his soils engineering firm of Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates of San Rafael, had worked at the Meadowsweet site.

Before its initial vote, the board heard a letter from Corte Madera Councilman Robert J. Flahive which opposed the pipeline application. Flahive asked the board to delay its decision until Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson issues a ruling tomorrow on the validity of the development's master plan.

Flahive's letter also asked for a delay because the Corte Madera Planning Commission hadn't ruled on the final map; the city recently passed a moratorium on all large developments and the question of a school site for Madera Del Presidio children remains unresolved.

After brief statements by Mrs. Flahive and a spokesman for the developers, Cal-West Communities Inc., the board denied the application.

About 90 minutes later, as the board was about to adjourn, Felson breathed new life into the application by asking for a reconsideration.

Though he opposed the new water service, Felson said he did not want to handicap the developer in his appearance before the planning commission a few hours later.

Martinelli agreed, saying the water district might otherwise be liable to a damaging law suit brought by the developers. The board then voted 4-0 to wipe out its rejection and continue the pipeline application. Again Miller abstained.

Water Board To Seek Aid For Children's Playground

The Marin Municipal Water District board yesterday decided to seek financial assistance from the town of Corte Madera and a local homeowners association for the construction of a children's playground near its San Clemente water tank in Mariner Highlands.

After reviewing elaborate landscaping plans for the tot lot, the water board flinched at the idea of paying the entire $7,000 price tag.

Director John Mac Phail Jr. objected to the price and the propriety of a water district spending money for playgrounds.

Jack R. Felson said people in Marin are coming to expect public agencies to involve themselves in several different areas. He said the park would make a good joint project with the city and a homeowners group.

The board decided to accept the architectural renderings — which include benches, trees, play equipment and a play area — and instructed its staff to seek cooperation from Corte Madera and the homeowners.

The Marin Municipal Water District Board also:

TRAINING — Agreed to pay incidental costs from sending four water treatment plant operators to tuition-free training classes in Berkeley.

NICASIO SCHOOL — Continued a proposal to sell three acres of water district land to the Nicasio School District in return for $1.000 and the right to flood a portion of the land in the event the district builds up the Nicasio Dam.

RESTORATION — Appropriated $996 to pay Cagwin and Dorward to spray seed the land fills along the recently installed Fairfax transmission line project.

PUMP STATION — Awarded a contract to the Underground Construction Co., on a time and material basis, to complete phase one of the Lagunitas Booster Station by Oct. 15. Because time is short, the board decided to split the large construction job into two phases and award both contracts on a time and materials basis.

AIR BASE — Decided to send Hamilton Air Force Base a letter which will indicate the district's preference to treat the air base like a regular customer, rather than on a special contract. A regular application for service will accompany a letter which will explain that the air base's existing contract terminates Oct. 1.

STUDY — Authorized $20,000 for phase two of a water resources management study being prepared by Cornell, Howland, Hayes, and Merryfield, Clair A. Hill Associates. Phase two will be a study of the water needs and supplies of the water district.

WATER MAINS — Awarded a contract to Maggiora and Ghilotti for $125,236 to rehabilitate several water mains in the Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley area.

ASBESTOS — Awarded a contract to Johns-Manville Sales Corporation for $49,-217.07 for asbestos cement water pipes.

School Board Must Pay For Withholding Candidates' Names

Ruling that the Marin County Board of Education acted arbitrarily and capriciously by withholding the names of candidates for a board vacancy, a Marin judge yesterday ordered the board to pay the attorney's fee for a suit against the board.

Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick said the board must pay Sausalito attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund $500 and court costs for the suit he filed asking the court to order the release of the names of those who applied for a vacant board seat.

The suit was filed July 24 on behalf of Pieter Toal, former member of the San Anselmo School Board, and the county board 15 days later released the names of four Novato residents who had applied for the seat vacated by William L. Sisk in late May.

The board and Supt. Virgil S. Hollis had refused to release the names of Dewey W. Roberts, Alice Price, Raleigh Floyd and William J. Smith, saying they were pledged anonymity.

The board's stand ignored the opinion of the county counsel, who recommended turning over the names.

Bjorklund's request was based on a new section of state law providing for such compensation if a governmental agency brings a lawsuit on itself by "arbitrary and capricious" action.

Broderick said the county board's action met that qualification. "No excuse was tendered for their actions," he said.

In Toal's suit, Bjorklund said that after seeking the advice of the county counsel, "receiving it, and then wilfully ignoring it, forcing upon a member of the public the obligation and expense of formal legal proceedings to enforce a public right is capriciousness of the worst kind."

The board's secrecy policy had been in effect uince 1956.

Madera Del Presidio Decision Is Delayed

Design approval for the first 128 units of the controversial Madera del Presidio development hung fire last night when the Corte Madera Planning Commission coninued the design application to its Oct. 10 meeting.

Commissioners asked the developers, Cal West Properties, for specifics on street and garden lighting, and were unhappy with asbestos shingles selected for roofs of the townhouses.

Commissioner David Freed today said the continuation was "not in any sense a delaying tactic," although he said a large delegation of opponents to the development asked for a delay.

The opponents cited the lack of a designated school site, no certainty of water hookup and no formal open space element in Corte Madera's general plan, Freed said, "but these were not germane to design review."

Madera del Presidio was before the Corte Madera Board of Design Review at least half a dozen times in the past few months before getting that board's approval, and once before the planners on Monday.

Public Works Director Arthur N. Morrison said the design approval is the last public hearing before construction starts. All that's necessary once that is given is a building permit.

The 500-plus-unit development — which has led to more controversy than Corte Madera has ever seen — already has been given approval for a tentative master plan for planned unit development, and a tentative map for unit 1, plus a grading permit.

Next Monday night, the Corte Mader Town Council is slated to consider a letter from the Mill Valley School District regarding a school for the Madera del Presidio children.

In the letter, trustee Joseph E. Bodovitz stated the Mill Valley district doesn't want to build a school in the area and cannot guarantee bus service for children to its school at Strawberry Point.

Bodovitz suggested his district and the town formally notify would-be purchasers of the homes of the crouded school situation.

Highway Work Is Announced

Projects in progress on Highway 101 that will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. Northbound at the south end of the Waldo Grade, various lanes will be closed between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. for pavement marking.

2. Southbound on the Waldo Grade, lanes 1 and 2 will be closed for preparatory work on bus lanes, 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

3. Richardson Bay Bridge, all three northbound lanes will be closed one at a time up to 3 p.m. for paving at the south end of the span.

4. Corte Madera, northbound, inside lane will be closed 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for repair of damaged guard rail, south of California Park Hill.

5. Greenbrae, southbound outside lane will be closed for one-half mile north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard all day, for slide removal.

Teamsters Union Leader Indicted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Jose Teamsters Union official has been indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of embezzling $3,500 from his union's credit union.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jerry K. Cimmet said Wednesday's indictment involved 12 fictitious loans from March through July, 1970, when Jack Herrmann, 55, was treasurer of the Credit Union of Teamsters Local 287 of San Jose.

Herrmann later became the local's business agent.

Cimmet asserted there were about 30 fictitious loans totaling about $25,000 and because of the loss the credit union was now in the hands of a liquidator.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Sir:

Will you please help to settle an argument? My neighbor was watching the Olympic Games on TV when the announcer said two American track stars were disqualified for being late to their preliminary races. My friend was plenty mad. I tried to convince him that our entire U.S. team darn near missed the Olympic Games completely because of a mixup in dates back in the old days. I think it had to do with a difference in calendars, something you wrote about recently. Do you know the story? Signed: Sports Fan

Dear Fan:

Tell your neighbor we goofed the first year the Olympics were held in modern times! That was 1896. The place was Athens, Greece. And the reason for our near-miss was the unbelievable ignorance of our American coaches and organizers. Nobody on the U.S. Olympic team had realized that Greece was still using the old Julian Calendar, while we were on the Gregorian. Thus our team took 17 leisurely days going from New York to Greece on a steamer. They planned on having 12 extra days to practice and warm up after arriving. But what a surprise they got on landing to learn the Olympics were about to begin. A 12-day difference between the calendars nearly cost us all the medals! We just weren't so lucky 76 years later.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Best Way To Cure A Nagger— Stuff Old Socks In His Mouth

The best way to cure your bridge partner of nagging is by affection, understanding, tolerance and stuffing a pair of old socks in his mouth. When the millennium comes (in a trifle more than 27 years), your partner won't have to nag because you'll bid and play each hand to absolute perfection. While waiting for this happy day, practice on today's hand.

PLAY LOW

West opens the ten of hearts, and you play low from the dummy. West continues with another heart, and you ruff with the deuce of spades. You expect to lose a diamond and a trump in addition to the heart already lost, but the hand will not play itself without a little help from you.

If you draw two rounds of trumps and then lead a diamond to dummy's king, East will take the ace of diamonds and lead a third trump. Now you have no way to dispose of your third diamond.

If you lead a diamond to dummy's king before drawing two rounds of trumps, East wins with the ace of diamonds and leads a high heart. Now the defenders get two trump tricks.

DON'T LOOK FOR SOCKS

Should you look for a pair of old socks? Not at all. You can play the hand perfectly, giving your partner no reason to nag.

After ruffing the second heart, take the ace and king of spades. Then lead dummy's low diamond. East must play low, and you win with the queen.

Lead your low club to dummy's ten and ruff one of dummy's hearts. Lead the jack of clubs to dummy's king, and ruff dummy's last heart with your last trump. Now proceed with the clubs.

DEFENSIVE TRICKS

East can take his jack of trumps whenever he likes, but that and the ace of diamonds are the only defensive tricks. Dummy regains the lead with the last trump to cash the last club.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, opens with one spade.

You hold:
♠ - K 7 3
♥ - Q 8 6 2
♦ - K 4
♣ - K 10 6 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

If partner can bid of his own free will, you will bid with gusto. If he cannot bid voluntarily, your side cannot make a game. Stay out of trouble in case partner has a poor hand.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

MS Is One Of Most Prevalent Disorders Of The Nerve System

Multiple sclerosis (MS) is one of the most prevalent nervous system disorders. The causative agent, whatever it is, nips away willynilly at the outer sheath (myelin) of the nerve fibers that run from the top of the brain to the bottom of the spinal cord. When this protective covering is destroyed, the nerve is damaged temporarily or permanently and the transmission of impulses is disrupted.

There are millions of nerve fibers in the central nervous system and the manifestations of MS depend on the location and the number of affected fibers. Little wonder that no two patients with MS have the same initial symptoms.

THE AGE AT which symptoms are apt to develop roughly parallels the child-bearing period. First attacks often follow an acute infection, trauma, vaccination, or pregnancy. It is questionable whether these conditions play a causative role.

Many victims complain of numbness, tingling, or coldness in one extremity. These sensations may shift from one extremity to another. A number of sufferers have a feeling of heaviness (or deadness) in the legs or in one arm. Loss of vision in one or both eyes and, occasionally, double vision may ensue. Transient paralysis, weakness, or awkwardness of the limbs also develops. Painful muscle spasms and loss of urinary or bowel control may be troublesome.

AT THE OUTSET, one or two of these symptoms may exist, but they often subside spontaneously. For example, there may be weakness in one or both legs or impaired vision in one eye. Generally, these disappear only to return months later with additional involvement. Certain defects persist, leading ultimately to complete disability. Mood disturbances (usually euphoria) also are seen, although some victims become depressed.

No specific tests demonstrate MS. Diagnosis rests on the varied and unpredictable manifestations. Symptoms are treated as they develop.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

AGE OF PHOTO

Mrs. M. G. writes: This is far from a medical question, but it has our yoga class in an uproar. Mrs. L. claims that the small picture of you at the top of the column is an oldie. Several other ladies in the group disagree. Personally, I'm on the fence, since I really don't know. If it is not against your policy, can you tell us if the photograph is new or old?

REPLY

X-RAYS AND FISH BONE

W. writes: If a person swallows a fish bone and it sticks to the throat, would it show up on X-ray?

REPLY

Bones usually show up under X-ray, but often can be seen by direct examination.

BEER SPRAY

I. K. writes: I spray beer on my hair every day to keep it in place. Is this harmful?

REPLY

No. As a matter of fact, some girls use beer to set their hair. It is supposed to be very effective for this purpose.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, light air pollution.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

$12 Million Sought To Boost Cal Expo

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The general manager of the California State Fair and Exposition says fair officials will ask the legislature for $12 million to restore the fair to its original concept of a year-round event.

"We have a new plan—a plan to expand and to take the monkey off the taxpayer's back," said General Manager Thomas Bair. "I think we will get the legislature's blessing."

Attendance for the 20-day fair, which closed Wednesday, totaled 932,561, surpassing last year's figure of 893,737.

Bair said the Cal Expo executive committee is proposing the five-year plan to make the fair a year-round exposition and entertainment center again. Such a program was tried in 1968 but it was a financial flop.

Two months ago the executive committee proposed establishment of a large garden area, children's playground and zoo and a permanent amusement park, some of the same ideas shelved five years ago.

"We've reached the stage now," Bair said, "where most people think we have an expensive plant on our hands and maybe we ought to be doing something more. A dog show and a religious revival here and there and a 20-day fair are not enough."

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown, D-Oakland, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, said he believes the legislature "probably" will provide more funds for Cal Expo and "elevate its use."

Brown said the lawmakers likely will act favorably on the proposal rather than allow Cal Expo to be an abandoned facility for most of the year.

Apathy Toward Military At A High Point—General

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "National apathy" toward the military has reached its greatest level at a time when the "potential threat to our survival has never been greater," an Air Force general told the National Guard Association yesterday.

Public support of the military always rises and falls in times of peril and peace, Gen. Seth J. McKee of the North American Air Defense Command told 1,100 delegates to the association's 94th congress.

"Our present national apathy, however, represents a departure from the regularpattern," he said.

"While we are still very actively engaged in a shooting war, and at a time when the known potential threat to our national survival has never been greater, we find ourselves at the very bottom of the curve," McKee said.

He suggested there might be less apathy if Americans were reminded of the historic fate of other powerful nations. He cited ancient Greece and Rome and the empires of Spain and Portugal.

Citing critics who term the U.S. "imperialist," McKee said that in the past quarter century of world dominance, the U.S. has not added "one inch of territory to the national boundaries of our nation at the expense of another nation."

In the same period, he said, former Western colonial powers granted independence to more than 1.1 billion persons while the Soviet Union has "brought under varying degrees of subjugation over 100 million people."

RED-FACED RUSSIA

Embarrassment Over Olympics

By PAUL WOHL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Moscow's embarrassment over the Arab guerrilla killing of Israeli athletes in Munich has been deepened by the reactions of both its own citizens and its Eastern European colleagues.

It was one of those rare occasions when overwhelming personal reactions have exposed — briefly — a gulf between Communist sympathies and Communist policy.

On-the-spot observers report that privately even highly placed Russians have expressed embarrassment and indignation.

A number of Russian citizens, mostly Jews, protested publicly, despite official denial of a request from several of them for permission to do so.

Andrei D. Sakharov, the "father of the Soviet H-bomb" and chairman of the private Civil Rights Committee, joined some 30 men and women in a street demonstration in which all were detained briefly by Moscow police. It may have been the first time that Professor Sakharov has chosen to demonstrate in the street.

Most East European Communist-ruled countries at least made it unmistakeably clear in their initial reactions that "acts of terror and violence against innocent people are unacceptable in a civilized world" — words actually spoken by George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Through all this, however, the Soviet government itself has been forced to keep an embarrassed silence about the affair. Editorially, neither the official Soviet News Agency nor any newspaper has condemned the incident.

Only the Soviet sports committee's representative on the Olympic Committee expressed sympathy.

Soviet newspapers, which had covered the games rather fully, carried the communique of the president of the Olympic Committee, an announcement that the games had been interrupted, and extracts from West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's message to Arab heads of state.

The problem for the Kremlin is the highly delicate nature of its policy toward the Middle East, compounded as it is by the currently strained Soviet-Egyptian relations. So despite their embarrassment, the Russians are unlikely to say anything thatwould that would the Arabs.

As might have been expected, the outburst of protest in Eastern Europe ended quickly, and most reports in Communist-bloc countires, with the exception of East Germany, were brought into line with he more restrained Russian stance.

East Germany had been especially outspoken in its condemnation. Neues Deutschland carried Sept. 6 a front-page headline referring to 'Worldwide Indignation over the Brutal Crime.'

In bold type, a front-page communique stated that "official circles in the capital of the German Democratic Republic condemn in the strongest terms this disgusting crime and reject terror as a means of attaining political aims."

An editorial expressed "abomination and loathing" and called the crimes committed in the Olympic village "horrible and senseless."

The East German athletes,together with Poles and Hungarians, attended the service for the fictims, which was fully carried by East German television.

Soviet television of Sept. 6, in contrast, showed only a few pictures of the service and of the final scenes at the airport. Soviet athletes were absent from the service.

East Germany's continued unadulterated denunciation of the Palestine terrorists is said to be motivated by inside information in the possession of East German intelligence, according to which Arab terrorists are linked with underground Nazi elements in West Germany.

Other East European reports were hardly less blunt at first than those in East Germany.

According to Radio Budapest on Sept. 5, the Munich attack has lowered the Palestinian movement to "the level of banditism." Radio Warsaw on the same day spoke of "an insane act condemned by the entire world." Bucharest and Belgrade referred to the tragedy in similar terms.

Only Radio Prague spoke of "a shooting-out" without mentioning that Palestinian terrorists had been involved. Prague's colorless reaction may have been influenced by the fact that earlier 13 Czechoslovak "spectators" had asked for asylum in West Germany.

Korea Lashed By Heavy Rainstorm

SEOUL (UPI)—A heavy rainstorm hit the southern part of the Korean peninsula today causing a heavy toll of lives and widespread floodings, police reported.

Police confirmed 21 persons killed, 32 injured and seven missing. More than 1,000 houses were flooded.

The rain, which reached six inches in less than 20 hours, disrupted traffic and communication ervices in the region. A vast area of rice paddies was washed away, police said.

The southern port city of Pusan, which was hit hardest, reported 15 persons killed and 23 others injured.

Chilena Valley School Is Opened

Laguna Joint School in Chileno Valley has opened its 1972-73 school year with 19 pupils and a new teacher, Barbara Armington of San Rafael.

Trustee Donald J. Moreda reported after Tuesday night's board meeting that enrollment was up six pupils from last year. Mrs. Armington was hired at a salary of $7,800 a year.

WORD-A-DAY

New Radio Program To Be Replayed

The first program in radio station KTIM's new weekly series on city and county government will be rebroadcast at 9 a.m. Sunday according to Robert Dinsmore, station manager.

The hour-long panel discussion first aired on Tuesday featured officials from Belvedere, Mill Valley, San Rafael, Sausalito and Tiburon. They discussed a variety of topics ranging from Sausalito's life-style to San Rafael's quest for open sapce, and answered calls from listeners.

Next week's live broadcast at 9 a.m. Tuesday will feature speakers from Corte Madera, Fairfax, Larkspur, Novato and San Anselmo. County supervisors and other county officials are scheduled as panelists for the Sept. 26 broadcast.

Dinsmore, who moderates the broadcasts, said public officials will be encouraged to discuss each agency's unique problems as well as those common to all the cities and the county, stressing problems other than those on routine council or board agendas. The city and county speakers will be rotated on a regular basis.

Bill Would Aid Food Programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has received from Congress a bill that would increase federal aid for school lunch, breakfast and summer nutrition programs.

The Senate passed the measure on a voice vote Wednesday after the House approved it by a 378-0 vote.

It would raise to eight cents from six cents the federal subsidy for school lunches. This would cost an additional $85 million a year.

Breakthrough May Aid Birth Control

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)— After six years of painstaking research, a biochemist has made a breakthrough essential to understanding the role that hormones play in human reproduction—a discovery that could lead to safer birth control methods.

Dr. O.P. Bahl, a professor of biochemistry in the state university of New York's School of Medicine at Buffalo, has successfully analyzed the 231 amino acids and 55 sugar compounds of human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), a hormone created by the placenta of pregnant women which aids the development of the fetus.

The discovery is important, according to Bahl, not only because it provides a key to the successful analyzing of other complex human hormones—but because it also could lead to better, safer methods of birth control.

Essentially, Bahl said, HCG is very similar in its effects to one of two hormones, produced by the pituitary gland, that trigger ovulation in human females.

Thus, although HCG is produced in the human female after conception, its similarity to the pituitary's lutinizing hormone (LH) makes its analysis vital to any understanding of the way hormones control ovulation. Ovulation is the releasing of an egg by the ovaries, the first step toward conception.

LH, however, is extremely hard to obtain.

"You need 30,000 to 40,000 human pituitaries in order to do any kind of chemical analysis," Bahl said.

This is where HCG—an easily obtainable substitute for LH—comes in. Large amounts of the hormone are passed out in the urine of pregnant women, Bahl said.

"HCG and LH have similar functions, and we're hoping they have similar structures," he said.

HCG or LH possibly may be synthesized in the coming decade, Bahl said, but this alone will not provide any new methods of fertility control.

"You could use them in cattle, where you need more animals, but in humans you need something that could act as an antihormone."

It is in this area that Bahl's future research may provide an answer.

"The next thing we will deal with is the mechanism of altering the action of the hormone."

By "selectively modifying" the parts of the giant molecule which affect the reproductive process, Bahl said, it may be possible to create a "neutral" version of the hormone, which would act like the natural hormone in every respect except that it would not trigger ovulation.

Twist Is Added To Water Skiing: Money

Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma will be trying to make it three-for-three this weekend at the third annual California International Cup water ski tournament at Berkeley's Aquaticark, but there is a major difference this time around.

For winning the first two overall men's titles Mike, a 22-year-old who grew up in San Anselmo, won himself some trophies and plaques. That's fine, but for someone who has won the world water ski title four times and hundreds of other crowns along the way, a trophy is a trophy is a . . .

MIKE SUYDERHOUD

This time Mike will be going for a large chunk of a $15,000 prize fund, by far the largest purse ever for a water ski meet. Although he will be going against the best skiers in the world, Mike is one of the few skiers entered who would have a chance of sweeping all three divisions, jumping, slalom and tricks.

If he did such a thing it would be worth $4,000.

While practicing yesterday, Mike said he felt better, physically and mentally, than he has for some time. A partial tear of ligaments in his left knee has slowed him down the past couple of months but he's ready to go now.

"I feel as good as new," he said during a break in the practice at Aquatic Park. "I hope to do well. I feel that I'm really ready."

Mention of his chances of a sweep brings a smile to the mustachioed Suyderhoud. "These other guys are awfully good so it would be very difficult for that." First prize for overall is $1,000. First in each of the individual events is also $1,000.

Although Mike wasn't there, some of the other top U.S. skiers performed in Munich during the Olympics as a trial sport. "It will be a trial sport in Montreal for the '76 Olympics and I think by 1980 it's possible that water skiing will be an Olympic sport. It deserves to be in the Olympics since it's such a popular sport throughout the world."

Mike is one of two sport figures currently in the big league class who were reared in San Anselmo. The other is Montreal Expos' catcher-first baseman John Boccabella. The two met for the first time a few days ago.

"I was in Montreal for the Champion of the Americas tourney in August and the Expos were playing the Cincinnati Reds," Suyderhoud said. "I went to one of the games and before it started I went over by the Expo bullpen and talked to him. That was the first time we had ever met."

One of the young stars of the water ski set who will be challenging Suyderhoud is Bob La Point, 17, of Novato, national boys' slalom champ. So will Bob's brother, Kris, of Castro Valley. Trying to win a spot in the field by qualifying today was Thelma Salmas, 36, of Novato, oldest competitor in the trials who is determined to show the kids that water skiing is not just for the young. Also among those scheduled in the trials was Mike McGinley, 17, of Novato.

The youngest who is going to steal the hearts of spectators is Carlos Luis Simonet, a 13-year-old from Caracas, Venezuela. The little guy looks even younger but I'm told he's a sensation in trick skiing. In all, there will be skiers from seven foreign countries competing.

Saturday's action begins at 9 a.m. and Sunday's at 11 a.m. Tickets will be sold at the gate, $3 either day or $5 for both.

A's Odom Is Ready To Aid Flag Drive

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Right-hander John Odom is ready to aid the Oakland Athletics in the stretch drive for their second straight American League West title.

The hard-throwing pitcher shut out the Minnesota Twins on six singles 8-0 Wednesday night. He improved his record to 14-5 with the route-going performance.

The win enabled the A's to pick up a game on the second-place Chicago White Sox who lost to Kansas City and now trail Oakland by three games.

Oakland scored in bunches against the Twins—five runs in the sixth inning and three more in the ninth to gain an even split in the four-game series.

After Twins rookie Dave Goltz set the A's down on one hit in the first five innings, Oakland scored five times on four hits, two walks, a balk and an error.

Matty Alou knocked in the first run with a soft single to right after Bert Campaneris had singled up the middle and moved to second on a sacrifice by Joe Rudi. Reggie Jackson then singled to left and Mike Epstein walked, loading the bases. Goltz balked, forcing in Alou from third. Another walk again loaded the bases.

Pinch-hitter Gonsalo Marquez got an infield single to score the third run, and two more scored when Rod Carew threw wild past first, trying to retire Marquez.

Today is an open day for the A's who return home for a long 12-game stand.

Fox, Giants Closing In On 4th Spot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— There is precious little for the San Francisco Giants to salvage this season but Manager Charlie Fox will get what he can.

"We'll still try and catch Atlanta," Fox said after the Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-1 Wednesday night to pull within two games of the fourth place Braves in the National League West.

"We'll use the same lineup against Atlanta as we did against the Dodgers," Fox added. That lineup pounded out 10 hits including three doubles and a triple to whip Los Angeles.

It made it easy for pitcher Jim Barr to pick up his seventh victory. Barr was a last-minute replacement for Sam McDowell, who hurt a finger on his pitching hand.

"It was time for me to pitch anyway," Barr said. "I had my regular rest. It just wasn't my turn."

Barr gave up five hits and struck out five. He did not walk a batter. "I hate to walk batters," he said. "There's no defense against a walk. When you make the batter hit the ball, you have eight other people to help you."

Barr lost his shutout when Bobby Valentine homered in the eighth.

The Giants didn't waste any time scoring. They got single

Banaszek Recovered For 49ers

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Offensive tackle Cas Banaszek is sufficiently recovered from preseason injuries to play in the San Francisco 49ers opening season game against San Diego Sunday, 49ers officials say.

Meanwhile, two rookies, offensive guard Edgar Hardy of Jackson State and linebacker Marty Huff of Michigan signed taxi squad contracts after clearing waivers Wednesday, the club said.

Coach Dick Nolan also raised the possibility that Doug Cunningham might be reactived for the Chargers game, depending on the condition of Vic Washington, who sat out last week with a sprained ankle.

Cunningham had offseason knee surgery and has not played in any of the 49ers six preseason games.

GETTING KICKS AT NOVATO HIGH

Probe In Grid Hall Activities

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York attorney general's office Wednesday confirmed a published report that it has been investigating possible fraudalent activities on the part of the National Football Foundation.

A story, published Wednesday in the Wall Street Journal, said that the National Football Foundation has raised over $5 million during the past two decades through donations from various institutions and individuals but has a net worth right now of only $2 million and has yet to begin construction on the Hall of Fame.

The frauds bureau is trying to find out what has happened to the money collected and why the foundation has failed to launch its project.

As originally conceived, the Hall of Fame was to be constructed on the campus of Rutgers University at New Brunswick, N.J., the site of the first collegiate football game. A ground-breaking ceremony was held in 1966 but as yet no construction there.

Recently, the foundation purchased a 65-room former private home on 80th street in New York City and has said it will install the Hall of Fame there. The reason for the switch in locations, the foundation said, is due to increased building costs at Rutgers and the fact that they now have less than $2 million to spend. It is estimated that to build the Hall of Fame now at Rutgers would cost $5.5 million as compared to $1 million 20 years ago.

Raiders Count On Sistrunk To Bolster Defense

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI)— Otis Sistrunk may not make Oakland Raider fans forget Ben Davidson, but, then again, he might.

The big defensive lineman out of Georgia never went to college, yet he is being counted upon to shore up the Raiders' defense this season. And Tommy Prothro, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams, had to practically beg the Raiders to take him.

"Prothro called us up and said he wasn't going to be able to keep Sistrunk and he knew we liked him," said Raiders Coach John Madden.

$20,000 PROJECT

San Rafael Grid Field Work Done

In order to "reduce and prevent crowd control problems," approximately $20,000 worth of renovations have been made at San Rafael High School's football field, including the erection of fencing, placement of additional lighting, and creation of a five-man supervisory group.

Moreover, three separate entrances have been assigned to prevent mixing of fans from rival schools.

"We want to reduce and prevent some incidents which have occurred in the past and may occur again in the future," said Dr. John Plank, superintendent of schools.

San Rafael's field is the only one in Marin County equipped to handle night football. Reports of scattered crowd violence circulated last season.

The measures include:

Additional perimeter fencing, most visibly on the north (Mission Street) side of the stadium, restricting fan access to the playing field and the rival fans' stands;

Security floodlights illuminating the areas behind the stands, already erected, and additional

NOVATO FOOTBALL

Scott Optimistic About Chances

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Second in a series on Marin County Athletic League football prospects.)

The list of football players who were graduated from Novato High School last spring reads like a Who's Who in Marin County football. And yet, Al Scott is smiling.

Scott is the head coach, and he fully expects his Hornets to contend again for the Marin County Athletic League championship which they shared last year with San Rafael at 5-1.

"We realize we have graduated some fine football players, but we feel we can fill their positions," Scott says.

Chief among the graduated stars was all-league quarterback Marty Moroski. Replacing him is Tom Conklin, last year a starting safety "who has been throwing the ball exceptionally well in practice." Conklin won a duel with Chris De Recat for the starting job.

He will have good targets. Joe Powell started at wide receiver last year, and Joe Robinson saw a good deal of action. Chuck Dupius has earned the other wide receiver job. All are seniors. Junior Ken Straw has inherited the tight end task from his all-league brother Greg, and senior Gary Lash is a capable backup.

"We will have a pretty well balanced offense, using the information and the pro set," said Scott. "We won't have the power to run over some people, so we'll mix it up."

Juniors Mark Lipe and Ken Ferrari will start at fullback and tailback, respectively. Ferrari weighs only 140 pounds, but is "a tough little nut," in Scott's words.

The defense currently is a question mark, but Scott is confident it will turn into an exclamation point by season's end.

"We may not have one or two outstanding indiviudals in the line like we did last year (i.e., all-leaguer Russ Weklych), but we will have a good group. The secondary has had some trouble, but it's made tremendous improvement, and the potential definitely is there."

All told, Novato has 14 lettermen returning, and 24 other spots on the roster filled by relatively inexperienced players. The Hornets host tough Riordan of San Francisco Saturday at 1 p.m. in their season opener, and begin league play against experienced Terra Linda Sept. 30.

lighting for the field itself, expected within two weeks;

Additional stands, raising the seating capacity by approximately 600 to about 4,000 expected to be erected on the visitors' (east) side by Oct. 1; and

A special cadre of five unarmed, green-coated stadium officials who will function as a "management group," supervising the activities of other officials. The cadre will be headed by stadium manager Victor Holewinske and will be responsible to Don Leisey, director of administrative services of the school district.

In addition, 8-10 armed policemen will be present at each game, Plank said.

The $15,000 for the improvements came from tax funds allocated to the district. An additional $4,500 was raised by "student clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations and interested citizens," and was used to refurbish the existing bleachers, Plank said.

Fans of the home team have been assigned an entrance and ticket booth off Third Street, and will sit in the west stands. Visitors' fans will buy tickets and enter by the gymnasium on Mission Street, and will sit in the east stands. Students from the home school will enter the west stands through the campus between the music and classroom buildings.

No spectators will be permitted to enter at other than the specified entrances, Plank said. "The idea is to keep the two groups of fans separate."

In addition, no elementary pupils will be allowed to enter unless they are accompanied by a responsible adult. "Responsible means they keep control of the youngster so he doesn't run around loose," said Plank. "There is no objection to an older brother or sister accompanying the child, as long as the child is adequately supervised."

Veale, Howard May Key 1st Place Race

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A couple of guys who spent most of the season toiling with the Texas Rangers and the Charleston Charlies may turn out to hold the key to the tangled American League Eastern Division pennant race.

Bob Veale, who was with Charleston from May 11 until Sept. 1 when the Red Sox purchased his contract, pitched 2 2-3 innings of perfect relief Wednesday night to save Boston's 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees and keep the the Red Sox in first place.

Frank Howard, who was purchased from Texas on Sept. 1 by Detroit, drove in four runs with a double and a three-run homer as the Tigers came back from a 5-1 deficit to edge the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and move into second place a game back.

VEALE

Veale's major league career seemed over on May 11 when Pittsburgh cut him and no other big league club was willing to sign him. "I contacted a few teams but they were all like the Pirates," Veale said, "they wanted to go with younger guys."

So, Veale, who'll be 37 on Oct. 28, signed a contract with Charleston of the International League and pitched with the Charlies until Boston decided to take a chance on him. "Our people told us they thought he could help us," Boston Manager Eddie Kasko said.

Veale has made only two appearances with Boston since joining the club but he has a win and a save and that's the difference between first and fourth place right now. After Felipe Alou hit a two-run pinch double in the seventh off Lynn McGlothen, Veale retired all eight batters he faced to lock up the win.

DETROIT

Detroit has been desperate for hitting because the entire team seems to be in a batting slump so the Tigers purchased Howard from Texas where Bob Short wasn't too happy with Howard's six-figure contract. Howard provided the punch against Baltimore as his run-scoring double in the first inning and three-run homer in the fifth off Dave McNally trumped a grand slam by Boog Powell.

Howard's homer highlighted a five-run rally that was climaxed when Mickey Stanley broke from third and Doyle Alexander balked, permitting Stanley to score the deciding run. Fred Scherman pitched four innings of scoreless relief ball to save Joe Coleman's 16th win.

In the other games, Oakland routed Minnesota 8-0, Kansas City edged Chicago 6-4, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 3-1 and California stopped Texas 6-5.

SCHAAL HITS

Paul Schaal's two-run double in the eighth inning pushed Kansas City past Chicago. The White Sox had tied the game 4-4 in the eighth on run-scoring singles by Carlos May and Buddy Bradford. Schaal also singled in a run in the fifth for the Royals.

Joe Lahoud's fourth inning homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth and paced Milwaukee past Cleveland. It came off Gaylord Perry, who suffered his 16th loss against 20 wins. Gary Bell got the win.

California rallied for two runs in the eighth to edge Texas. Leo Cardenas drove in pinch-runner Billy Parker with the deciding run with a bunt single after Ken McMullen doubled in the tying run.

The victory was the ninth against six losses for the Giants against the Dodgers this season.

Preps Add Baseball J.V. Play

Junior varsity baseball will be come an official Marin County Athletic League sport this year after gaining approval from the league's board of managers during a meeting yesterday in the Quail Hill Inc. office building at Terra Linda.

The board, made up of principals of the eight MCAL schools, last year voted to start an official junior varsity league in basketball for the 1972-73 season, so yesterday's action makes it two J.V. sports. Previously, all junior varsity sports were unofficial and did not count in official MCAL standings.

The board also voted upon a procedure to choose a representative for the playoff football game between the MCAL and North Bay League in case two or more teams tie for the league crown. In case of tie, winner of the game when the tying teams played would represent the league. If the teams tied in their regular league game, the representative would be chosen by the other league grid coaches.

Atlanta's Slugger Aaron Draws Kudos

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sparky Anderson says Hank Aaron is one-of-a-kind so it follows suit that he belongs in another league.

Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, was asked Wednesday night after his Cincinnati Redlegs had beaten Atlanta in 10 innings, 6-5, how he felt about Aaron.

"Jeez, I can't even talk about him. He's in a class by himself and I can't compare him with anybody else. Guys like him, Koufax, Mays, Mantle and a couple others are so special and just don't belong in this league. They ought to have a league of their own."

Johnny Bench's two-run 10th inning homer was the decisive blow for the Western Division leaders but Aaron stole the spotlight with his two home runs.

The Hammer's two home-run night gave him 30 for the season and 669 in his career. It also marked the 14th season he has hit 30 or more homers, breaking Babe Ruth's record of 13.

In other National League action, Pittsburgh topped Chicago 6-4, New York trounced Philadelphia 11-6, St. Louis nipped Montreal in 5-4 in 11 innings, Houston edged San Diego 6-5 and San Francisco downed Los Angeles 7-1.

Rookie Jorge Roque's 11th inning pinch home run pushed St. Louis over Montreal and moved the Cardinals into a fourth-place tie with the Expos in the Eastern Division.

John Edwards' pinch sacrifice fly drove in the with the winning run after Doug Rader had doubled and taken third on a sacrifice in Houston's win over San Diego.

Roberto Clemente had three hits including a two-run homer in the seventh inning as Pittsburgh beat Chicago.

Miami Faces Kansas City In Opener; Kicking Duel Looms

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It was ironic last Christmas night that the American football conference title was decided by a Cypriot and a Norwegian. But the 1972 season could open with the same pair playing a major role.

The Cypriot is Garo Yepremian and he kicked a 37-yard field goal in the "sixth quarter" to give the Miami Dolphins a 27-24 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs and a berth in the Super Bowl. Jan Stenerud, the Norwegian-born placekicker for Kansas City, had blown a chance to give the Chiefs the title when he missed a 31-yarder — normally a sure thing for him — with 31 seconds left.

National Football League schedule-makers have decided to open the season with a rematch of the 82-minute, 40-second title game and the Chiefs seem especially apprehensive about it.

TREVINO TALKS Ggolf

'Reading' The Hole

By LEE TREVINO

The last few turns of a putt are influenced more by the grain of a green than the others. As the ball slows down, the grass can make it change direction more.

This is why the touring pros look close at the cups and grass around them. They're not just admiring a hole in the ground, even if they feel like crawling in it. They're looking in the cup to help figure which way the grain is growing.

Facing the hole, if the right side of the cup is green, the left side will be brown. From this you assume that the grain lays right to left, meaning your putt will break to the left.

Another tip in "reading" a hole is to see if it's worn on one side. This means the grain runs toward the worn side. Balls putted with the grain have been traveling so fast that they hit the far side of the hole. The observant putter then adjusts his stroke.

Baseball Averages Slipping

The baseball season is gradually winding down, and so, apparently are the batting averages of Marin County's minor league ballplayers.

The lone exception is Al Curtiss of Fairfax, who batted at a .282 pace last week on 11 hits in 39 at-bats for the Oakland Athletics' Class A farm club at Coos Bay, Ore.

Curtiss had a double, two triples, and six runs batted in as he raised his average to .241 for his first season of professional ball.

Everybody else slumped, including John Dolinsek of Novato, who saw the elusive batting figure of .300 slip a little bit farther away. He hit just .227 for the week (five for 22) for Peninsula, Va., a Montreal farm in the Class AAA International League, and now has a .290 mark for the club.

Tom Corder of Novato suffered even more, batting .071 on one hit in 14 tries and watching his average shrink to .219 for Bakersfield in the Class A California League.

Novato's Russ Dillon was idle for Atlanta's AAA farm in Richmond, Va. His season pitching log stands at 3-9 with a 4.00 earned run average.

Wilt Is Absent From Practice

Combined AP & UPI

Chamberlain was absent Wednesday when the National Basketball Association champions opened their first day of practice for the coming season.

Neither he nor his attorney would make any official comment on the star's failure to report, but earlier in the summer Chamberlain threatened to retire unless his contract was renegotiated.

Pete Newell, the club's general manager, said it is not Lakers' policy to renegotiate contracts and added: "unless there was a reasonable excuse for missing the opening practice session, there will be a fine levied."

Football

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Colts announced Wednesday that three-time all-pro tight end John Mackey has been placed on waivers. The action by the Colts climaxed three days of controversy over Mackey's playing status.

The American Football Conference Club Vice President Joe Thomas said the move was made "since the resultant dispute has made it very difficult for Mackey to return as an effective member of the Baltimore Colts. . ."

Tennis

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Quarter-final action begins today in the $40,000 Four Roses Premium Women's Tennis tourney, with top seeds still in the running for the lucrative purse.

World champion and no. 1 seed Billie Jean King beat Betty Stove of the Netherlands Wednesday 6-0, 6-4 in the second day of the tournament.

In today's singles action, third-seeded Australian Margaret Court faced sixth-seeded Francoise Durr of France and Windy Overton of Ormond Beach, Fla., clashed with no. 2 seed Nancy Richey Gunter.

Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The revived Texas Open will feature two former champions, Ron Cerrudo of Napa and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriquez, and 1969 U.S. Amateur champion Steve Melnyk, sponsors said Wednesday.

The tournament was canceled after 1970 because of unsuitable dates. It will be played Nov. 2-5 this year.

General

WASHINGTON — A House of Representatives commerce subcommittee has announced it will review legislation passed 11 years ago allowing professional sports teams to blackout home games on television.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the panel, said Wednesday the inquiry will include commercial television blackouts as well as those imposed in connection with closed circuit and theater television used for professional boxing.

San Anselmo Flag Grid Coaches Sought

The San Anselmo Park and Recreation Department is seeking volunteer coaches for its fifth and sixth grade flag football league playing Saturday mornings at Memorial Park. Those interested should contact the recreation office in Memorial Park.

Meanwhile, boys' player signups will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at participants' school grounds.

Tennis Tourney Qualifying Set On Albany Court

This weekend, it will feature qualifying play for the $20,000 women's division of the Golden Gate Pacific Te nis classic The women's tourney ends ɔt. 24 and then the men will go from Sept. 25 through Oct. 1 after $34,000 in prize money.

Included in the women's field, where 40 girls are competing for eight openings, is Alice Valentine, a teacher this summer at the Belvedere Tennis Club. The eight qualifiers will join the 24 contract women of the Virginia Slims circuit.

Firestone Cuts Out European Racing

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., citing "greatly escalating costs," has decided to discontinue its auto racing activities in Europe at the end of the current season.

Firestone has been active in European racing since 1964.

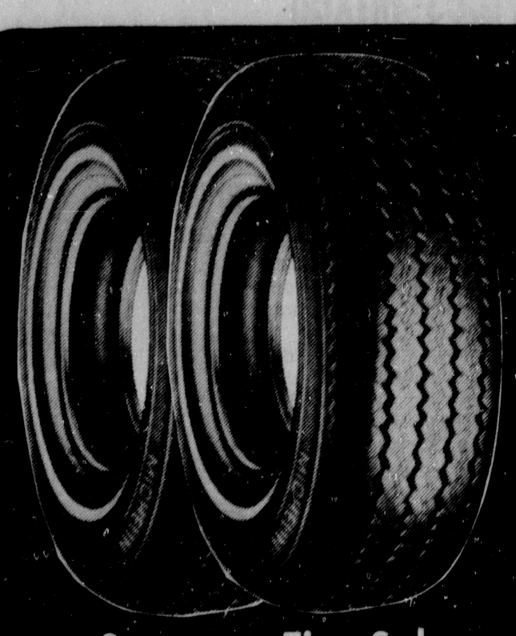
CAIN'S TIRE SALE



So many Tire Sales - its hard to figure out what is a sale, and what is not a sale! I haven't been running many ads this summer 'cause we've been so darn busy and you can only do so much. I've always tried to advertise in such a way that people were not confused or misled. In the ads I've been reading - and the phone calls I've been receiving I can tell people are confused on what to buy - and what to pay for tires. Below are some SALE and I mean SALE prices on some good products.

RADIAL TIRES

Been getting a lot of calls on these lately. Because of the tremendous success of the Michelin X Steel Radial Ply Tire, a lot of companies are trying to jump on their band wagon. The truth of the matter is simply this — There is only one Michelin the only other tire exactly like it is the Sears Radial, and Michelin makes them, but I under sell them in price. Goodrich - Uniroyal - Firestone General are all out with steel radials — are they any good?? Who knows only time will tell. Michelin has been proven with time 23 years. These other steel radials range from $1.00 to $3.00 under or over Michelin's price. The Japanese steel radials are priced below Michelin and, I know they are better performers than the American steel radials they have more experience.

New Bookstore Will Be Opened In Corte Madera Village Square

A new bookstore oriented toward encouraging education for all ages will open next week at 25 First Street in Corte Madera Village Square.

The building is the old Parkside Hotel, built about 1873.

To be called First Street Books, the store will be operated by three women with unusual backgrounds. One is an educator, the second is an attorney-educator, the third a geologist.

Celia Elke of San Anselmo worked at Family Mix, an educational cooperative in San Anselmo, for about 15 months. She has been an assistant teacher and art teacher.

Patty Latcham of San Anselmo is an attorney. The third partner is geologist Cynthia Canfield of Santa Rosa.

An innovation planned by the three is to have push carts loaded with paperbacks and magazines to serve morning bus commuters at the Village Square.

"We'll have quality paperback and hardcover books, specializing in educational materials and adult type games," said Mrs. Elke. "We'll be encouraging education from the grades through the college level."

Stan Valan of San Anselmo, who operates the Grotto, said plans are still tentative because he must get several permits. If all goes well, he hopes to have his new Grotto built in three or four months on a vacant lot between Wiltshire Towers and RB Furniture Store.

He will maintain the same nautical motif at the new Grotto, with a seating of about 80 and a more adequate cocktail lounge. He plans about 32 off-street parking places.

He is not sure at this point whether he also will retain the present Grotto on Lincoln Avenue in addition to his new restaurant. The Grotto has been operating in San Rafael for five years.

THE GROTTO seafood restaurant at 909 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, hopes to open a new facility across Highway 101 from Marin Civic Center.

LARKSPUR NATURAL Foods at 460 Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur will be sold to new owners on Sept. 25, but the store operations will continue unchanged.

Christopher and Jacqueline Rosenfelder, who have owned the shop for two years, are moving to New Jersey where his parents live.

New owners will be Mrs. Gloria Hamilton of San Diego and her son, Jeffrey Hamilton, who will live in Larkspur and manage the establishment. The store sells natural foods such as dried fruit, nuts, fresh organic vegetables, dairy products and grains. It also has a juice and sandwich bar.

Larkspur Natural Foods is open six days a week from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

MARIN CIVIC BALLET Association finds itself briefly in the restaurant equipment business as result of moving into its new quarters at 100 Elm Street, San Rafael, the former Marist Fathers' Seminary.

With the building, the dance group acquired a complete institutional type kitchen. "It cannot be used by our ballet school," commented Mrs. Philip R. Placier, vice president.

The association has the facility open for inspection of the equipment through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., hoping to find a buyer.

Most of it wouldn't be suitable for the kitchen in your home, according to Mrs. Placier.

INVESTING

2 For The Cautious Investor

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I will shortly receive $20,000 which I wish to invest for safety and income with perhaps modest capital gains. Any suggestions would be appreciated. — J.L.

A. Mobil Oil and Reynolds Industries, both traded on the New York Exchange, are suitable issues in view of your investment goal. Both are selling in the upper sixties, yield close to 4 per cent and boast very conservative P/E multiples.

Of particular importance in the Reynolds picture is a newly introduced small cigar, the Winchester. Because this is adjudged a cigar, rather than cigarette, the IRS has cleared it for radio and television advertising.

Test marketing of the low-cost filter-tip cigar has been very favorable. Company has consistently increased the dividend with the most recent increment declared last January.

Although major international oils as a group have not been star profit turners, Mobil appears to be an exception. Gross revenues rose 11.4 per cent and earnings 6 per cent in the first half.

Mobil's holdings offshore Canada's East Coast run to over 30 million net acres, and it was on this property that the Sable Island strike was made. If findings prove to be in a commercially feasible quantity, the area's strategic location would be an added benefit to profits.

Again the consistency of dividend boosts adds appeal to these shares for income investors. Equal dollar amounts of these two issues would purchase approximately 150 shares each.

Q. I invested $3,000 in Investment Company of America (OTC) in 1966, 1967 and 1968. In addition, all dividends have been reinvested up to date. All told my 265.2 shares have cost $3,885. Should I hold or sell? — H.B.

A. Your shares, currently worth $3,960, should be held, particularly if capital protection is important to you. While many other funds have achieved more aggressive growth records in up markets, these same performers dropped considerably faster in down periods.

This $1.5 billion asset fund is invested in a broadly diversified blue chip portfolio and growth will generally follow that of the market as a whole.

Prices Mixed As Market Opens High

Advances outnumbered declines, 619 to 490, with 1,531 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 5,840,000 shares.

The early strength was credited to some business news in which there were reports the United States has worked out a large trade deal with the Soviet Union and a wheat deal with China.

Analysts, however, said many investors have discounted much economic news and remain skeptical about the nation's overall economy. Many investors remained on the sidelines.

Panhandle Eastern Pipeline was the most active issue, up 14 at 36 1-8 on 233,100 shares including a block of 225,000 shares at 36.

Prices were slightly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Technicolor was the most active AMEX issue, up 7-8 at 17 5-8 on 23,200 shares.

On the Big Board, glamors met with mixed results. Philip Morris and Corning Glass gained 1 1-4 apiece, and Schlumberger 1. ARA Services Curtiss-Wright, Bausch & Lomb and Itek lost 1 1-4.

Seven Year High For American Sales

DETROIT — American Motors' retail passenger car sales during the first 10 days of September increased 12 per cent over last year.

R. William McNealy, group vice president-North American Marketing, said dealer deliveries in the Sept. 1-10 period totaled 4,754 cars, compared with 4,230 a year ago. It was the highest sales level for the period in seven years.

Chrysler Reports First Period Sales

In the same period a year ago, the company's dealers delivered 27,576 cars. There were seven selling days in the period this year, compared with eight a year ago.

The Market As Garden: Steel Woes

By S.M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The blossoms that bloom in the spring indeed fade in the stock market almost as often as in the garden.

Last spring Bethlehem Steel, the traditional pricing leader for the industry, guaranteed there would be no price increase on most of its line at least until year's end.

To many on Wall Street, this appeared to be a shrewd move that would serve "Bessie" well in the long run. It appeared the firm was making certain it would not run into profit-margin problems with the Price Commission. Reading between the lines: a super-strong summer was in store for the steel companies.

After all, a great many economists at that precise moment were revising upward their expectations for the rapidity of the economic rebound. Such a situation could produce windfall profits for the steel industry, inasmuch as many steel buyers had allowed their inventories to become unduly low and might soon be forced into vigorous catch-up buying.

But now that summer is nearly past, reality has set in. Although steel shipments are much improved over 1971 and although imports are lower, the demand for steel isn't quite what the optimists expected. Not enough segments of the business world are participating in the economic recovery.

"Inventories appear to have been kept unusually low and new industrial construction is only now showing faint signs of recovery," stressed J. William Harless of Value Line investors advisory service.

So the steel stocks, although up considerably from their lows, have lagged the 1972 market — even though it is increasingly being characterized as a market that is luring money away from high-priced glamour issues into a broad array of cyclical stocks.

Harless believes second-half steel shipments might prove to be a record. But even with that, he does not expect record earnings, although he sees most steel companies topping their 1971 net income.

In the opinion of one mutual manager, who sold out the remnants of his steel holdings when the shares rallied from their 1971 bottoms, "the problems were being overlooked by the optimists."

To his thinking, if the steel industry followed Bessie's lead and held to a no-price-hike policy throughout 1971, the steelmaker would fall well short of having to worry about profit-margin ceilings imposed by the Price Commission.

His reasoning: "Unions were going to get the previously agreed to 8 per cent pay hike on Aug. 1 (the increases varied between 6 and 8 per cent). They simply had to be in a position to pass this on, at least some of it."

In general, mutual funds tended to ignore the steels, because of this guarantee against boosting prices, and leaned toward other basic-metals companies if they held any convictions at all about participating in the economic rebound of 1972. For example, Boston Fund bought blocks of Alcoa, Freeport Minerals, and Phelps Dodge, but it skipped steels.

Jack Collins, research chief for Argus Research Co., is among those who feel that the economic cycle has a good distance to go yet and the setting is highly promising for real impact on steel earnings, not just sales.

Says another widely followed analyst: "We think the economic cycle will be a classic one, with over-inventorying and overbuilding by industry just down the road." Though he has trimmed back his profit estimates on major steel firms for 1972, he expects the industry to almost certainly boost tonnage prices next year, at least enough to cover wage hikes.

Most analysts suggest avoiding the big makers at this stage but encourage buying smaller and specialty firms for their leverage.

SAME BUILDING, NEW FACE

Earth Berm Applicant Plan: One Objection

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Army Corps of Engineers said yesterday it has received one objection to a proposal by the Basalt Rock Co. of Napa to build an earth berm on a 34-acre marshland on San Rafael Bay.

The protest came from a group called Save San Pedro Bay, a corps spokesman said.

The Department of the Interior has requested that no action be taken on the application until the department reviews the project.

The company plans to plant trees on the berm to screen its industrial operations southeast of San Pedro Road near Peacock Gap. The berm will be seven feet high, 30 feet wide and about 1,600 feet long.

Meanwhile, no objections have been received to an application by George Kappas of 765 Bridgeway in Sausalito for a permit to construct houseboat mooring and to fill 1.6 acres of shoreline at Kappas Marina.

The Department of the Interior also has requested that no action be taken on this project pending further study.

The project already has been approved by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the state Water Resources Control Board.

River Plan Legal Fight Is Settled

AUBURN (UPI)—A six-year legal fight over construction of the $115 million Middle Fork American River Project in Placer County has been settled one month before it was to go to trial.

Attorneys for the Placer County Water Agency said Tuesday the settlement requires insurance companies to pay $1.4 million to American River Constructors and $15,000 to McCreary-Koretsky Engineers.

They said the agency, a defendant in the suit, is not required to pay any money because under the settlement $60 million in lawsuits against the agency will be dismissed.

American River Constructors filed the damage action in 1966, claiming the specifications for the project in eastern Placer County did not include adequate geographic information. The contractor's attorneys said that due to the inadequate information, the contractor was required to do extensive and costly work to complete the job.

$90 Million Bond Sale Date Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest yesterday scheduled Oct. 3 as the date for the sale of $90 million in California general obligation bonds to finance three state programs.

Mrs. Priest said $50 million of the issue will be bonds for the veterans farm and home loan program. They will be the first bonds marketed from a $250 million issue approved by voters last June.

Another $25 million in bonds will finance state beach, park, reaction and historical facilities and are the last portion of a $150 million 1964 authorization to be sold.

'Conservation' Groups Silent On Bond Issue

San Rafael voters have an opportunity Tuesday to say whether they believe in keeping open space enough to pay for it.

On the ballot for a special election is a proposal for the city to bond itself for $2,250,000 for purchase of open space.

Little opposition to the proposal has surfaced. Also, however, there has been little campaign in its behalf.

MARIN'S NUMEROUS — and often highly vocal — conservation groups have been strangely silent.

The same groups that turn out hundreds of protesters against an owner's proposal to develop his own property have failed to mount a campaign for the positive approach proposed by the city council: the purchase of private properties to make sure they will not be developed.

We find this more than a little surprising. Can it be that these avowed spokesmen for preserving the environment are merely "aginners," unable to be FOR anything?

They might have been expected to point out many advantages to the City of San Rafael's open space proposal:

No. 1: Purchase of the land by the entire taxpaying population assures benefits for that entire population — and for generations to come.

No. 2: Certainly the expense, though great, is less now than if purchase were attempted after still more of the land has been brought under development and still more inflation has occurred.

It has been pointed out repeatedly in other connections that bonding, although it involves payment of a lot of interest, may be cheaper in the long run than delaying purchase until cash is available — because inflation tends to outrun interest rates. The same argument holds for the open space bond proposal.

No. 3: Purchase of land, and keeping it unused, may be cheaper for the taxpayers than allowing it to be developed. In a study two years ago for the City of Palo Alto, the consultant firm of Livingston and Blayney concluded that it would be cheaper for that city to buy its foothill lands than to permit residential development of them —for the residences would not produce enough taxes to pay for the services they required.

Although the planning consultants cautioned that such conclusion for Palo Alto might not hold true elsewhere, because of differing conditions, San Rafael's situation is quite similar to that of the southern Peninsula city.

No. 4: Saving such lands as hillsides and ridgelines within the city will prevent developments which will not wait for a county-wide park district. Also, the proposed county-wide district must of necessity spread its purchases over the whole county.

THERE ARE OTHER good arguments, too, which could be put forth in behalf of San Rafael's open space bond issue. It seems odd that those who cry loudest about saving the environment have not offered them publicly and at length.

We hope that two-thirds of San Rafael's voters approve the issue next Tuesday. If they fail to do so, some blame must attach to the "conservationists" who failed to seize the opportunity offered them to prove they are really for saving the environment.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Elective State Board Should Set School Policies

By RUS WALTON

Summer is sneaking into fall and the kids are straggling back to school. Now it's vacation-time for parents — until the weekend, at least.

This is a good time to think about public education; the system of schooling which is now more idol than ideal.

I suppose it's a waste of time to fret about compulsory education. But compulsion has always bugged me and the older I get the more I admire the free spirit.

Incidentally, nowhere in the state constitution does it say education shall be compulsory. The compulsion comes from the politicians, not the people. The constitution simply says: ". . . the Legislature shall encourage by all suitable means the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral and agricultural improvement."

BE THAT AS it may, there are several other — less controversial — education reforms that should be undertaken.

The law should be changed so that the voters elect the members of the State Board of Education. The constitution allows for that: "The Legislature shall provide for the appointment or election of the state Board of Education and a board of education in each county."

At the county level, the legislature opts for democracy. At the state level, they choose politics; the governor appoints the board members. That is not wise. Education is too important to be left to poltiical decision and appointive powers. It's not a matter of person or party, it's a matter of common sense.

Why not elect a Sate Board of Education similar to the way we elect the State Board of Equalization? Establish 10-12 districts within California (one man-one vote, to be sure!) and ask the voters within each district to elect a member to represent them on the State Board of Education? For a term of four years, with a maximum of two or three terms.

That elected board should then appoint the state superintendent of education (public instruction). Just as the county boards have that power, so should the state board. And, just as the county superintendent answers to the county board, so should the state superintendent.

THE STATE EDUCATION Code makes the relationship (and line of authority) between the state board and superintendent of instruction quite clear: the board is to decide all matters of policy and the superintendent is to fit his programs and procedures to those policies.

That sounds good but it doesn't work — not with an appointed board and an elected superintendent.

At present Wilson Riles is education czar and the board tags along.

Since the superintendent can say to the board members, "I was elected by the people; were you?" there is not much the board can do about it. Some members kick and snort but the majority ends up going along with Riles.

That could be straightened out if the members were elected and the superintencent were appointed.

FINALLY, THE STATE should get out of the business of selecting and publishing school books. Each district should be permitted to purchase the books its educators choose.

In the same manner that it should establish policy, the state board (in cooperation with the department of education) should establish standards of achievement by subject and grade, and annual state tests to determine whether districts are meeting those standards. Let the districts determine how best to meet those standards; what texts to use, what techniques, curricula and scheudles to employ.

As it is now, the state selects and the teachers reject. Millions of dollars are being wasted. In an extreme example, only 8 per cent of the copies of one textbook printed by the state have been ordered by local schools. The balance — 92 per cent — sits on the warehouse shelves.

"I was counting on that $1,000 for everyone. Now I'm beginning to feel like a big-city mayor."

"Stop the world! I want to tell everybody where to get off."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Says Violence Not Related To Open Door

In an article published in your paper on Sept. 7, the writer referred to a "ramshackle coffee house" at the heliport where people fought while drunk, resulting in one man killed, one man wounded, and one man arrested.

May I point out that the place, which is well known to me, is run by the Open Door Ministry. Young travelers in a needy positon are helped in a selfless way by both food and counseling. Alcohol is not ever available or used and the place is highly respectable, neat and clean — by no means ramshakle or disreputable. The unfortunate violence that occurred nearby had nothing to do with the "Open Door" or the Open Door Ministers, who are good spiritual people. It was only a coincidence that the fight took place in that area.

Lack Of Fluoride Deprives Children

I am deeply concerned about the tens of thousands of Marin County children who may be deprived of a nutritive element and thereby may suffer all their lives with toothaches and poor teeth and jaws, whose bodies would be handicapped with mouth infections and who, during their lives would spend otherwise unnecessary thousands of dollars to repair the damage. This is what can happen if the voters become frightened by the outright lies of those who oppose bringing the fluoride content of our water up to the proper level.

The proof of the measure's excellent results and safety is based on the soundest studies. There is not a shred of good scientific evidence to deny the conclusion of the need for proper amounts of the element, and that water is its best vehicle.

Statistical studies of city after city all over the world are consistent. Tooth decay where levels are correct is ⅔ less than in areas with dificient levels. (For example — Welfare costs for dentistry per recipeint are 60 per cent less in San Francisco than in Oakland. San Francisco's water has been fluoridated for 20 years. Oakland's has not. Welfare care is the same.). . .

Every reputable scientific and health organization in the land approves. Half the population in the nation is getting its benefits. It is high time Marin joined in. . .

No-Fault Faulty, Says Trial Lawyer

Re: No-fault insurance editorial Aug. 21:

Your editorial on the inconsistency of lawyers is amusing, but not completely fair. On a personal level I find most lawyers to be amusing, and I'm even less than impressed with the thought processes of some, but their inconsistency on no-fault insurance pales in comparison with inconsistency of a newspaper backing an insurance industry bill.

1. It would probably raise premiums by 19 to 57 per cent of the basic policy (independent actuarial studies done by the president of the American Actuarial Society).

2. It would force people to self insure themselves for medical and wage protection that 89 per cent of them already have (official governmental statistics).

3. It would cut off the right of full compensation of 95 per cent of the California citizens.

It is not the trial lawyers who killed no-fault in the legislature, but rather the reasoning process of every legislature who considered those bills, coupled with the opposition of some 40 newspaper editorials that three the whole subject into serious question and the wholehearted opposition of 115 consumer groups. . .

There are many things wrong with the existing system, but passing no-fault bills in frustration is not the cure to this complex situation. The cure is not the ABA Plan, but the California Trial Lawyers nine-point plan of insurance reform.

Today is Thursday, Sept. 14, the 258th day of 1972 with 108 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

American physicist Karl Compton was born Sept. 14, 1887.

On this day in history:

In 1847, Mexico City was occupied by the United States Army.

In 1901, President William McKinley died from wounds inflicted by an assassin eight days earlier.

In 1963, the first quintuplets in U.S. history to survive were born in Aberdeen, S.D., to Mrs. Andrew Fischer.

In 1969, the tanker SS Manhattan became the first commerical ship to navigate the Northwest Passage.

Arab Governments Remain In Fear Of Terrorist Bands

NEW YORK — In this the most Jewish of cities, the outpouring of grief and anger over the Olympic murders is as palpable as the haze that hangs in the air in these warm September days. With it goes a sense of futility and frustration in a people with ancient memories of suffering and persecution. How long, they ask, how long will this go on?

That is a question without an answer. Sec. of State William P. Rogers, at the direction of the president, spoke brave words about getting international cooperation to put an end to terrorist action. But they are likely to remain just that — words.

For the guerrilla centers in four countries — Egypt, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon — are so enmeshed with the hatreds of the Arab-Israeli conflict that, short of massive intervention by outside forces, they cannot be eliminated. Intervention could drive the terrorists deeper underground and to even more desperate acts. One constructive result might be for countries in Europe, such as West Germany, to root out reported centers of Arab plotting and guerrilla recruitment.

EGYPT IS the cardinal example. Since the Soviet Union removed Russian "advisers" and advanced Russian weapons, the future of the government of President Anwar Sadat is uncertain. If he were to make so much as a gesture of reproof against the terrorists he could expect reprisals bringing him down.

A cold-blooded murder at the time the Arab nations were meeting in Cairo last November showed how far the terrorists can go and apparently get away with it. The Jordanian premier, Wasfi Tal, was gunned down in the lobby of Cairo's Sheraton Hotel. The assassins boasted that they dabbled their hands in his blood. They have never been brought to trial.

Through it all runs the subterranean current of oil, a political spill that washes up far and wide. The paradox is the dependence of Western Europe on the oil of the Middle East. West Germany gets up to 80 per cent of its oil supply from Libya. And while the dictatorial power of the Moslem fanatic, Muammar El-Qaddafi, has been somewhat curbed, he continues to be a raging champion of Arab supremacy.

With oil revenues put at a billion dollars a year and huge reserves reported in London banks, he has a reach that cannot be discounted. More moderate states, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, are said to give Egypt generous subsidies out of their oil revenues. This is a way of buying peace in the explosive Middle East.

THE BLOWUP can come again as it came in the Suez crisis in 1956. While the risk of U.S.-Soviet confrontation and big-power participation has been diminished, even a limited Middle East war could be shattering in its effect. As has often been said, the Soviet Union is not preapred to pay hard currency for Middle East Oil, particularly since the Russians are rapidly developing their own petroleum and natural gas resources. But terror directed at pipelines and refineries could bring the wheels of Western Europe to a stop.

Terror is contagious and corrupting in its contagion. Here in New York, the Jewish Defense League in several instances resorted to terrorist acts, notably in the fire-bombing of the office of Sol Hurok, the impresario, who has brought troops of Russian performers to America.

The Israeli government was deeply disturbed by the militancy of the JDL. Such acts invited reprisals and, as seen in Jerusalem, would have the opposite effect in the campaign to persuade the Soviet Union to allow more Jews to leave for Israel. The JDL leader, Rabbi Meir Kahane, emigrated to Israel.

THE ONLY ARAB head of state to speak out in condemnation of the Olympic barbarism was Jordan's King Hussein. Hussein took a bold and courageous step to put down his own terrorists, firing on the refugee camps where they hid themselves.

But those camps remain scattered through the whole area, with the Arab states contributing nothing to a long-term solution with the United Nations, which largely through American funds keeps body and soul together as the miserable years pass. It is a festering sore breeding violence and terror.

Youth Vote-Or Lack Of It— Can Decide November Election

LOS ANGELES — Unless President Nixon continues to build up an electoral advantage over Senator McGovern of landslide proportions, it is still likely that the youth vote could be decisive. But it is by no means clear that Senator McGovern will get a high enough proportion of the youth vote to make the difference.

The effect of young voters during the McGovern primary campaign was enormous. That was different. It was centered in a few states, and the task of corraling enough votes to secure control of the nominating delegation was relatively simple. The issues and the technical problems for Nov. 7 are quite otherwise.

THE AVAILABILITY of new voters in 1972 is entirely unprecedented. There are almost 26 million of them. Some 11 million $lv42$voticg age. Under the new rules, and with were enfranchised by the 26th Amendment. Over 14 million have come of voting age since the last presidential election.

In addition, there are millions of others who have not exercised their franchise in the past, or do not so normally. Most important are those who are not registered. There are 140 million Americans of voting age. Under the new rules, nd with intensive registration drives, perhaps 106 million of them will register. Of that number, perhaps 85 million will vote, and that would be a new record in the United States.

The key, really, is registration. That is why both Republicans and Democrats are now mounting really massive sign-up campaigns. And so are non-partisan organizations like the League of Women Voters.

There are roadblocks in the way. Local registration officials and some old-line politicians are not very sympathetic to the flood of new potential voters. They upset traditional organizations and controls. Then, in 1972, there is a very one-sided seeming campaign. It could engender overconfidence — and hence apathetic voting — among Republicans. There is disaffection with the nominee among some Democrats. There is discouragement and low morale.

THE NEW VOTERS, the younger voters, are those who have been least likely to register in the past. That is why both parties are concentrating on them now. While Senator McGovern benefited heavily from registering college youth, they are a modest minority. Nationally among the 25 million of potential new youthful voters, only 7 per cent have had four years of college, 31.2 per cent have had some college education, 75.2 per cent have graduated from high school and 24.8 per cent have not graduated from high school.

The greatest pool of unregistered youth is among the poor in the big cities. In New York, for example, scarcely a third of the 18-20-year-olds registered in 1971, the year they received the new franchise. It will take great effort to arouse such youth and persuade them of the efficacy of the ballot box.

Various polls show youth not so enthusiastic for Senator McGovern as had been previously assumed. A Gallup poll in late July showed some 57 per cent for Senator McGovern and 41 per cent for President Nixon. Thus the Democratic strategists are concentrating on areas which Senator McGovern must carry if he is to have any chance of success, and particularly among non-college youth. Tables are set up in places where poorer people congregate, such as unemployment offices and food stamp distribution centers. California is a major McGovern target.

Republicans, conversely, are focusing on more affluent suburbs, shopping centers, and such places. The vigorous Young Voters for the President, a Republican group, is laying on a vast doorbell ringing campaign. It is agreed that such direct solicitation is the most effective, for whatever party.

If Senator McGovern cannot score heavily among the 18-24-year-old ranks, he obviously has no chance of election. So far, the signs are uncertain. Youth can be very powerful in American and world society today, but it has not yet proved itself anywhere convincingly and conclusively. The 1972 election will be its most significant test and opportunity.

Hoffa's Secret Vietnam Plan: Strike On Ho Chi Minh Trail

WASHINGTON — There has been criticism in government circles over the handling of Jimmy Hoffa's trip to Hanoi, which was canceled at the last moment.

For some reason the White House, the Justice Department and the State Department, as well as Hoffa's lawyers, all had different versions as to what actually happened.

By piecing together a bit here and a bit there, I think I can now reveal what took place.

WHEN JIMMY HOFFA was serving time in prison, he decided to study the Vietnamese language, in hopes that someday when he got out he could organize the truck drivers along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the Teamsters Union.

Somehow word got to the White House of Hoffa's proficiency in the language. (It was first believed that Hoffa's cell was bugged, but this was later denied.)

In any case a White House staffer at a meeting said: "Why don't we send Hoffa to Hanoi to unionize the North Vietnamese truck drivers? Then he could call a strike and cut off all the supplies to the south."

"What a great idea!" President Nixon said. "How does it sound to you, Henry?"

Henry Kissinger replied, "It doesn't bother me, as long as I can keep going to Paris."

"But Hoffa is in prison," another White House staffer said.

"The President can parole him," someone suggested. "We'll leak the story that the President is paroling Hoffa so the Teamsters will support the Republicans during the election year. No one willknow the real reason is so he can go to Hanoi."

A CALL was put in to the attorney general, who said it would be no problem to parole Hoffa, but he raised the question as to how Hoffa could get a passport to leave the country.

"We never thought of that," a White House assistant said. "We'll have to inform Bill Rogers, the secretary of state, of our plans."

"Absolutely not," Kissinger said. "If we tell Rogers about this, we'll be setting a bad precedent. He'll want to know about other things we're planning to do in foreign affairs, which are none of his business."

"Henry's right," a White House staffer said. "If we clue in Rogers on this, he'll be coming around all the time wanting to know what we're cooking up. A little knowledge for a secretary of state is a dangerous thing."

THE PRESIDENT asked, "Why can't Hoffa just go down to the passport office and apply for a passport without Bill knowing about it?"

The machinery was put into motion. Justice got Hoffa his parole, Kissinger told the North Vietnamese Hoffa was coming, and the White House press office prepared an announcement revealing the President's 1,987th secret plan to get us out of Vietnam.

But somebody goofed, and the announcement was made before Hoffa took off for his mission.

Because Secretary Rogers was not in on the plan, he thought someone in the passport office had erred and, without checking with the White House, Rogers canceled Hoffa's passport and announced that the Teamster boss couldn't go.

The President was urged to overrule Rogers but decided against it when the secretary of state called angrily and said that if Hoffa went to Hanoi, he, Rogers, would organize a Republicans for McGovern committee. With only a 34 per cent lead in the polls, Nixon couldn't afford this, so he reluctantly denied he knew anything about Hoffa's trip.

It was a great blow to Hoffa, not to mention the White House. But worst of all, President Nixon now has to come up with a new secret plan to get us out of Vietnam.

McGovern Finances: Huge Debt In State

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—With only about $11,000 on hand, the main financial committee of Sen. George McGovern's California primary campaign is staring at a huge debt of $247,300.

According to documents released by the secretary of state Tuesday, the McGovern Central Control Fund in Los Angeles said it has collected nearly $210,000 in recent months and spent about $204,000 at the same time.

The fund, however, has spent $2.4 million so far this year, most of it in the primary election, and run up debts of $466,300. But the McGovern for President Committee, Inc., in Washington, D.c., has assumed $219,000 of the debts.

No documents were on file from the principal state finance committee for President Nixon, but both Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew reported they had spent nothing personally on their campaigns.

The Bay Area Citizens Committee for the Re-election of the President declared, however, it has received nearly $181,000 this year and spent only about $30,000.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty's Democratic presidential aspirations cost his campaign committee $86,822. It collected $87,595.

In reports released today, the Shirley Chisholm for President Committee, California, said it had received $38,441 during the year and spent $36,057. The surplus has been transferred to the Democratic Party of California.

A committee for Sen. Edward Muskie, who along with Mrs. Chisholm had sought the Democratic presidential nomination, reported receipts of $31,937 and expenditures of $37,538 with debts of $7,603.

The disclosures of contributions and expenditures are required by federal law for presidential and congressional candidates. The deadline for filing the statements with the state was Sunday—Monday if hand-delivered—and many had not yet been processed.

A host of small McGovern committees, which funnel money into the central fund, also filed statements. The Northern California McGovern Campaign Committee appeared to be in better fiscal shape than the central fund. The committee reported cash on hand of $15,419 with debts of $7,500.

The McGovern central fund has received massive loans from sympathetic businessmen including $200,000 from Xerox king Max Palevsky of Los Angeles. Miles Rubin of Malibu, a McGovern campaign adviser, also loaned the fund $75,000 and Max Factor III added another $50,000.

Major contributors who gave money outright to the South Dakota senator's campaign included musician Herb Alpert, $2,500; Eugene Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, $1,000, actors Paul Newman and Joanne Woodard, $5,000, and businessman Norman Lear of Beverly Hills, $1,000.

There was a touch of humor in some of the reports from the campaign committees. The Berkeley Community for McGovern, which raised $5,240 for its candidate, detailed its expenditures right down to $1 for ear plugs.

Arwin Moths of El Cajon, the American Independent nominee for a congressional seat in the San Diego area, reported spending $14.70 for his primary campaign in which he was unopposed.

Scribbled on his financial statement was this disclaimer, "All figures are in terms of Federal Reserve Accounting Unit 'Dollars' (FRAUDs) inasmuch as no real dollars of constitutional money were used." Dollars, he said, are "a specified quantity of silver and gold."

In other congressional reports, the campaign committee for Fortney "Pete" Stark of Danville, who defeated veteran Rep. George P. Miller, D-Alameda, in the primary election, declared expenditures for the year of $160,922 and receipts of $152,916.

The committee received a $55,000 loan from Mary A. Brunder of Chicago and a $25,000 loan from Joe B. Smoot of Walnut Creek.

Miller's report was not available.

Two committees for Rep. John Schmitz, R-Tustin, who was defeated in the primary, spent $92,544 while taking in $64,289. Schmitz is now the presidential nominee of the American Independent Party.

Committees for his successful opponent, Orange County Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw, received $81,308 and reported spending $79,949. One of Hinshaw's major contributors was San Diego businessman C. Arnholt Smith, who gave $4,000.

McGovern's Man: We'll Be Okay

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The young man charged with rallying California youth around Sen. George McGovern blames a high surf, gentle ocean breezes and warm sun for the coolness toward his candidate.

"Young people have been at the beaches, taking it easy, sunning it up. Once they come back from vacation and get the sand off their feet, we'll be okay," predicts Ron Sufrin, a UCLA economics major who is 19 and is working in his first major political campaign.

Eugene Wyman, a Beverly Hills attorney, is 48 and has been putting the touch on fat cat Democratic contributors in more campaigns than he can remember. He doesn't think the beach is the problem.

"I don't think McGovern is as well organized as he was during the primary. Nor has he the momentum," says Wyman, an important member of the Los Angeles Jewish community and pre-convention supporter of Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Like some other old-line California Democrats, Wyman is sitting out this presidential election and concentrating instead on raising money for congressional races.

Beth Labson, at 18 a Democratic candidate for the state Assembly, says: "Young people are a little skeptical of McGovern right now. They think he has lost some of his pureness." She cites the Eagleton affair and "compromises he has made."

"If you want my opinion," says one major California union leader, asking for anonymity, "McGovern would be better off if he dismantled his staff and took a two-month cruise."

With eight weeks remaining before the election, there is no question that President Nixon leads McGovern in their quest for California's 45 electoral votes, the biggest bloc in the nation.

Both camps — McGovern's perhaps hopefully, Nixon's somewhat conservatively — agree generally with the latest California Poll which shows the President out in front by 8 percentage points.

Still, this potentially surmountable lead is a far cry from the 34 point bulge enjoyed nationally by Nixon in the latest Gallup Poll. And McGovern strategists say they see signs the tide has turned in California and that this ultimately will be reflected nationwide, as political trends here so often are.

"California and the Pacific Coast generally look like one of our strongest areas," says Richard G. Stearns, 27-year-old western coordinator for McGovern. "Our biggest problem now is to assure people that the campaign has found its foot and is moving ahead."

One such issue is McGovern's recently discarded $1,000-a-head income redistribution plan. Stearns says after the California primary, which the South Dakotan won by less than 5 percentage points, a private poll found that the $1,000 scheme "was probably the most unpopular issue associated with McGovern."

"It caused more disaffection than anything else," he says.

McGovern was encouraged by visits last week to two traditionally Democratic groups — the Jewish community and organized labor —which have not been overly enthusiastic about his candidacy.

The senator drew standing gvations from the Southern California Board of Rabbis when he charged that Egypt and Lebanon were chiefly responsible for the Olympic killings, and was endorsed by the International Association of Machinists at its annual convention.

A year ago it appeared Nixon could be hurt by sagging unemployment. But since then the California unemployment rate has improved from 7.1 to 5.8 per cent. And aerospace employment is on the upswing.

Nixon, meantime, probably has the smoothest campaign operation in modern California political history. Money and party unity are no problems. And Nixon youth director Gary Hunt, 23, reports no trouble recruiting young volunteers — even off the beaches.

"We just hope our people don't become overconfident. If they start thinking we've got it in the bag, we're in trouble," says Lyn Nofziger, former communications director for the Republican National Committee who is Nixon's California campaign director.

Pornography Readers Are 'Well Educated'

ATLANTA (UPI) — People who read pornography tend to be well-educated, well-read, and socially and politically active, according to Dr. W. Cody Wilson, an expert on the subject.

Dr. Wilson, former executive director of the U.S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, also said non-religious, young married men are the type most likely to be a consumer of pornographic material.

Dr. Wilson told the Medical Association of Atlanta that nobody has been able to pinpoint the reasons why, but said, "I would guess that the type of person as described has more social contact, and would frequent places where there is less inhibition toward sex."

Wilson said the commission's report, the recommendations of which were rejected by the President and the Senate, changed many concepts concerning pornography's effect on the American citizen.

He said it was found that the sex criminal's exposure to pornography during childhood and subsequent years was "very, very low, and in many cases, almost nil."

Wilson said studies do indicate that there may be positive connection between moral depravity and pornography.

"But what we can't determine right now is what comes first—the pornography or the moral depravity," he said. "We tend to think that the person might have been morally depraved before he ever discovered pornography."

Wilson also said he felt most children were sexually educated at the age of about 13.

"By the time they reach 15, it's old stuff to them, or they are a little embarrasse," he said.

"But adults need to be sex educated as much as the child," Wilson said. He suggested that children and their parents be taught in the same sex education class.

"Another disturbing thought is that most clergymen, lawyers and teachers who are supposed to be sex counselors are actually in need of sex education themselves," he said.

Gets Death Sentence For Stealing Eels

TAIPEI (UPI)—The Yunlin District Court in central Taiwan Wednesday sentenced to death Ling Chao, 40, for being the mastermind in the armed robbery of more than 100,000 baby eels.

The eels were valued at $20,000 and were stolen at gunpoint from an eel farm. Seven accomplices in the holdup were each sentenced to two years imprisonment.
